TAKE A DEEP BREATH: Two unidentified Keeler township firemen are shown giving oxygen to sheep overcome by smoke in barn fire early last night at Frank Neff farm, just west of Keeler on Territorial road. Firemen used heart massage and gave oxygen in saving three sheep. But fire in 40 by 30-foot metal barn killed six goats and caused about $3,500 in damage, according to Mrs. Neff. She said 6:18 p.m.

blaze may have been caused by 100-watt bulb she was using to keep mother goat and three new-born kids warm. Barn held about 35 goats and eight sheep, firemen said. Junior Bogart, assistant Keeler

Congress 'Simplifying' Taxes Again

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Six months after changing the nation's tax laws in a way that resulted in a record number of taxpayer errors, Congress is talking "simplification" again.

This time, the lawmakers say, they really mean it. The House has passed and the Senate Finance Committee is considering a new method of tax-computation that the Treasury Department says will make the annual taxpaying process easier for 96 per cent of the population. It will result in a longer but far simpler tax form, the experts say. The changes are part of a big tax-cut bill, including $50-per-person rebates, that the finance committee expects to approve this week.

The full Senate, meanwhile, hopes to complete work on a bill that would require senators to disclose their finances and would limit the income they could earn above their congressional salaries. And in the House, debate begins Wednesday on a hotly disputed bill that would allow unions to picket an entire construction site, even though they have grievances with only one subcontractor. Similar legislation was vetoed last year by then-President Gerald Ford. President Carter has said he would sign such a measure. The tax bill being written by the Senate Finance Committee originally was proposed by Carter mainly as a method of stimulating the economy. But he also recommended simplification of individual tax-filing after the Internal Revenue Service reported a sharp increase in errors on returns filed this year. A large number of those errors are mathematical mistakes traceable to the computation of the standard deduction, used by those who don't itemize deductions. The simplification that Congress expects to pass this year would do away with that computation in almost all cases.

Congress is partially to blame for many of those errors because last year it made massive changes in tax laws that many members now concede left the situation even more complicated than before.

None of the changes in the current tax bill would affect 1976 tax returns, which must be filed by April 15 of this year. The simplification changes would be used a year from now when 1977 returns are filed. The key part of the proposed simplification would, in effect, do away with the separate standard deduction. The deduc-tion would be built directly into the tax tables, along with the personal exemptions and the just by looking at a table. The only factor in determining what table to use would be the number of exemptions he claims. The only computations would be to subtract any moving expenses, employee business expenses and tax-free retirement-account payments from total income to arrive at adjusted gross income.

The changes also would simplify things for the 31 per cent who now itemize deductions. Their only computation above that required of non-

Standard Deduction CURRENT LAW

1. Write down adjusted gross income ($15,000).
2. Compute standard deduction, which is 16 per cent of income but not less than $2,100 or more than $2,800 ($2,400).
3. Subtract deduction from income ($12,600).

New Study Cooler On Nuclear Power

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States should change its official thinking about nuclear energy and realize it is unlikely to become a crucial power source until well into the 21st century, a panel of leading scientists and economists said today.

In a major new nuclear power study funded by the Ford Foundation, the independent panel urged a de-emphasis on civilian use of plutonium and said the country should realize "that the world is not running out of energy."

The panel included former California Institute of Technology President Harold Brown, now secretary of defense.

In its 418-page report, the Nuclear Energy Policy Study Group said:

—President Carter should postpone indefinitely plans for reprocessing plutonium from spent reactor fuel because the material can be diverted too easily for use in atomic weapons.

—Development of the controversial $12-billion plutonium breeder reactor program should be postponed and a prototype model to be constructed at Clinch River, Tenn., should be abandoned entirely.

—Strengthened security is necessary at nuclear power plants because present safeguards do "not appear adequate to meet the potential threats of terrorism."

—The government should retain control of uranium enrichment technology rather than sharing it with private industry, as former administrations have advocated.

—Because supplies of uranium and other energy sources are greater than is realized, the government should drop plans for recycling spent nuclear fuel and should bury waste in permanent deep-storage sites.

"While nuclear power is one of the options that should be pursued, it is not as critical to future economic development as its advocates claim," said the study team, headed by Spurgeon M. Keeny Jr., director of policy for the MITRE Corp.

"Nuclear power is not crucial, at least not until well into the next century."

Ex-Allegan Woman Air Search Target

TULSA, Okla. — Kathy Anne Brown, 22, a 1972 Allegan high school graduate, and a wealthy suburban housewife for whom she worked, are targets of an air search planned for today by police here, according to Associated Press.

Miss Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brown of rural Allegan, was believed to have been with Kendal Ashmore when Mrs. Ashmore was kidnapped Thursday and held for $500,000 ransom.

Officials said an air search would begin at dawn and be coordinated with foot patrols.

Miss Brown grew up around horses. The family lives in a rural area and she owns Morgan horses.

The press service reported that Miss Brown and Mrs. Ashmore met a few years ago at a national Morgan horse competition. Miss Brown came to live with the Ashmores last summer to help care for and train the horses was named one of the top 10 in the country at the Grand National Morgan Horse Show in Detroit recently.

The two women were together when the abduction occurred, but Mrs. Ashmore apparently was the target. The kidnappers haven't mentioned Miss Brown in the three telephone calls they made to Ashmore, police said.

Both women were described by friends as friendly and warm, both ardent lovers of horses and riding competition.

Associated Press reported a 32-year-old man was arrested near Tulsa Saturday about six hours after the kidnaper or kidnappers failed to pick up the money.

The money, in two canvas sacks, had been delivered by Mrs. Ashmore's husband, Philip, Friday night to an old rodeo arena four blocks from the arrested man's residence.

S.M. Falls Jr., Tulsa County district attorney, said the arrested man would be arraigned and charged with kidnapping today.

Authorities said Sunday they have drawn a blank so far in the search for Mrs. Ashmore, 36, wife of a Tulsa area builder and Miss Brown since Ashmore's attempt to deliver the ransom fell through.

"I keep thinking what would Kendal would do in a situation like this," a friend said. "She's a smart lady, but I don't know I don't guess anyone knows what they'd do in a situation like this until it happens."

Ashmore is president of Ashland Development Co. developer of land holdings, a builder and seller of homes.

Lawyer-Farmer Leads Tax Revolt

By LARRY McDERMOTT
Associated Press Writer

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — It's not exactly the Boston Tea Party, but a young lawyer-farmer in southern Michigan is stirring up a heady brew of revolt on behalf of angry farmers who say they're being taxed out of business. Farmers in largely rural Hillsdale County have banded together 2,000-strong to form Hillsdale County Citizens for Reasonable Taxation. They say county property tax assessments on farmland are unfairly based on current land sales. As a result, they say, farmers are being forced to sell large blocks of land to pay the taxes.

Their leader is a 31-year-old product of the University of Detroit law school who holds an agriculture degree for Purdue University.

Michael Nye grew up on a farm in southern Indiana, then went to Purdue. Drafted by the Army to become a veterinarian, he instead was sent to law school. After his discharge, Nye settled in Hillsdale. A few years ago he and his wife, Marcie, began farming 120 acres they bought and another 280 acres they rented. He also entered a general law practice with a partner.

Two years ago, the property taxes in Hillsdale County began to jump. A county-wide assessment increase of 23 per cent was ordered last year, including a whopping 57 per cent jump in Ransom Township. Another 12 per cent increase is set for this year. That was the last straw, farmers said.

"We're not upset about paying taxes. It's throwing these constant increases on the farmers that we're fighting. It's making them sell the land they love just to pay unfair taxes," Nye said. Nye has filed a nine-count complaint in Hillsdale County Circuit Court alleging the assessment methods of county supervisors are illegal. And, in a novel approach, he told the court that the assessments violate the state's Environmental Protection Act of 1970.

"Farmland is a natural resource. Through these high assessments, the county is forcing the farmer to sell this natural resource in violation of the act," Nye said. "You have people who sell their property in an affluent part of the state for $2,000 an acre and come down here and have no qualms about paying $2,000 an acre, when the land isn't worth even half that much," he added.

Nye said county supervisors are illegally basing assessments on land sales rather than how much farmers earn off the land. The county plans to collect $8.1 million in taxes this year, an increase of nearly $1 million compared with last year. Some farmers are refusing to pay their taxes, placing money instead in an escrow account until the dispute is settled. Others symbolically are wearing tea bags pinned to their lapels and attaching tea bags to their tax bills. County officials concede collections "are not as good as last year."

Traditionally, taxpayer revolts in Michigan have been a lot of talk with little or no results. But Nye is optimistic about this one. "It's growing every day. We're getting lots of letters of support. Counties surrounding us want to join, and — most important — we believe we are on good legal ground," he said.

GOP Could Grab Two Senate Seats

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

Republicans will try to cut into the Democratic majority in the state Senate this week as voters select new senators in two special elections.

Democrats acknowledge they are underdogs in one race, and that the other, in a normally Democratic district, is closer than expected.

Democrats now hold a 22-13 edge in the Senate, with three vacancies. Two of the empty seats are up for election Wednesday, one previously held by a Republican and the other by a Democrat. The third, held by a Democrat before, is slated for a primary election next week and a general election April 19.

If Republicans could take both seats Wednesday, they would have one more member than they did when the present Senate was elected in 1974. They won 14 seats then.

Both races feature state representatives seeking to move up to the Senate. If they succeed, then special elections will be held to fill the House seats they vacate.

In the 29th district, Rep. Harold Scott, D-Flint, is the logical favorite to win the seat of former Democratic Sen. Dale Kildee, who was elected to Congress. The area is heavily influenced by labor, especially the United Auto Workers.

But Scott is reportedly in a close fight with Grand Blanc Township Supervisor William Delaney, and Democrats fear that public boredom with the mid-year election could produce a low turnout that would hurt Scott's chances.

"In a special election, everybody's got a chance," noted state Democratic Chairman Morley Winograd.

Scott, 38, was first elected to the legislature in 1974. He is a University of Michigan graduate and was a teacher for 11 years. He defeated six other Democrats in the primary, including a young, liberal state representative, Mark Clodfelter, D-Flint.

Delaney, 36, has been township supervisor since 1974. A native of Marshall and a Western Michigan University graduate, he worked for Buick Division for 10 years.

In the 14th district in western Wayne County, state Rep. Robert Geake, R-Northville, is favored over Redford Township Supervisor Patrick McDonald, a Democrat. Winograd said, however, polls show the race will be close.

The two are seeking the Senate seat given up by Carl Pursell, a Plymouth Republican, who was elected to Congress.

Geake, 40, is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is an educational psychologist. He was first elected to the House in 1972.

McDonald, a 29-year-old attorney, is a native of Bad Axe and a graduate of the University of Detroit Law School. He was first elected supervisor in 1974.

The third Senate vacancy is the seat of former Sen. John Bowman, a Democrat who resigned to become a lobbyist.

SENATE DEBATING TAX BREAK

Downtown Business Aid Sought

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Senate committee has started debate on legislation that would encourage development of downtown areas by giving a tax break to businesses that are modernized or rebuilt.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, is designed to help businesses restore rundown establishments without fear of getting hit with a hefty tax increase.

Under DeMaso's bill as now written, a business could spend money on replacement or restoration without incurring a tax hike because of the increased value of the structure. And a new business could be exempted from half of its property tax Committee. DeMaso said he will continue technical work on the measure this week, although it is not likely to see a committee vote soon.

Meanwhile, the full Senate has little action slated for this week. The House is scheduled to begin discussions on a package of bills to crack down on drug kingpins, and the House Appropriations Committee may vote on a bill to lower the permitted levels of PBB in food.

Under DeMaso's bill as now written, a business could spend money on replacement or restoration without incurring a tax hike because of the increased value of the structure. And a new business could be exempted from half of its property tax after it moved to a new location. It would be up to the local unit of government to grant the exemption, and it would run for 12 years.

"Most downtown areas are shabby," DeMaso said. "They need to be modernized and brought up to date. It would have a tremendous impact in areas where there is a reluctance of a store owner to do anything with his store because of a heavy tax burden."

But Doug Roberts, acting director of the state Office of Revenue and Tax Analysis in the Department of Management and Budget, was skeptical of the measure as drafted.

He said communities could use the measure to vie for business and "raid" each other by offering tax breaks. "It's just not in the interest of the state to have one unit competing with another," he said.

Roberts added, however, that the administration would eye

the bill with more favor if it were limited to downtown areas and restricted to existing stores so it would not be used to attract businesses from other communities.

"We're not opposed to revitalization," he said. "If the goal is to help decaying cities, we're interested."

DeMaso said he would be willing to alter the bill, including a limit on how much property could be exempted from increased taxes, what types of businesses would be eligible, and in what areas the program would be used.

'Bart' Points Way To Missing Pair

SOUTH HAVEN — With the help of a state police tracking dog, two young South Haven children missing nearly six hours were found unharmed Saturday. Trooper Laure MacDonald and his tracking dog, Bart, of the Paw Paw post, found Tammy Wakild, 8, and Regina Planinc, 9, under a loading dock at Michigan Fruit Canners Co. here, about a mile from their homes. Both children wandered away from the trailer park where they live around lunchtime Saturday. The pair said they hid under the loading dock after becoming lost and scared. Tammy is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Pulliam and Regina is the daughter of Mrs. Tom Cagle.

He'll Probe In Coldwater

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee said he will hold a hearing in Coldwater to investigate charges of mismanagement at the Coldwater State Home for the mentally retarded. Sen. John Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, said the hearing will be held March 31. He said his office has received a number of complaints about improprieties at the home. The complaints charged there was a double standard of discipline at the home.

WEAPONS SEIZED: State police at Benton Harbor post said these weapons were seized at 4:45 p.m. Saturday from pickup truck parked at Watervliet rest area off I-94. Occupant of truck Earl J. Barnaby, 28, Tucson, Ariz., was booked on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and violating conservation law (carrying uncased gun). Reported seized were 16 gauge shotgun, .357 magnum revolver, knife, shells, karate sticks and metal "stars," described as throwing-type weapons. Arrest was by Trooper Michael Parker of South Haven post, assigned to state police special traffic enforcement program (STEP). Post said Parker on routine patrol investigated after seeing shotgun propped up inside truck. Weapons were held at Benton Harbor post. (Staff photo)

Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Most famous and elegant of all historic villages, Williamsburg was Virginia's capital from 1699 to 1779. Today the clock has been turned back permanently to the Revolutionary period, the town's liveliest and most historic time. Many fascinating events were played against the backdrop of the bustling town's cobblestone streets and red brick buildings. Patrick Henry demanded redress from the British in the House of Burgesses, now faithfully restored. At the weathered Raleigh Tavern you can sample George Washington's favorite ale.

When you visit, take time at first for the short film that sets the stage for your tour. Then wander along the once-fashionable Duke of Gloucester Street, enjoy the colonial muster on the green, nibble ginger cookies fresh and hot from colonial ovens and let weavers, potters and other craftsmen show you their 200-year old skills. The flavor of the colonial period is so rich you half-expect to bump into Tom Jefferson rounding the next corner.

There isn't room to list all the many excellent historic villages now located around the U.S. The following are just a few more that are extra-special.

Medicare List Means HEW Needs A Doctor

Numerous studies have pinpointed overpayments and other inefficiencies of the Medicare program, but the Department of Health, Education and Welfare itself revealed the scope of the problem when it issued its latest list of doctors, medical groups and laboratories receiving more than $100,000 each in Medicare payments for the year 1975.

Although the list contained the names of only 409 physicians, 1,752 groups and 58 laboratories, complaints of inaccuracies by the dozens began pouring in almost immediately and prompted HEW to announce it would recheck its records.

Among the errors disclosed within hours after the list was issued were a number of doctors who had retired before 1975 and thus collected nothing during that year. One of the worst examples of that was a Pittsburgh physician who supposedly collected more than $715,000 in Medicare payments. The only problem with that is the individual has been retired for 20 years, is living in Honolulu and was himself a Medicare patient during 1975.

The president of the 8,700 member Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS) issued a strong verbal blast at HEW for its poor handling of the list.

Robert M. Leitch, M.D., Battle Creek, said in a telegram to Joseph Califano, secretary of HEW, "If we're going to have 'government in sunshine' laws, the government should make sure that sunshine isn't being filtered through a haze of bureaucratic innuendo and inaccuracy."

A check by the MSMS revealed that of all the names on the Michigan list, only three M.D.s were in solo practices and their figures were inaccurate. All the rest of the names were physicians who practice in multi-doctor groups and who were singled out as the recipient of large Medicare payments.

"HEW, the wire services and all the media which published or broadcast these names without ascertaining the accuracy of the list have maligned and unfairly damaged the reputations of these physicians whether they treat patients covered by government programs or not," said Dr. Leitch.

"While the information may have been released under the guise of sunshine laws, the information contained no reference to alleged wrongdoing or fraud, yet the very nature of such raw data provided without comment or explanation tends to imply as much," Dr. Leitch asserted.

"Is it any wonder physicians are unhappy with government medicine when they are unjustly immunized by the bureaucrats administering the programs? Doctors are frequently damned for allegedly not accepting Medicare or Medicaid patients. Now those who do treat the poor and the aged are damned by insinuation," added Dr. Leitch.

Nobody is perfect, the saying goes, but HEW does seem to go out of its way to prove the point.

Vance And His Boss Operate Differently

Cyrus Vance is a careful man who seldom gets caught with his foot in his mouth. He leaves that to others. So when Vance visits Moscow this week for discussions on the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT), he is unlikely to make many public statements on the subject of human rights in the Soviet Union.

Vance's circumspect approach was evident in the midst of the Soviet uproar over President Carter's letter to Russian dissident Andrei Sakharov. The United States, Vance said, will speak out for human rights "when we regard it as desirable." But in areas where the national interest dictates another approach, we will "practice quiet diplomacy."

The Russians have made it clear that the quieter the diplomacy on matters of human rights the better. Carter's letter to Sakharov, his meeting with exiled Soviet dissident Vladimir Bukovsky and other pronouncements elicited a chilly Soviet response. There have been numerous warnings from Soviet officials that such "overt interference" in the domestic affairs of the USSR will destroy détente and impede the conclusion of any agreement on strategic arms.

Carter seems to be proving the pundits wrong, or at least those who predicted that while he might alter the style of U.S.-Soviet relations he would not change the substance of the policy of former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. The President's stress on human rights is indicative of a substantial policy change.

Kissinger's détente was based largely on "linkages." It involved bringing the Russians into a host of agreements on nuclear and conventional arms, trade and scientific and cultural exchanges. These agreements, it was argued, would give the Soviets a stake in preserving the peace and not disrupting Kissinger's desired international "stability." They were to be arrived at through "quiet diplomacy" or an updated version of Teddy Roosevelt's "Speak softly and carry a big stick."

Strict adherence to human rights was not given high priority.

Defenders of the quiet diplomacy approach contend that it was far more effective in reducing repression. Their favorite example is the emigration of Soviet Jews. "With cajolery, seduction and devious diplomacy," wrote columnist Henry L. Trehwitt, Kissinger "had raised the emigration level to 40,000 a year by 1974." Then came the so-called Jackson amendment to the Foreign Trade Act of 1974, coupling U.S. credits and lower tariff barriers with Soviet emigration policies. The Russians reacted by nullifying the U.S.-Soviet trade agreement and "Jewish emigration plummeted by two-thirds and has remained down."

The impact of the administration's outspoken support for human rights has become a matter of considerable controversy. Carter himself acknowledged that as far as the Soviet Union is concerned, "I can't go in with armed forces and try to change the internal mechanism of the Soviet government." Given this limitation, will continuing criticism of human rights violations so threaten Soviet authority, particularly in increasingly volatile Eastern Europe, that Russian leaders will allow the SALT I agreement to expire in October and crack down even more on dissidents? Or does Moscow want a strategic arms agreement so badly that it will ignore or play down American criticism? Vance will be seeking answers to these questions when he meets with Soviet leaders.

We've Got To Find Better Answers!

Big Crop Of Potholes

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The second half of winter's one-two punch for motorists comes this spring with a worse-than-normal crop of chuckholes. The state Department of Highways and Transportation said that the bill for repairing chuckholes in Michigan highways will reach a record $3 million. Repairs on county roads and city streets will be millions more. The chuckholes will be more numerous because of the unusually deep frost penetration in the record cold winter, said Tom Wiseman, chief maintenance engineer for the highway department. Chuckholes occur when water trapped under the road surface freezes and expands — lifting up the surface. Then the water thaws and contracts, leaving a bubble of pavement with air beneath it. Car tires push in the bubble and a hole results.

U-M Willing To Donate

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The University of Michigan will give 26 acres of land to the federal government if the site is selected for the main research facility of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health. U-M Regents said the site on North Campus could be used for the federal agency, a division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The institute is currently located in several buildings in Cincinnati. Congress has allocated funds for the design of a new research facility to consolidate the institute and study a possible location. The final report of the site selection study is expected next month.

Vacancies Created By Recall

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has appointed six members to the Ecorse School District board of education. They agreed to accept the appointments on an interim basis until a special election can be called. The vacancies were created by a recall. None of the appointees were on the board at the time of the recall. They are Pauline Callahan, Chester Fleming, Ida Holmes, Kathleen Horn, Aniceto Muniz and Arthur Williams, all of Ecorse.

"Desire is the No. 1 requisite of a good athlete." That's what some 80 athletes from St. Joseph's two high schools were told last night by Hugh Daugherty, Michigan State college line coach, who addressed the annual St. Joseph Elks club all-sports banquet. Nearly 300 attended last night's event at which the public and Catholic high school varsity letter winners and coaches were honored guests.

Benton Harbor's new federal postoffice building won't be erected in 1927, but 1928 is quite likely to see actual construction under way. This is the local postoffice situation as it exists today and as Congressman John C. Keichman, of this district, sees it. The postoffice will be built at the corner of Sixth and Territorial. At the present time the site is occupied by Mat Thar's Federal filling station and auto parking space. Two years ago Mr. Thar leased the land from the government pending the time when Uncle Sam desired to erect his Benton Harbor "home."

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

MIXED REACTION FOR DOG WARDENS

Editor, I was quite interested in the letter from Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schulz of New Buffalo re: the cocker spaniel that was shot by the dog warden.

I hope we never get this man as dog warden on the Sheriff's Department for Berrien County. Such a callous attitude I could not believe, about the shooting of the dog. When I read about children playing in the area, it was worse.

His final snarl about getting these people a citation was the worst cut of all!

I have a small beagle who seems to be able to outsmart me in many ways. I believe he has a mileage record in the dog warden's truck. But the Berrien County Sheriff's patrol has been wonderful, helping to find him when he wanders too far. Once I lost him while starting out for a vacation trip. I called the dog warden, who was soon there with my little dog. I paid the fee, gladly. He (the warden) wouldn't take even a cup of coffee, offered to show my appreciation!

I think that Mr. Kuiper could take a few lessons from the Sheriff's Department in human feelings, thereby making more friends for a group of men who are doing a tough job with little thanks!

EDITOR'S NOTE: The dog wardens mentioned in this letter are all under command of Al Kuiper, chief Berrien county dog warden.

Congress Bosses Use The Whip

WASHINGTON — An old sport, long out of fashion, has been reintroduced on Capitol Hill this year by House Speaker Tip O'Neill and Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd. The name of the game is hardball.

It's not a whole new genre: Sam Hayburn and Lyndon Johnson were all-star players in their day. But they've been gone for many a year, and congressional Democrats had more or less forgotten what it's like to have leaders who occasionally dust off the batter and nail unwary runners at first base.

O'Neill and Byrd could hardly be more different in style and personality, but they share an appetite for power and an eagerness to exercise it in a fashion never attempted by their immediate predecessors, Carl Albert and Mike Mansfield.

In less than three months, the garrulous Boston Irishman and dour West Virginian have clearly established their supremacy in the House and Senate and, in the process, have shown the new boy in the White House who is boss on Capitol Hill.

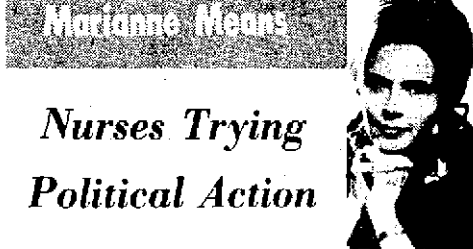

The two leaders are ubiquitous and indefatigable. All day long, they are talking to their colleagues — soliciting information, stroking, cajoling and counting their votes. O'Neill and Byrd abhor surprises; they don't intend to be blindsided and are taking every precaution to insure that they aren't.

Both collected some valuable chips from their colleagues by taking the heat for sliding through last month's $13,000 congressional pay raises without a roll call vote.

O'Neill quickly collected the due bill when some Democrats on the House Rules Committee got balky about the stringent new ethics code he had pledged to produce. He hauled the recalcitrant Rules members into his office, reminded them they owed him for one fat pay raise and threatened to blow the whistle on them on the floor if they didn't produce. He got his ethics package — intact.

Byrd demonstrated his clout in the Senate in similar fashion when some uppity liberals tried to challenge Russell Long's chairmanship of the Senate Finance Committee in a secret ballot vote of the Democratic caucus.

O'Neill and Byrd are bound to face internal challenges to their authority as the session goes on. No leader can keep a tight rein on all those galloping egos forever. But neither the speaker nor the Senate majority leader is likely to lose many fights, and Carter had best speak nicely to both of them if he wants to get his programs through Congress.

WASHINGTON — There are one million registered nurses and 450,000 licensed practical nurses in this country, and only 380,000 doctors.

The doctors, who average income is approximately $48,000 a year, have long been the dominant outside factor shaping government health policy. The nurses, who earn an average of $9,000 a year, have had the least to say of any group of health professionals about government policy, even though numerically they are the largest such group.

The disparity stems not so much from the difference in job prestige and education but from the efforts of the American Medical Association, which is one of the most powerful national lobbying organizations. Common Cause has identified the AMA Political Action Committee as the single largest contributor to congressional campaign funding in 1974 and again in 1976. Of 1183 donations, 46 are affiliated with AMA.

The American Nurses Association (ANA), by contrast, has historically been too timid or too naive to get involved in political action.

Therein lies a story. Two years ago, a group of nurses in New York decided they were tired of being taken for granted and appealed to ANA to get busy and raise the political blood pressure of nurses. However, the ANA ignored them, so they set up a rump organization and attempted to go into politics.

When the fledgling unit floundered in legal problems, the ANA, finally aroused, agreed to take over. It created the first nurses' political action committee, with a $80,000 budget. Val Fleischacker, a legislative aide for Rep. Don Fraser, D-Minn., became its director and chief everything, with a total staff of one secretary.

The ANA remained somewhat nervous about the whole idea, but Fleischacker plunged ahead. In a year the committee raised $40,000 from nurses in small contributions, mostly below $200, and made its first political donations in the 1976 congressional races. Compared to the AMA and more established political action funds, the nurses are still a tiny factor. But now at least some congressmen and women know they are around.

The nurses group, called N-CAP (Nurses Coalition for Action in Politics) contributed small amounts to 95 candidates. In addition, they endorsed 189 congressional candidates with a formal letter. More than 80 per cent of those endorsed and more than 80 per cent of those to whom the group contributed were elected.

What the nurses have finally done is typical of concerned special interest groups across the country. "If nobody knows you're around," Fleischacker says, "they won't do anything for you."

She knows the nurses are still a day late and a dollar short. The AMA, for instance, is working hard to block a measure which would allow nurses for the first time to be reimbursed for work done without a doctor's supervision. The odds are the AMA will succeed.

But at least such a bill was introduced for the first time and a hearing was held.

Loudermilk Sees Nashville Tragedies

By RICHARD H. LOWE
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Fighting a losing battle against self-control, country-folk singer John D. Loudermilk has forsaken frivolity of an earlier era and channeled his energy toward his family.

"I have seen so many tragedies in this town in the music business," he said. "It's no one's fault. It's just the way it is — the big car, the big house, just all the trappings.

"If I had stayed around here, I know I would've burned myself out. I've watched it ruin guy after guy after guy."

Loudermilk, 42, a native of Durham, N.C., lived and recorded his music here for 15 years, before divorcing, remarrying and traveling to Europe with his three sons in 1971.

Hits like "Tobacco Road," "I Wanna Live," "Waterloo" and "Abilene" are among the 600 he has written. Some have been recorded by Waylon Jennings, Perry Como, Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra and the Jefferson Airplane.

When they returned from Europe, Loudermilk and his family moved to Lafayette, La.

"We wanted a place that was warm and semi-tropical," he said. "We wanted to get out of the mainstream."

That's when he turned attention to his family.

"I've been through a lot of things that have been other than songwriting and sometimes I wonder if that has been the better part of my judgment," he said.

"My family is the most important thing to me. It used not to be. One point when I was much younger, Nashville was my playground, but as I grew older I realized that a family is all you have."

Loudermilk spends nearly all his time with his songwriting and his family, his wife, Susan and his sons, John Jr., 19, Rick, 18, and Mike, 16.

"My rocks turned over in my head," he said. "I only had these kids and that's the only way that I could help the next generation. It's more important than writing, even more important than making speeches or carrying signs or doing whatever."

Loudermilk said it took him years to conquer the way of life in the music business here.

"It was mostly hedonistic foolishness. It was materialistic," he said. "It was the accumulation of petty toys, and I've been through all of that. When you go through it and take a look at it, you realize just how foolish it is.

"I didn't have a lick of sense until I was 30. There were general interplanetary truths, facts of life, that had not even crossed my mind until I was 30."

Every summer, Loudermilk and his family crawl into their trailer and travel. They have visited every state in the nation, plus Mexico, Germany, France, England, Italy, Spain and East Germany. The songwriter said he wants to take his family to Russia and China in the near future.

His sons collected mounds of scrapbooks, offering them an understanding of other cultures and ways of life.

"From that I hope they've learned in a short amount of time what took me a long time to learn," Loudermilk said.

He said he has tried to broaden his sons' minds through education in various schools. They have attended Catholic, British and small country schools. Loudermilk hopes his youngest son will attend a Jewish school shortly to increase his association with different religions.

Whirlpool's '76 Tax Bill Listed At $100.5 Million

Whirlpool Corporation's total 1976 tax bill was $100.5 million. The Communicator, a publication of Whirlpool's St. Joseph division, reported in its March 17 issue that $15.7 million went for state and local taxes, $66.8 million to the federal government for income taxes, and $18 million as payroll taxes for social security and unemployment compensation. The Communicator reported payment of taxes required the company to file 1,700 separate tax forms. Taxes are Whirlpool's third largest expense, exceeded only by labor and materials costs. Whirlpool operates nine divisions in six states with corporate headquarters on North Shore drive, Benton township.

Mexican Trip Led By Legend Hunter

By ALICE KOCH
Stevensville Correspondent

Romain Wilhelmsen, referred to by his peers as "the legend hunter," lived up to the title Sunday as he led the Travel and Adventure series audience into the more mysterious places of Mexico seeking the history of that country.

Twin City Camera club will present "Viva Mexico" again today and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the St. Joseph high school auditorium.

Wilhelmsen divides his travelogue into two parts, the known and the unknown. He first visits the modern cities, historical landmarks and sunny beaches and resort areas. He then travels to parts never before or seldom explored mainly due to the rough terrain.

The photographer visits a 300-year-old monastery which has been converted into a hotel in Taxco. The government, he said, has designated the city a national shrine and forbids the building of new structures or the demolition of old ones.

One might think the largest pyramid in the world would be found in Egypt, but no so as Wilhelmsen points out when he visits it in Cholula. It is one of many found in Mexico and those in Palique, also seen on the tour, have given archaeologists reason to continue probing for more answers.

Mexico City, the country's capital and largest city, next on the tour, has a combination of old and new as is seen in the Plaza of the Three Cultures. Grouped together are Indian pyramids, an old church built by the Spaniards and a modern housing project.

Traveling down the west coast, visits are made in Acapulco, Puerto Vallarta and Mazatlan that are not only an attraction to the vacationer but are fast becoming popular to the retiree. Prices there are compared to those in Florida in the 1920's.

In the resort city of Chihuahua, Wilhelmsen boards a train to take him to the northern parts of the country. The railroad, he said, was built by the government in an effort to bring civilization to the hard to reach areas.

Living in this uncivilized area the photographer finds the Tarahumara Indians, known to be the purest tribe in the country. Marriage outside the tribe is forbidden and if one chooses to do so he or she must leave.

Wilhelmsen, in search of historic objects that will prove the country's legend, concludes his visit at the Valley of the Caves where he finds a helmet and breast plate worn by a Spanish soldier in the early 1500's.

Many such treasures, he said, are lying in these undiscovered places just waiting to be found by the explorer.

Petitions Oppose SJ Twp. Manager

BY NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Petitions signed by at least 240 St. Joseph township residents opposing creation of a township manager post will be presented to the township board tonight, according to George Dixel, a retired businessman.

Dixel, of 3347 Maple lane, said the petition he wrote and circulated and other petitions given to him list several reasons for opposition. Dixel said "if they need a manager, let the people vote on it."

Dixel said he personally has nothing against Isadore DiMaggio, the township's treasurer whose appointment as manager was unanimously approved, with one member absent, at the March 7 township board meeting.

Supervisor Orval Benson asked that he be relieved of most of the management chores of his office and that those duties be given to a township manager. DiMaggio said his salary will be about $21,000 a year. He is scheduled to begin the job April 1.

Benson's salary as supervisor is $13,500. There has been no mention at a board meeting of any cut in pay when Benson's duties are reduced.

Tonight's meeting of the township board will begin at 7:30 at Fairplain West school, 1901 Fairplain avenue.

SJ Man Hurt In Smashup

Berrien sheriff's deputies said a St. Joseph man was injured Saturday when his auto went out of control and struck a bridge pillar on the Cleveland avenue overpass at I-94, Lincoln township.

Treated and released from Memorial hospital was Roger E. Stevens, 21, of 723 Hoyt street. Deputies said Stevens was northbound on Cleveland. Stevens was ticketed for careless driving, deputies said.

Coloma School Board Meeting Tonight At 8

COLOMA — A special meeting of the Coloma school board has been called for tonight, beginning at 8, by Marshall Badt, school board president. The meeting will be held in the F.J. Merritt administration building, Boyer road, Coloma.

SJ School Board Plans Special Meet

St. Joseph School Supt. Burton R. Aldrich said a special meeting of the board of education will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, March 28, at Jefferson school, to consider possible layoffs from transfer of Gard and Bellweather special education programs to the Berrien intermediate school district.

Details of the possible layoffs of about 15 teachers were reported earlier in The Herald-Palladium. Aldrich also said that because of the upcoming spring vacation, the regular April meeting of the board of education will be at 7 p.m. Monday, April 18, at Lincoln school. The regular meetings are normally held the second Monday of the month. Aldrich said the board's workshop session, normally held on the first Monday of each month, will not be held in April.

An organization has been formed in Berrien county to combat child abuse and neglect.

The Berrien County Child Abuse and Neglect Task Force states its purpose as assisting victims of child abuse as well as people who commit child abuse.

Membership is open to the public and volunteers are now being sought, according to Mrs. Marilyn Boehm, of Berrien Springs, a spokesman for the group.

The organization meets once a month at the Berrien county juvenile detention home in Berrien Center.

Many task force members represent local and state agencies that deal with problems of child abuse and neglect. Organizations represented include the Berrien county health department, the social services department, state police, juvenile court, the LINK crisis intervention center, the Riverwood mental health center and various schools and hospitals in the area.

The task force's goals are to educate the community on child abuse, coordinate existing programs, initiate new programs and facilitate the immediate delivery of services. Its chairman is Mrs. Margaret Clarke of Niles.

The group has also been instrumental in forming a Twin Cities chapter of Parents Anonymous. The chapter is made of people who have abused their children and are seeking support from others to prevent it from happening again, according to Mrs. Boehm.

There is also a helpline telephone people can call if they feel they are on the verge of abusing a child.

The number is 927-4447. "If we could get people to call us before they start pounding on their kids, we could help them," Mrs. Boehm said.

Mrs. Boehm said reported cases of suspected child abuse in the area have increased in the past few years.

She said Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, reported 14 suspected cases in 1974, 34 in 1975 and 68 in 1976. Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, reported three cases in 1974, six in 1975 and 11 in 1976.

EASTER SEAL PROGRAM: Handicraft is one of several activities physically handicapped adults and children participate in at Berrien county Easter Seal Society center in St. Joseph. Here, crafts are being made during center's weekly recreation program for adults. Examining craft item is Mrs. Lulika Ampey, center's recreational director. Looking on is Mrs. Carol Haynes, R.N., program coordinator.

Easter Seal Society Fund Drive Seeks $30,600 Goal

A goal of $30,600 has been set for this year's Easter Seal drive now underway in Berrien county, according to Mrs. Maria Depuydt, executive director of the county Easter Seal Society. The drive will run through April.

Mrs. Depuydt said that at least 95 per cent of the money raised would remain in the county for use in programs offered at the society's center for physically handicapped children and adults at 2015 Lake View avenue, St. Joseph.

The society has been helping handicapped people in the county since 1932. Mrs. Depuydt said.

Easter Seal services include a weekly recreational program for handicapped adults, a twice-weekly infant program for children afflicted with cerebral palsy, a loan closet (wheel chairs, walkers, crutches) cost-free for limited periods. Mrs. Depuydt said other programs are visiting nurse services, a free cerebral palsy clinic six times a summer activities program for handicapped school-aged children and an information and referral program.

Limited financial assistance is provided in many cases for physical therapy and for special orthopedic prescription devices and braces.

Fund raising methods to be used in the campaign include mail solicitations, fly tag days,

Third Homicide Of Year In BH

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Robert L. Alexander, 31, of 795 East Washington street, Benton Harbor, died Saturday of a gunshot wound allegedly inflicted as a result of a quarrel at his home, according to city police.

Police said no arrest has been made, pending a review of the shooting with the Berrien prosecutor's office this morning. Police were called to the home at 9:20 a.m. Saturday by Alexander's wife, Helen, 34. Seized were a .38 caliber revolver and kitchen knife.

Det. Sgt. Sam Watson reported that the shooting appeared to have stemmed from a quarrel. Mrs. Alexander was reported treated at Mercy hospital for facial bumps and abrasions. She was released and went home, police said.

Police listed the death as a homicide. It was the second homicide in Benton Harbor last week and the third of the year.

The police report an autopsy by Dr. William Benner showed death was caused by massive hemorrhaging from a gunshot wound in the aorta. A single slug was recovered from the body. Police said the autopsy indicated the bullet entered near the upper right shoulder, moved downward and entered the aorta just above the heart.

Police said Alexander showed no sign of life when officers arrived and was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy hospital at 10 a.m.

The body was on the floor of an inside service porch. A knife was found on the floor of an adjacent bathroom, police said.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. at the Fairplain chapel of Florin funeral service. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Friends may call beginning Wednesday morning at the funeral home.

A Tasty Switch

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Most Americans are habitual coffee drinkers. But today with coffee prices skyrocketing, many are thinking about tasty substitutes. But that is a difficult problem. Coffee is not really a food having practically no nutrients, but it has become an emotional quieter, a warm answer to some doubts, a symbol of internal courage and a darned good drink. How can a lifelong coffee drinker switch under these emotional conditions.

To our cousins the English and Irish, tea is as vital to their spirits as coffee is to ours. So perhaps a look in detail might suggest that a freshly brewed cup of tea could save us money and make us happy.

Americans do drink tea. But rather indifferently. It is rarely made with loving care.

Tea importers, through their Tea Council, advise that to brew tea use only fresh drawn water and use it only when it is fully boiling. That is a far cry from the tepid water often poured over tea lying helpless in the bottom of a cold cup. Not only must the fresh water be boiling, but the pot for the tea should be heated by boiling water and drained before the tea is added and fresh boiling water poured over it. It must steep from 3 to 5 minutes. That is the classic way to brew a hefty cup of tea.

It is rarely done that way in the United States, particularly in quick-service eateries. A cup of tea to the counter person means simply a cold cup, water taken from a pot standing on a warmer, and filling the cup with barely hot water, and placing a tea bag on the saucer.

To brew your own cup of tea, follow the classic method using a single cup. Pour boiling water into the cup, drain and place a tea bag (or 1 teaspoon loose tea) in hot cup. Then pour in the

MARRIAGE ENCOUNTER REUNION Plan Seder Supper

A Seder supper for couples who have participated in Marriage Encounter, and for all area couples interested in learning more about Marriage Encounter, will be held Saturday, April 2.

The event will begin at 7:15 p.m. at the St. Joseph Catholic church annex in Stevensville.

Reservations for the dinner are due Wednesday, March 30, and may be secured by contacting Mr. and Mrs. John (Carol) Klassen, Stevensville, or Mr. and Mrs. E.G. (Brenda) Broadfield, telephone and reservations chairman for the event, all of Stevensville.

Marriage Encounter is designed to give married couples the opportunity to examine their lives together — their weaknesses and strong points, their attitudes toward their families, their hurts, desires, ambitions, disappointments, joys and frustrations — and to do so openly and honestly in a Christlike, face-to-face, heart-to-heart, encounter with their spouses.

Marriage Encounter is a Christian movement open to persons of all faiths. It is not a sensitivity group. Marriage Encounter is held at Fatima Retreat house on 31 North, South Bend, Ind., for an entire weekend.

Any questions concerning the weekends will be answered at the Seder supper meeting.

The Seder is a ceremony which takes place at the dinner table and is one of the most important ordinances of Passover. It is an exchange between generations when the story of the Israelites' Exodus from Egypt is retold, and the symbols of the Passover meal are explained.

Traditional foods served at the Seder supper will include roasted egg, bitter herbs, matzah, haroset, wine, and parsley.

Committee for the Seder supper are members from a past Marriage Encounter.

They include, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond (Pat) Rick, St. Joseph, arrangements and facilities; Mr. and Mrs. Ray (Rosemary) McNeill, Stevensville, hospitality; Mr. and Mrs. Klassen, program; Mr. and Mrs. Al (Lorraine) Ochner, Stevensville, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald (Arlene) Jaworski, St. Joseph, food, and Mr. and Mrs. Orvid (Carol) Harju, St. Joseph, publicity.

TRADITIONAL: Couples who have participated in Marriage Encounters, and all interested area persons, are invited to a Seder supper Saturday, April 2, at the St. Joseph Catholic church annex in Stevensville. Mr. and Mrs. John (Carol) Klassen of Stevensville, Seder supper committee members, display traditional foods which will be served. (Staff photo)

Announce Grant Program

Michigan Council for the Arts has announced a new grant program, Confined Audiences Program, is being made available for 1978, contingent upon legislative support for funding recently recommended by Governor Milliken.

According to E. Ray Scott, executive director of the council, the pilot program is designed to provide arts experiences to individuals who are often restricted from participating in cultural activities as a result of physical or sociological barriers. This would include, but not necessarily be restricted to, the aging, handicapped, or the incarcerated.

Scott pointed out that this program is intended to provide funding for pilot activities and not for support of current programs or the restoration of programs dropped due to lack of funds.

Deadline for the submission of applications is May 20, 1977, for projects taking place between Dec. 1, 1977, and Nov. 30, 1978.

The Rain In Spain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After working 34 years for the National Weather Service, Oscar Nichols, a 57-year-old meteorologist here, decided to do something new. He sent the weather report across the wires all in rhyme.

For example: "Strong winds will develop over the ocean and over the land; Creating in the desert areas of blowing dust and sand."

"Now bright blue skies will bring sunny and warm days; And super visibility since the wind swept out the haze."

The idea for a rhyming forecast came from Wayne McCarter, another weatherman, who Nichols said "Breaks into verse every now and then."

McCarter turned out a poetic prediction about 10 days ago and got quite a reaction — favorable letters, phone calls and even a two-pound box of candy.

Sunny Walnut Loaf

Offer lots of butter and marmalade to spread on this delicious walnut-studded quick bread.

Start with a basic nutbread batter, first sifting in some cardamom with the dry ingredients. When you stir in the walnuts, required in the recipe, add grated peel from one medium-size orange and about one-fourth cup diced candied citron or citrus peels per loaf.

The bright fruit touches are in delicious harmony with the crunchy goodness of walnuts, America's favorite ingredient nut in all kinds of home baked goodies.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Try 'Lousy' Instead

Dear Ann Landers: I shall appreciate your helping me. Will you please consult your academic friends and explain the proper use of the word "bad"?

I have always thought that a person could feel bad. However, most of the people I know add the suffix "ly," so they feel badly.

Last week, on television, I heard at least four characters say that they felt badly. One was Mary Tyler Moore, who was playing the role of a journalist. I heard a newsman say President Ford's voice sounded badly.

Perhaps I've been wrong for years because I've been saying "feel bad." How should I feel when I'm not feeling good? Bad or badly? Feeling badly sounds bad to me. — Confused

Dear Ann: If you're not feeling good, you shouldn't feel badly. Bob Cronin, that great critic and sweet man, has the best solution to this problem. He dodges the issue by saying, "I feel lousy."

No Foolin'

Dear Ann: My son is a bright, tall, attractive, single, 34-year-old shoe salesman. His hobby is reading medical textbooks.

Hal has recently embarked on a dating scenario that has me worried. He goes to parties, meets single, attractive female physicians and identifies himself as a heart specialist. Several of these women doctors have taken a liking to him but the romance terminates when they learn they have been duped.

At first I thought Hal was joking about these escapades, but I learned differently when a long-time friend told me she had heard about my son's bizarre behavior. She wanted to know what in the world was wrong with him.

Hal just laughs the matter off — says women doctors are good company, responsive bed-partners — totally uninhibited — etc., etc. Furthermore, he claims they deserve to be fooled because they like him a lot until they learn he's a shoe salesman. May I have your opinion, please? — Hal's Mother

Dear Mother: A 34-year-old man who plays such childish games can justifiably be called a juvenile pretender or a phony liar, depending on how you feel about such deception. If I were one of his "victims" I'd place him in the latter category.

Two's A Crowd

Dear Ann Landers: I have been happily married for four years, but I do have this problem.

My husband is extremely difficult to sleep with. All night long he kicks and pushes me, flings his arms, and hogs the blankets. Sometimes he even takes my pillow. We have an enormous king-size bed but somehow he always manages to be on my side.

I need my rest and have told him so. He doesn't remember a thing (sleeps like he's dead) and insists I'm exaggerating.

I want to get twin beds, but he is against the idea. Please tell me what to do. I'm a steady reader and have learned a lot from your writing. — A.M.F.

Dear A.M.F. (Morning Fatigue?): What you need is twin beds with a single headboard. This arrangement will provide all the togetherness a couple could possibly want. You will each have your own mattress and bed sheets, also your own covers. I recommend this set-up for couples who want to be close, yet need a good night's sleep.

"Sexual freedom" presents a difficult decision for teenagers and their parents. Ann Landers offers down-to-earth advice in her new booklet, "High School Sex and How to Deal With It — A Guide for Teens and Their Parents," stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Captive Audience

Most people have a communications problem with their dentist or hygienist.

This is probably because one of the parties is trying to communicate under a slight handicap. That is: (a) his entire mouth has been put to sleep; (b) there is a hanger over his lip sucking out all the saliva; (c) a pair of hands are busy picking at his gums until he bleeds; (d) there is a smoking drill in the mouth which if it touches his tongue will cause great pain.

For some unexplained reason, a dentist or hygienist who speaks a conservative six words a year will suddenly realize he has a captive audience and break into twenty questions.

It has always bothered me that the victim is at a decided disadvantage and has no recourse but to sit there and listen.

That is why I would like to see the following set of responses standardized and available to persons in the dentist or hygienist's chair.

A bite on the dentist's forefinger translates to: "You are standing on my tongue." A knee brought up quickly to nudge his elbow: "You are pulling the wrong tooth, turkey."

Eyes closed, accompanied by a low snore: "Hearing about the septic tank you put in at your cabin is boring."

Entire body coming off the contour chair and remaining airborne for a full 15 seconds: "Yes, that tooth is a little sensitive when you tap it with a mallet."

Spit once in the sink: "I have one child."

Spit twice in the sink: "Two or more children."

A low moan: "No, I have never thought about braces at my age."

A high moan: "I'm not THAT old!"

Tears coming out of eyes and running down cheeks: "What do I have to do to convince you I'll floss after every meal?"

Hand and arm raised in a fully extended position above the head: Permission to leave.

Burying head in nose tissue for five minutes: A sign of hostility which when translated means, "I don't like you anymore. You're getting on my nerves... literally."

Clenched lips, rising to feet and heading toward the door: "It's been nice talking with you."

Dr. Lester Coleman

My son is a boxer and wrestler in his first year at college. We watched him wrestle and were proud that he won his class. Afterwards, he was wiped out with fatigue. He told us that he was exhausted before the match because he had to "make his weight." He was seven pounds too heavy five hours before his match. Don't you think this is dangerous? — Mr. W.P., Pa.

Dear Mr. P.: "Making weight" is a strenuous technique by which boxers and wrestlers come down to a class weight in a hurry. By means of sauna baths, steam rooms, hot rubber packs and limiting fluid, rapid weight reduction can be accomplished.

Sometimes, contrary to good medical judgment, water pills and even strong laxatives are used.

All of this hurried emphasis on weight reduction can be treacherous. Coaches in high schools and colleges are being advised by the American College of Sports Medicine to cease these rigid and dangerous practices of fluid deprivation.

Any such rigorous process which effects the health of the wrestler or boxer should be eliminated. Weight reduction can be accomplished by starting a sensible reduction program long in advance. In this way, the good health of the student can be maintained.

We had a ghastly experience. I want to pass it on to you so you can tell your readers about it. Perhaps in this way other children might be spared what we had to live through. Our 3-year-old daughter was playing with, and swallowed, a metal pull tab that my husband had removed from a beer can. It had to be removed under general anesthesia. — Mrs. T.D., Ohio

Dear Mrs. D.: Thank you for calling to our attention this potential hazard. These tiny metal strips seem to attract the attention of young children. As you know, youngsters are apt to pop almost anything in their mouths that they happen to be playing with.

Your experience, apparently, is not entirely unusual. Dr. John D. Bunting, of the University of Chicago, reports that he has treated, during a period of three years, seven children who had either swallowed or sucked into their lungs these pull tabs.

The complications that arose in some of these cases were enormous. Parents and baby sitters should take note of this and see that metal tabs are always carefully discarded.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Opener Is Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, beginning the week on an uninspired note.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped nearly 2 points in early trading, but gainers took a slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market's weak showing last Thursday and Friday had dampened buying interest.

They also said traders were waiting to see what eventual form economic-stimulus legislation now before Congress would take.

Today's early prices included BankAmerica, up 1/4 at 267 1/2; Eastman Kodak, down 3/4 at 70 3/4; and Merrill Lynch, off 1/4 at 19.

Merrill Lynch said last week its first quarter earnings were "not going to be very good" because of slack securities trading volume so far this year.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 3.82 loss to 961.02, reducing its gain for the week to 13.30 points.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 7-6 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 19.84 million shares, against 20.70 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .09 to 55.36.

Linen Truckers Okay Pact

Delivery truck drivers for eight linen supply firms, including three in Berrien county, returned to work today under a new three-year contract that ended a 10-day strike, according to Fred Ruess, manager of the Cadillac Overall Supply, Coloma branch.

The strike affected Cadillac, Banner Linen Service of St. Joseph, and Means Supply Service, Niles. The other firms are based in Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Sturgis and Lansing. They comprise the Michigan Outstate Linen and Industrial association.

The drivers, totaling about 260, are members of Teamsters union, Local 7, based in Kalamazoo.

Robert Peck, local secretary-treasurer, said the contract was approved Friday by about a 3 to 1 margin in voting held at varied locations. Peck did not report contract provisions, except that they included improved pay, pensions, insurance and vacations.

The strike began March 8. Peck said all of the drivers were called back to work. Peck said he didn't anticipate any layoffs.

Cadillac Supply at Coloma has five drivers, and Banner in St. Joseph has two.

DISSIDENT DEPARTS

MOSCOW (AP) — President Nikolai Podgorny left Moscow today on a major Soviet diplomatic mission to southern Africa where he will meet leaders of black political and guerrilla movements fighting white regimes, diplomatic sources said.

TRUCK REMOVED: Pickup truck which broke through ice on Dewey lake and sank Dec. 29, was removed Saturday by divers and wrecker. Truck was located about 140 feet from shore in 10 to 12 feet of water. Truck plunged into water when driver and companion attempted to drive truck across then ice-covered lake. William Hanft, Indian Lake, identified then as driver, and Joseph Flory both escaped. Two told Cass sheriff's deputies wheels of truck became stuck and they fled to shore when they heard ice cracking. (Mike McDonough photo)

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Should Retirees Pay Off Mortgage?

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. We have just retired and seek to increase our income. Our assets include a $100,000 house (with a $21,000 mortgage against it), $30,000 in cash and $20,000 in stocks. The cash is earning 6 per cent; the dividend yield on the stock is 3 1/2. Our 5 1/2 per cent mortgage costs $178 a month. Should we wipe out the mortgage? Friends warn us that it is difficult to sell a house without a mortgage.

A. A sizable low interest rate mortgage which may be assumed by a buyer does, of course, facilitate the sale of a house. But I doubt that $21,000 will cut too much ice in the sale of a $100,000 house. One argument for wiping out the mortgage from savings is that although you would be dropping the earning power of that $21,000 from the present 6 per cent (bank rate to 5 1/4 per cent (mortgage rate) it would reduce your monthly outlay (interest and amortization) $178 a month while cutting bank interest income by only $1260, or $105 a month. So on a "current" basis you have $73 a month more to spend on living and luxuries.

Secondly: Why only 3 1/2 per cent dividend income from a retirement portfolio? And finally: Without belaboring the point — a $100,000 house represents pretty expensive dwelling costs for the retirement income ($15,000 plus investment earnings) you list. Only you can decide whether or not you can afford it.

Arson Eyed In Fire At Saugatuck

ALLEGAN — Allegan county sheriff's deputies said this morning they suspect arson in a fire that badly damaged a Saugatuck township house last night.

Deputies said the fire at 2961 63rd street was reported about 7:40 p.m. In a subsequent investigation, deputies reported they recovered several items from the fire scene that would point towards arson.

The home is owned by a yet unidentified out-of-state family, deputies said.

There has been no arrest in connection with the fire, deputies said.

Livestock Buyer Under U.S. Order

WASHINGTON, D.C. — J. Bernard Redness, Sr., a partner in Reznik's Packing Plant, South Haven, has been ordered to refrain from violating financial and payment requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) said today.

Redness is a meat packer who purchases livestock for slaughter purposes in southwestern Michigan. Litigation is still in process for his wife, Joyce Redness, a co-respondent in the case.

Albert F. Sylvester of the USDA said Redness consented to issuance of the order and waived oral hearing. The USDA said, adding that Redness neither admitted nor denied the charges in an administrative complaint filed by USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration.

The USDA spokesman said Administrative Law Judge Victor W. Palmer ordered Redness, in connection with his operation of Reznik's Packing Plant, to cease and desist from:

— Purchasing livestock while his current liabilities exceed his current assets unless the full purchase price is paid at the time of purchase.

— Issuing insufficient fund checks or drafts and failing to pay, when due, the full purchase price of livestock.

The cease and desist order, like a permanent injunction, was issued to insure future compliance with the Packers and Stockyards Act, the USDA said. Packers are required to maintain a solvent financial position and to pay promptly for livestock, unless credit has been arranged in advance.

AM General Given Postal Truck Contract

DETROIT (AP) — AM General Corp. has been awarded a $23.9 million contract to build 6,380 quarter-ton delivery trucks for the U.S. Postal Service, the American Motors subsidiary announced today.

The contract includes an option to build 2,000 additional units, the company said.

Kelley Questions N-Fuel Charge

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said today that Consumers Power Co. has made improper use of the fuel adjustment clause to raise its rates and should refund $1.39 million to customers.

Kelley asked the Public Service Commission to direct Consumers to stop its practice of changing accounting procedures which lead to higher customer rates without a proper hearing.

Consumers has increased the amount it receives through the fuel adjustment clause by changing the salvage value of its spent nuclear fuel, Kelley said. He added that the changes were being made without PSC approval.

In the past, Consumers had assumed that the spent nuclear fuel from its Palisades and Big Rock Point nuclear generating facilities would have substantial salvage value, but the utility has been claiming since June 1976 that the spent fuel has no value, the attorney general said.

"This method of accounting increases the cost of fuel and triggers the automatic fuel adjustment clause, thereby raising the rates Consumers' customers have to pay," he said.

Kelley also asked the PSC to investigate why the book value of Consumer Power's fuel has increased so much. He said that in the last year the company has doubled the value of nuclear fuel and passed the costs along to ratepayers.

A PSC judge has found Consumers' accounting procedures reasonable, but the PSC staff has agreed with Kelley.

Heritage Bank Stock Sale Is Underway

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Sale of stock to help establish the proposed Heritage Bank here is now under way, according to L. Eugene Merkel Jr., bank board chairman.

The bank recently received approval from the Michigan Financial Institution Bureau to raise its capital and to complete state and insurance requirements prior to commencing business. Merkel said the state is requiring that $800,000 in capital be raised.

Merkel said 40,000 shares of stock at $20 per share are for sale. The minimum block of stock that will be accepted is 10 shares ($200) to encourage as many residents as possible to participate in establishing a locally-owned full-service bank.

He said the bank's incorporators will own about 16 per cent of the 40,000 shares, with the rest, some 34,600 shares, being sold to the public.

Heritage Bank, will be located in the University Plaza on the corner of US-31 and Garland avenue.

Adequate parking as well as drive-in facilities will be provided for customer convenience. Construction of permanent quarters will begin in the spring. The bank will open temporary quarters to serve the community as soon as the stock is sold.

Besides Merkel, the bank's board of directors include Leon Slikkers, owner and president of S-2 Yachts, Inc., of Holland, a

Final approval from both the Michigan Financial Institution Bureau and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation is anticipated soon after the required stock is sold which provides the basis for issuance of a state charter, Merkel said.

Believe 'Squirrel' Killer Abducted Boy

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — The person who abducted an 11-year-old Birmingham boy is "a squirrel-kind of killer who strikes when it snows," a criminal psychiatrist said Sunday.

Dr. Bruce Danto of Detroit said the suspect, who is believed to have abducted and murdered three other Oakland County children in the last 14 months, "picks kids up like a squirrel picks up nuts in the wintertime, and then he drops them (dead) on the road."

Timothy King was last seen Wednesday night when he went to a drugstore four blocks from his home in this Detroit suburb to buy a candy bar.

Since January 1976, six youngsters have disappeared and were later found dead in crimes that began or ended in Oakland County.

Danto said Timothy's abduction was prompted by a weather forecast of snow. He described the abductor as a "loner" who does not succeed as an adult but is expert at gaining the confidence of children.

The person plays with homicide "because, like the child he is, he is getting away with it," Danto claimed.

Police in this affluent area north of Detroit have asked children if they were ever approached by a stranger who tried to lure them into a car. Officials said they now believe Timothy was abducted on a chance basis, and that the abductor has probably tried to solicit other children.

French Leftists Post Big Gains

PARIS (AP) — The Socialist-Communist drive to win control of the French National Assembly next year picked up steam from runoff local elections in which the leftist alliance won a majority of the popular vote and control of 70 per cent of France's larger cities.

Sunday's defeat was the biggest ever suffered by the conservative-centrist coalition, forged by the late President Charles de Gaulle after he established the Fifth Republic 19 years ago. It opened a year of hard political fighting in preparation for the National Assembly elections scheduled for March 1978.

Brezhnev Raps Carter's Stand

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev said today that relations between the United States and the Soviet Union cannot develop normally as long as the Carter administration defends Soviet dissidents.

"Washington's claims to teach others how to live, I believe, cannot be accepted by any sovereign state," Brezhnev told a congress of trade unions. He said normal development of relations is "unthinkable" under these conditions.

Police on Friday released a psychological profile of the abductor based on similar crimes. It describes the person as intelligent and educated who is probably a white-collar worker who lives or works in Oakland County. The abductor is almost a fanatic about cleanliness and may be considered a loner by other adults, according to the profile.

Meanwhile, Sunday, Timothy's mother issued an open letter pleading for the safe return of her missing 11-year-old son.

The letter, published in the Detroit News, came as police continued efforts to find the boy and a man seen talking to him moments before his disappearance.

"There are no words to express how much we all miss Tim," Marian King said in her letter. "I appeal to all of you from the bottom of my heart —

Police said they believed a man seen talking to Timothy is connected with the boy's disappearance, not merely a witness.

"This man is able to lure a youngster even to a point that he (the youngster) ignores the safeguards and warnings he's been told," said Birmingham Police Chief Jerry Tobin. "We don't have a shabby, dirty man here with a bag of candy."

SOMETHING'S ALWAYS COOKIN' AT DUNKIN' DONUTS

PEOPLE QUIZ / By John E. Gibson

Is the way you answer a question revealing?
Does self-mockery make a good impression?

MANNERISMS THAT GIVE PEOPLE AWAY

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The way a person answers a simple question tells you a lot about his personality.
2. Even if we do our best to control give-away mannerisms, the face leaks information regarding the personality in any face-to-face conversation or interview.
3. When a person looks at you, and puts his hands on his hips while doing so, what he's thinking about you probably can be best expressed as %#!&!!
4. Lack of twisting, squirming or head-and-body, leg-and-arm movements is indicative of calmness.
5. Just as bragging about your accomplishments puts people off, poking fun at yourself for minor weaknesses and embarrassing moments can't help but make a favorable impression.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychological studies at Virginia Commonwealth University show that it definitely does and cite the following example: You ask a person a leading question, such as "How would you feel if you were caught telling a lie to an important person?" If he uses the pronoun "I," as in "I would feel terrible, bad and guilty," it's explained that the person recognizes the possibility of being in such a situation and acknowledges his personal responsibility for his behavior. On the other hand, if he answers "You'd feel bad, terrible and guilty," or "It would feel terrible and bad," or simply "Feel terrible and bad," the person does not speak for himself; he literally disclaims responsibility for his emotions or projects them on some unidentified person. Tests have shown that persons who answer in such a fashion tend to be anxiety-ridden.

2. True. Research conducted by psychologists at Ohio State University and the University of Windsor, Ontario points out: "During face-to-face conversation people not only talk to each other, they look at each other." And the eyes, it was found, communicate a variety of information about a person's attitude, intentions and aspects of his personality and outlook. Subjects who scored high in abasement (low self-esteem, a tendency to feel guilty and to accept blame, to feel better when giving in to avoid a fight than when having their own way) looked away markedly more often to the left during the interview than persons low in this characteristic.

3. True. University of California studies show that "the arms-akimbo position tends to be used by communicators who wish to indicate a negative feeling to their addressees."

4. False. University of Montana investigators, for example, made a careful study of the body movements and gestures of courtroom witnesses. They found that subjects decreased conspicuous body movements during the stress of cross-examination, as compared to direct (friendly) questioning. It's concluded that in many cases nervous tension and general feeling of stress can inhibit gestures and bodily movement.

5. False. Investigators at Indiana University point out that people seem to enjoy seeing others ridiculed or kidded. Sometimes, however, people also seem to enjoy ridiculing themselves. They voluntarily display, mostly in exaggerated form, their weaknesses and vices, together with embarrassments, humiliations and setbacks they have suffered. The Indiana study, using men and women university students as subjects, however, showed that "self-disparagement affected person perception adversely — and that compared to the person who disparages others, the self-disparager was perceived as less intelligent, less confident, less witty."

Puffing Pot Not Bad For Brain?

By C.G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — There is no evidence that heavy marijuana smoking changes the structure of the brain or central nervous system, two research groups conclude, despite earlier evidence that part of the brain wasted away under prolonged smoking.

The new studies, carried out independently, are reported in the March 21 issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association.

The earlier study was reported in 1971 in Lancet, a British medical journal, in which researchers testing 10 young men who were heavy users of marijuana found evidence of atrophy in the brain.

The British study, conducted by Dr. A.M.G. Campbell of Bristol Royal United Hospitals and his colleagues, was done with an X-ray technique involving injection of air or gas to outline portions of the brain.

The new studies involved a recently developed X-ray technique, called computerized transaxial tomography, in which no gas injection is needed to outline sections of the brain as the head is scanned.

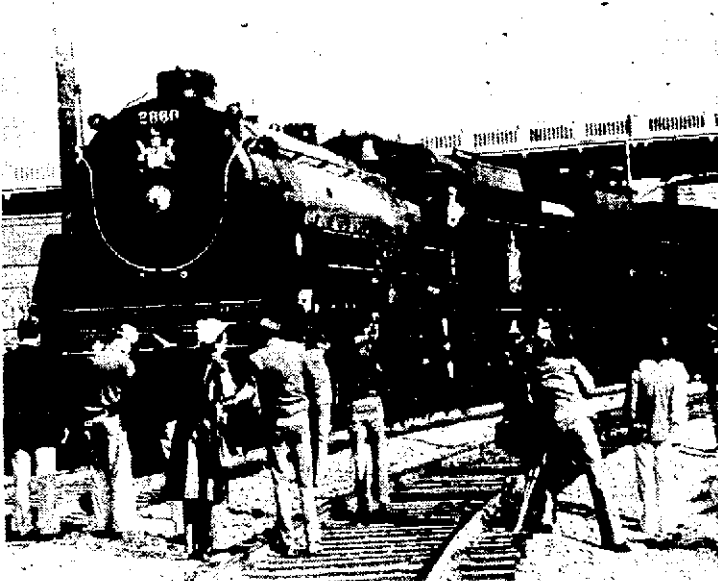

One was conducted by Dr. Ben Co. of the Washington University school of medicine in St. Louis, and by Dr. Donald Goodwin, of the University of Kansas school of medicine in Kansas City, Kan., and their colleagues.

The second was carried out by a team of Harvard medical school researchers headed by Dr. John Kuehne.

The first of the two studies involved 12 young men who had smoked five or more marijuana cigarettes a day for at least five years.

The Harvard team studied 19 males from middle-to upper-class socioeconomic backgrounds who were heavy marijuana smokers. They were kept in a hospital research ward so their behavior could be closely watched. They smoked five or more marijuana cigarettes, obtained from federal sources, daily for 21 days.

Co and Goodwin said "the only prudent conclusion to draw" from their study is that "young men with extensive exposure to cannabis (marijuana) over a number of years do not necessarily show evidence of cerebral atrophy."

That statement was echoed by the Harvard researchers.

Both groups acknowledged it was possible that differences between their results and those

Milliken Testing Carter With Seafarer Plan Veto

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The people of Michigan will be watching closely this week to see whether the U.S. Navy honors Gov. William Milliken's veto of Project Seafarer.

The governor has passed the ball to President Carter, saying the President's credibility is on the line since he and his predecessor both pledged that Milliken would have the final word on plans to build the massive underground communications system in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

"Now we'll finally know if he (Milliken) has the veto power or not," said one Seafarer protester in the U.P.

In a statement released Saturday, the Defense Department said that although Milliken's veto "will be given great weight," no decision had been made. A Navy official said public hearings on Seafarer may go ahead despite the governor's action.

"Our reaction (to the veto) is one of disappointment," said Capt. Daniel Donovan, program coordinator for the chief of naval operations. "But it doesn't mean we aren't going to continue the environmental review process and try to resolve points in the particular area that people have questioned."

Donovan added that public hearings tentatively set for late April would probably still be held. "But I'm not sure."

Milliken cast his long-awaited veto late Friday night, hours after receiving a letter from Defense Secretary Harold Brown. Milliken said the letter indicated Brown was backsliding on previous federal commitments to his veto power on Seafarer.

Not only has the Navy backed off on the veto commitment, its own environmental impact statement suggests Seafarer would cause do greater harm to the environment than the Pentagon had predicted, Milliken said.

He said Carter's promise in November not to build Seafarer in the U.P. over a Milliken veto was "very clear and definite," and the President's credibility would suffer unless he blocks the Navy's plans. "The ball is in their court," Milliken said.

Resignation Next For Ousted Indira Gandhi

By MYRON L. BELKIND
Associated Press Writer

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi probably will resign today following the loss of her seat in Parliament and reverses suffered by her Congress party in the Indian general election, official sources reported.

Mrs. Gandhi's foes already had begun talks to try to put together a government.

With returns in for 283 of the 542 seats in the lower house of Parliament, the new Janata (People's) party had 135 and could count on the support of nine more. Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party, which won twothird of the seats in the 1971 election, had only 103. Independents, regional groups and a handful of minor parties accounted for the rest.

Hours after the announcement that she had lost her own seat, the 59-year-old prime minister ordered the end of the state of emergency, under which she imprisoned thousands of her opponents, and the restoration of all civil liberties.

Proclaimed in June 1975 to keep her in office after her conviction on a charge of campaign irregularities, the emergency sparked a voter revolt that contributed to her downfall, the defeat of her son Sanjay in his first bid for office, and the eclipse of the ruling dynasty her father, the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, established 30 years ago.

The chief contenders to succeed her are two former leaders of the Congress party who broke with her, Morarji Desai and Jagjivan Ram.

Desai, now 81, was Mrs. Gandhi's deputy prime minister in 1969 when she split the party in a struggle for power with conservative leaders. He and other conservatives formed the Opposition Congress, and in January it merged with three other opposition parties to form the Janata.

Ram, the 68-year-old leader of India's Untouchable caste, was the agriculture minister in Mrs. Gandhi's last cabinet. He broke with her last month and formed the Congress for Democracy, which won seven seats in the early returns.

There was speculation that Mrs. Gandhi's defeat would produce more defectors from her Congress who would rally behind Desai or Ram. Although separate parties, the Janata and Ram's Congress campaigned together and pledged to work together in the new Parliament.

No major shift in foreign policy is expected since the Janata's manifesto pledged adherence to India's traditional policy of nonalignment "free from any attachment to any power bloc."

Await Landmark Ruling In Detroit Bugging Case

DETROIT (AP) — In what could be a landmark decision, a federal judge here is expected to rule this week whether government agents must obtain search warrants to enter buildings and plant court-approved electronic bugs.

Whichever way Judge Damon J. Keith rules, it will play an important part in a two-year-old case against two reputed Detroit area mobsters whose activities were monitored by government bugs.

Dominic J. Licavoli and Salvatore "Sam" Finazzo are accused of taking part in the alleged $18,000 bribery of a Small Business Administration official in Cleveland, Salvatore A. Lauricella.

Keith is the same judge whose decision six years ago that held unrestricted government wiretapping illegal led to present standards for wiretap authorizations. That decision, in a case involving the left-wing "White Panthers" of Ann Arbor, was upheld 8-0 by the U.S. Supreme Court in June, 1972.

At issue now is the question: If the FBI obtains a court order allowing electronic surveillance of telephone lines, does that automatically permit agents to enter a building in order to place the bugs?

Earlier this year the Court of Appeals in Washington, D.C. ruled that the government must notify the court of all entries it makes in connection with court-ordered bugging.

But a 1976 decision by a New Jersey federal court held that a court order for electronic eavesdropping implies permission to enter the building to place the equipment.

It is likely Keith's ruling — either way — eventually will reach the U.S. Supreme Court.

The two reputed Detroit-area mobsters are charged with engineering an $18,000 bribe from owners of a Cleveland construction company, B.I.M. Lauricella was indicted last April on charges that he agreed to accept the bribe from two B.I.M. officials in exchange for getting the firm a SBA guarantee for a surety bond on a 1973 building and excavation project.

Charged with Lauricella were B.I.M. president Frank Iacocca and vice-president John P. Bobal, both of Cleveland.

Also charged in the indictment were Licavoli, of Detroit, and Finazzo, now living in Leonard, Mich.

Court records show that during the fall of 1973 the FBI got federal court orders for a series of three electronic wiretaps on telephones at a Detroit business in which Finazzo reportedly had an interest.

Defense attorneys for Licavoli and Finazzo have charged that the evidence gained from that surveillance ought to be thrown out of court because the FBI did not have search warrants when the bugs were planted.

John L. Newcomer, special attorney for the U.S. Organized Crime Strike Force in Detroit, has argued that the court order allowing the wiretaps implied authorization for surreptitious entry to plant the bugs.

Hungarians Big On Smoking

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Hungarians are second only to Americans in the smoking of cigarettes, according to statistics published here. The annual per capita consumption in this country of 10.5 million is 3,750 cigarettes.

The statistics, compiled by Dr. Laszlo Vertes and Dr. Nandor Kun, put Canada in third place, followed by Switzerland, Britain, Poland, Japan and Bulgaria.

The United States and Bulgaria were listed as the leading producers of tobacco, with an average of 4.1 million tons of tobacco leaves being harvested annually worldwide.

Hungary has a "Society of Opponents to Smoking," with a membership of some 4,000, which seeks to promote a ban on smoking in offices and certain catering establishments.

Health News... Sciatica-A Painful Experience for Anyone

Sciatica, often mistakenly referred to as a disease, is actually a symptom of nerve pressure or an irritation of the sciatic nerve caused by a physical injury, malfunction, or disease.

"Since the sciatic nerve is the largest and longest nerve in the human body, it is not surprising that many authorities consider it the most susceptible to injury," says Dr. Ackerman of the Ackerman Chiropractic Center.

While sciatica can occur in either sex, seventy-two percent of its victims are men.

"Whether caused by over-exertion, a fall down a stairway, or a kick from a mule, the result is the same...pain," Dr. Ackerman continues. "The pain may be only minor in its first stages, or it may be so crippling and intense as to make strong athletes weep."

Pain may appear anywhere in the region of the sciatic nerve, from the low back down to the feet.

"Applying heat or cold to the painful area, or gulping pain-killing drugs might bring temporary relief at best," Dr. Ackerman explains. "But the problem will remain."

As a specialist in nerves and spinal disorders, the Doctor of Chiropractic knows that nerve interference in the low back is the actual cause of the problem. His training and experience enable him to treat the cause, not just administer temporary measures aimed at relieving the symptoms. With the nerve interference eliminated, the sciatic nerve can once again function properly, eliminating the pain and discomfort naturally from within.

Dr. Ackerman maintains Chiropractic offices at 3918 Red Arrow Highway, St. Joseph (telephone 428-1700.) (c) ARS 1977

Hitchhiker Tells Of Robbery

Benton Harbor police said a hitchhiker reported he was robbed of $124 Sunday night after what felt like a pistol barrel was pointed against his head while he was riding with four teenagers.

Joe Roth, 22, of 321 Court street, St. Joseph, told police he accepted a ride with a teenage girl driver while he was hitchhiking on Ship street, St. Joseph, to Benton Harbor. Roth said three teenage boys also were in the car.

Roth said an object that felt like a pistol barrel was pointed against the back of his head while the car was going south in the 400 block of Riverview drive.

Benton Harbor.

Roth told police his wallet was then taken from his rear pocket, and he was ordered out of the car at Riverview drive and Empire avenue. Police said Roth reported he was enroute to a tavern in Benton Harbor. The only description given police of the teenagers was that they were white. The robbery was reported at 8:30 p.m.

Five small plastic bags containing suspected marijuana were seized and two men were arrested early Saturday after a traffic accident on US-31, Baggar township. Berrien sheriff's deputies said.

Jeffrey A. Fortenbach, 19, of 2546 La-Al drive, Fairplain, and Robert A. Key, 20, of 1671 Lillian street, Benton township, were booked into Berrien county jail on charges of possession of marijuana with intent to deliver, sheriff's deputies said.

The two men were arrested after the van in which they were riding collided with a pickup truck driven by Gary L. Goldner, 20, of 1719 State street, St. Joseph, sheriff's deputies reported.

Goldner told sheriff's deputies that a van which collided with his truck left the scene of the accident, headed north on US-31.

Benton township Patrolman Jim Windsor said he found a van about two miles from the accident scene on the shoulder of US-31 after an area broadcast was made about 5 a.m. Saturday.

The suspected marijuana was seized after the van was searched by sheriff's Deputy Jack Root, police said.

Goldner was treated at Mercy hospital for apparently minor injuries and released.

Moses Love, 44, of 5295 River road, Sodus township, reported the theft of a record player and men's clothing valued together at $318 from his home Sunday afternoon. Berrien sheriff's deputies said.

Benton Harbor police said Verne Isom, 20, of 537 Columbus avenue, reported a portable television set and clothing valued at a total of $215 were stolen from her apartment Sunday.

A citizens band radio valued at $177 owned by James Morris, 50, of Michigan City, Ind., was reported stolen from Morris' auto Sunday while the car was parked at the Holiday Inn, 2880 South M-130, Benton township police said.

Break-Ins Investigated

NILES — State police were investigating break-ins at a fruit market and a school bus garage south of here late this morning.

While details were not yet available, troopers said an undetermined amount of money had been taken from a safe at Shelton's fruit stop, US-31 South. Police said the safe had been pried open, but was left behind.

Troopers said the Brandywine school district bus garage, located behind the high school on Bell road, had been vandalized. Damage to the garage was reported to be widespread, but no estimate was available.

Police said both break-ins were reported shortly before 6 a.m. today.

largest energy sources through the end of the century. Beyond that time, coal will become the dominant fuel, it said.

Nuclear power has a "small economic advantage on the average over coal," especially in New England and parts of the South, but the margin is a close one, the report said.

It also said the nation's electric needs may be satisfied in the future by solar energy, although at a higher cost.

On the subject of reprocessing fuel, the study said the plutonium extracted poses a serious risk since it can be used to manufacture nuclear weapons.

"A highly organized terrorist group might have the capability to fabricate a crude nuclear weapon from stolen plutonium or highly enriched uranium," the study said. It also said plutonium reprocessing in this country would undercut international efforts to limit nuclear weapons proliferation.

Theft Is Charged

SOUTH HAVEN — A Grand Junction man was to be arraigned in Seventh District court here today on a charge of larceny from a building which was filed in connection with the alleged theft of clothing from a South Haven store Saturday.

John Lewis, also known as George Yancey, 30, route 1, Grand Junction, was arrested in connection with the theft of women's and children's clothing valued at $120 from the Fashion Mart, 409 Phoenix street.

Mrs. Barbara Adler, wife of the owner of the store, told police that she tried to stop a man from leaving the store with clothing that had not been paid for.

Police said they later recovered the clothing in a nearby alley and arrested a man matching the description of a suspect.

Martha Griffiths Happy To Be Private Citizen

DETROIT (AP) — Martha Griffiths spent 20 years as a U.S. congresswoman representing Detroit.

Now, three years after deciding to retire from Congress, Mrs. Griffiths is more interested in getting her garden ready for spring planting than in accepting an offer by President Carter to become a Cabinet member.

"The timing was wrong," she said, explaining her decision not to accept nomination as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

And, she said, although she might accept a political appointment sometime, there will be no more campaigns.

"I'm delighted to be home. I am never going back to an elective office. It's too much effort. I was in the best one there was."

To prove she means what she says, Mrs. Griffiths last year squelched a campaign to draft her as Democratic-backed candidate for the Michigan Supreme Court.

What does a person who is used to the roar of the crowd, to the press of political wheeling and dealing and the burden of decision making, do now that she has retired?

The 63-year-old, who was Michigan's first woman representative in Congress and the first woman ever to sit on the powerful Ways and Means Committee, is reading autobiographies, getting to know her husband and law partner — Hicks Griffiths — and planning to really see America for the first time.

"I never got to see the country," she said. "I've been in every speaking hall in the country, but the taxi has been waiting at the door to take me straight to the airport."

Now that she's a private citizen, she said, "Some very small things impress you. We were invited out to dinner after I came home. I enjoyed it so much... I enjoyed sitting in a room where there was not a lot of noise."

Mrs. Griffiths sponsored the Equal Rights Amendment, and successfully guided its passage through the House in the 91st Congress. A firm supporter of women's rights, she predicted, "Oh yes, there will be a woman vice president. There will be a woman president."

"I used to assume it would happen — by accident — something would happen to the President. Now I think they will put a woman on the ticket — and there will be women fully qualified."

She added, "Any woman who has sat in Congress and done anything like a good job is qualified to be vice president."

Seek Toll-Free Calls To Michigan Officials

LANING, Mich. (AP) — Taking a cue from President Carter, a state representative will introduce legislation tonight to establish toll-free telephone lines for citizens to call elected state officials and air their complaints.

But instead of a one-day affair, the 10 telephone lines would be available daily. Citizens could call anyone from a junior lawmaker to the governor. However, getting to talk with that person might not be as easy as making the call.

Rep. Michael J. Bennane, D-Detroit, sponsor of the bill, and Doug Ross, co-director of the Michigan Citizens Lobby, told a news conference today that the proposed legislation would help balance influence by lobbyists.

Bennane's bill, similar to one introduced in the last session, would establish 10 toll-free telephone lines to the offices of the governor, attorney general, secretary of state and members of the legislature.

Michigan Bell estimates it would cost about $35,000 a year, with a maximum 1,000 calls handled daily.

"I would hope that members of the legislature would not feel that this is too high a price to pay to give citizens a chance to talk with their elected representatives," Bennane said.

COLOMA — An apparent attempted armed robbery was foiled last night when a local storekeeper frightened off the would-be robber.

The incident occurred at 10:20 p.m., according to Coloma township police, at Collins Mini-Market, 7163 Lake street, Coloma township.

Sgt. Thomas LaVanway reported the storekeeper, J.D. Collins, 49, said the would-be robber fled when Collins threatened to shoot the man.

According to the storekeeper, he threatened the man when he spotted a handgun the man had when Collins asked him what he wanted.

Collins told police that he told the man to get out of store before he shot him.

The man was wearing a black trench coat, black cap, and an orange ski mask with assorted colors, Collins said.

BH Asks For Help With Trash Problem

In an effort to stop the scattering of trash in Benton Harbor neighborhoods, Director of Public Services Dwight (Pete) Mitchell has asked residents to put trash out for collection the night before collection day. Mitchell said some residents have been putting trash out two or three days before collection, giving raccoons, dogs and the elements time to spread the trash. He also said paper bags are not suitable garbage containers. Plastic garbage bags are recommended.

Lobbyists wine and dine legislators in an effort to get their special interest bills passed, but average citizens have no such tools, Ross said. "Once a legislator gets 20 telephone calls and 20 letters on a certain matter, I don't care how strong the lobbyist is, the legislator's going to tell the lobbyist he's getting too much heat," Ross said.

HIS STAR IS ON THE RISE

After all his success as a singer and a composer, Kris Kristofferson now is making it big in Hollywood.

Kristofferson: success has brought confidence.

By Patricia Baum

Eight years ago, Kris Kristofferson, one-time Rhodes Scholar and Army captain, was pushing a broom around a Nashville bar, emptying ashtrays at a recording studio and digging ditches. A dropout, he had moved to the Country and Western music capital to become a songwriter. But, seemingly destined to remain a would-be, he had resignedly concluded that "by the time my songs ever become hits, I'll be dead."

Today, still in his prime at 40, Kris has been hailed by Johnny Cash and other music stars as the most gifted lyric writer in the country-music industry. His songs have risen to the top of the charts and have been performed by scores of stars. And because he began singing to promote his own songs, he fast became a popular performer. Moreover, Kris has made it in Hollywood as well, with eight films to his credit. The latest, A Star Is Born, has solidly established him as one of the screen's most exciting male stars.

He was launched in mid-1969 by singer Roger Miller, who recorded Kris's "Me and Bobby McGee." Kris parlayed his hard times in Nashville and a whole troubled past—his frustration with Army life as a young man, an unsuccessful first marriage—into moving autobiographical ballads. Nashville's most literate songwriter, he used poetry and a dash of wit to craft songs that poignantly conveyed loneliness, love and heartbreak.

Kris has taken a long time, though, to feel confident about his performing talent. One of the first times Kris sang for his supper, at a Nashville steakhouse some seven years ago, he remembers, "I looked at the people eating and knew I was spoiling it. I was so embarrassed I split without taking the money."

This attitude followed him into his film work. Working with such experienced actresses as Ellen Burstyn in Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore, he was perpetually nervous about his ability to "keep up with the company." He was especially apprehensive pitted against Barbra Streisand in A Star Is Born. Making that film, according to Kris, was "the hardest thing I'd been through since Ranger school."

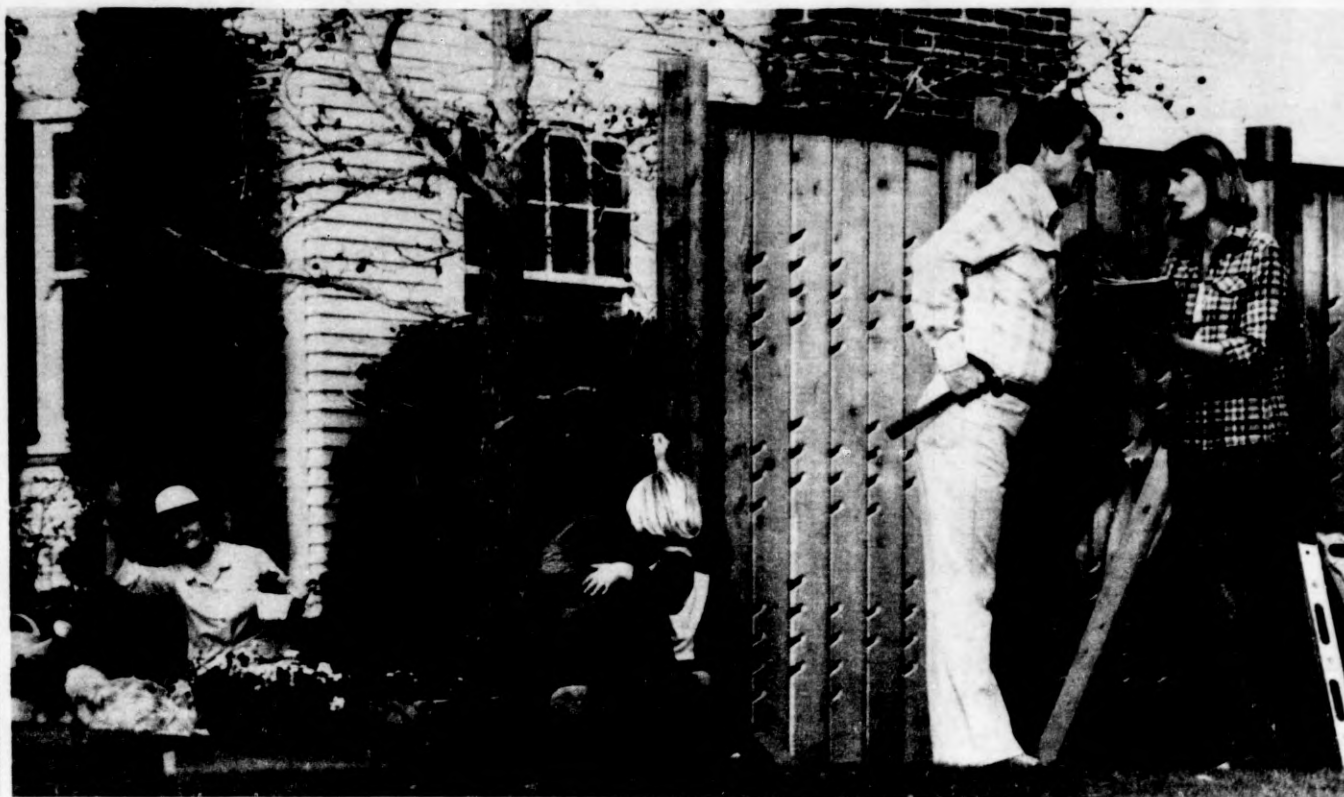

Now that the ordeal is over, he believes his portrayal of the self-destructive rock singer is his best performance yet. Star has given him a sorely needed measure of confidence as he embarks on his next film venture, Semi-Tough, and has prompted him to cautiously predict, "I think I have a future in acting."

He certainly seems to—if he can retain that appealing honesty and not turn into another Hollywood untouchable. So far, Kris indicates he can adeptly handle the fame that has confused, if not corrupted, many a star. He's still slightly awed by it all: "Fame has let me off easy. Because I'm a movie star, people automatically assume that I'm a nice guy. I'll just have to keep reminding myself to work very hard to really be one."

Patricia Baum is a well-known free-lance writer and author of Another Way of Life: Communal Living; Cuba: Continuing Crisis and other books.

A fence can bring neighbors closer together.

Sometimes it's the small things that cause the biggest problems between neighbors.

In my case the bone of contention was the one Mrs. Parker found buried in her prize begonias. So I built this fence from plans I got at the Help Center. And you know something, good fences make good neighbors.

It works the other way 'round too. I got all the free help I needed from Jim Clark, my Georgia-Pacific Registered Dealer. His Help Center is loaded with remodeling ideas, building projects, and helpful hints for do-it-yourselfers.

Take the free Projects Booklet. It's got simple, step-by-step plans for 20 interesting and useful home projects. And all of them as easy to build as my fence. There's a whole section of the Help Center that's filled with exciting new ideas on remodeling with wall paneling. And another with helpful free booklets that show you how to choose and use building materials like a pro.

The Help Center at your neighborhood Georgia-Pacific Registered Dealer has all the help you need. And it's free. But isn't that what good neighbors are for?

Hanafis Due In Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hanafi Moslems facing court hearings in connection with the seizure of 14 hostages at three Washington, D.C., buildings are being accused of Nazi-style anti-Semitism by a radical Jewish organization.

One of the 12 members of the small Hanafi sect charged with armed kidnaping in the 38-hour siege earlier this month were scheduled to appear today in District of Columbia Superior Court for preliminary hearings.

Hanafi leader Imanas Abdul Khatib, also charged with armed kidnaping, remains free without bond pending a preliminary hearing set for Thursday.

As one member of the Hanafi sect stood guard outside the group's house on Sunday, a group of 150 Jewish Defense League members staged a street demonstration protesting the seizure of the 14 hostages at the headquarters as part of the siege.

JDL leader Rabbi Meir Kahane, who led the demonstration in the rain, said the treatment of Jews at the Jewish service organization building was motivated by anti-Semitism.

"We understand that the kind of hate that existed inside B'nai B'rith headquarters also existed in Nazi Germany," Kahane said.

Kahane, pledging to refrain from violence as long as the Hanafis stayed indoors,

Yunk Tale Of Payoff Leads To Arrest Of Mexican Police

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — Three high-ranking Mexican police officers and 12 policemen have been arrested in connection with the extortion of $14,000 from a Kentucky man for the release of his son.

Mexican police made the arrests four days after Perry Lee Greer of Lexington, Ky., told U.S. authorities he had been forced to pay the money to get police to release his son, Perry Lee Jr. During a brief ceremony at the police station here Sunday, Mexican authorities apologized to the Greens and returned Greer's $14,000 and the keys to his son's car, which had been taken during the arrest.

Mexican officials also invited the Greens to spend a week in their country as guests of the government.

Young Greer, 19, a sophomore at Southwest Texas State University, said he was headed for a week's vacation in Mexico when he was stopped about midnight last Tuesday at a police roadblock in this town across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, Tex. The alleged charge was possession of marijuana, which the young Greer claimed was planted in his car by police. A telephone call early Wednesday brought the elder Greer and the $14,000 to gain the youth's release.

The investigation was started by the Mexican attorney general's office in Mexico City at the request of U.S. Consul Francis Arenz, whom the Greens had contacted in Matamoros.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Leopoldo Belu Lopez said he believed the younger Greer was targeted by the extortionists because "he was alone late at night driving a big car with Kentucky license plates. They thought his father probably had money."

Tamaulipas State Atty. Gen. Raul Albertos Betancourt told the Greens: "You have a sincere apology from the people of Mexico. But remember, these things occur on the other side of the border also."

Betancourt also extended an invitation to the Greens, "to be the guests of the governor and the Mexican people for a week of fishing," at a lake near Victoria, the Tamaulipas state capital.

GROUND RADAR SEARCH: Lambert Dolphin (standing) and John Tanzi, both researchers for Stanford Research Institute of Palo Alto, Calif., take reading on a "ground radar" device as they attempt to determine presence of underground chasm at the Victorio mountain site in New Mexico. A private exploratory group, representing several individuals, is attempting to locate what they believe is buried gold in one of the chasms. (AP Wirephoto)

Treasure Hunters Find Shaft To Cave

By SUE MAJOR HOLMES
Associated Press Writer
WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Treasure hunters looking for a legendary cache of gold supposedly hidden inside Victorio Peak have found a shaft which they say leads to a cave in the mountain.

One of the explorers said someone has been in the shaft since he went down it 20 years ago and saw piles of gold ingots.

The opening, just large enough for a single person to pass through, was found Sunday after hours of excavation.

The object of the search is a cave stacked full of gold bars and other objects of unknown total value which the late Milton "Doc" Noss claimed to have discovered in 1937.

Noss had said he and a helper accidentally dynamited the opening shaft. However, others claim to have been in the vault since.

The origin of the supposed gold is unknown, but some have speculated it was left by Indians or Spanish explorers, or perhaps by thieves.

The peak is on the restricted White Sands Missile Range, long off-limits to treasure seekers who have heard the legend.

But the military and the state have given a 10-day search permit to Expeditions Unlimited, Inc., a Florida firm experienced in undersea treasure hunts, which has been hired by some of those claiming the treasure.

Expeditions Unlimited president Norman Scott said the statements of the three men who entered Sunday suggested that it was a passageway that eventually ends up in caverns hundreds of feet down.

The three were Leonard Fiege, Jack Hull and EUT's professional spelunker, Jerry Lee. Their preliminary exploration lasted only an hour because of the dawn-to-dusk restrictions of the permit.

Lee said they found evidence of a campsite, including five sticks of dynamite, and commented that "whoever was down there appears to have left in a hurry."

Fiege said he first saw the cavern full of gold when, as an Air Force captain, he entered a passageway on the peak's east side in 1958.

Fiege said Sunday's exploration disclosed timbers shoring up earth and ladders "where you used to have to slide down a crevice."

Hull also claimed to have entered the mountain once before, but said he saw no metal bars at that time.

Lee said the area the three explored together is connected by a tiny passageway to a large room "where the ceiling has obviously fallen in."

He said the cave-in could have been caused by drilling such as that done by Gadsby Mining Co. in 1963 during a search by the Museum of New Mexico.

Prior to Sunday's excavation, the site was gone over by a Stanford Research Institute team using ground radar. Lambert Dolphin, head of the team, said the sophisticated electronics equipment would "detect a void in the rock, or changes in a void," but not metal.

If treasure is found, there remains the question of who will share in the wealth.

Ova Noss, 80-year-old widow of Doc Noss, watched the work Sunday. She is considered one of six legitimate claimants to the treasure, but unlike the other five has not formally agreed to this group search.

Town Reviving Saturday Night Baths

DOLLAR BAY, Mich. (AP) — Residents of miniscule Bumbletown soon may be able to revive the tradition of the Saturday night bath — with imported water.

Since last summer, the 19 families who live in the hilltop town near here in Michigan's Upper Peninsula have suffered a drought within a drought. While the entire western U.P. is suffering a scarcity of water, Bumbletown wells have gone bone-dry. Particularly irritating to Bumbletown residents is the fact that Alcona Township — just 7,000 feet away — has plenty of water. But it would cost $250,000 for Bumbletown to tap into the township's water supply.

It took the personal word of Gov. William Milliken, but Bumbletown finally began getting water over the weekend, hauled in by Department of Natural Resources tankers in 250-gallon loads. Milliken, on a 21-day circuit of the U.P., was faced by a five-person Bumbletown delegation. The residents complained that they had discussed their plight with everyone from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to the governor's own staff — all to no avail.

"You've got me now," Milliken said. And on Saturday, the first water shipment rolled into town. The transport of water will continue until a long-range solution can be found, a Milliken aide said. Until the governor stepped in, Bumbletown had been forced to get by on 30 gallons of water a week delivered by local officials.

"We've been able to go to the local high school and shower on Mondays and Wednesdays," said Bumbletown owner Garth Galbraith, 32. "But by Saturday, we're pretty rank." Residents have managed by "hauling water from the creek" or melting snow, Galbraith said.

"You have to have 10 inches of snow to get an inch of water," Galbraith added. "I watched one couple in their 70s spend all day at it."

Youth Tax Revolt Is Forecast

DETROIT (AP) — Young Americans tired of footing the bill for programs for the elderly may stage a tax revolt in less than 25 years, warns a Wayne State University professor.

Henry Pratt, an expert on the politics of the senior citizens' movement and author of "The Gray Lobby," a history of the movement, predicted the conflict will start at the beginning of the 21st Century.

Pratt said the younger generation will become increasingly burdened by taxes to pay for medical and retirement programs for a rapidly growing senior citizen population.

"The young will become increasingly resistant," Pratt said. "There is no question there is going to be a conflict." Pratt said the revolt could force an abrupt end to mandatory retirement at age 65. The easiest way to avoid a tax rebellion, he feels, is to allow or require older people to work as long as they are physically able to support themselves.

The underlying cause of the tax rebellion, Pratt contended, is the shrinking birth rate — down to 1.76 children per woman now, compared with 3.7 in 1957.

According to the 1970 census, there were 115.1 million persons in the U.S. between the age of 18 and 64, and 20.1 million age 65 and older — about 5½ workers for each retiree.

The Social Security administration currently reports it takes the contributions of about 3½ workers for every person drawing benefits to pay for the system.

That, said Pratt, is a delicate balance that can't hold out for long. Using a moderate birthrate figure of 2.1 children per woman, there will be 188.4 million persons between 18 and 64 years of age by the year 2050, and 51.2 million persons age 65 and older.

Does Zbig Covet Role Of Kissinger?

Q: Is Zbigniew Brzezinski angling to become another Henry Kissinger? I hear the brainy boss of the National Security Council is ambitious for bigger things — particularly Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's job. — P.A., Macomb, Ga.

A: Zbig's carefully staying out of the limelight and letting Vance get all the publicity. But — and this is a big BUT — he has quietly disclosed he'd like to start traveling in the fall — beginning with the Middle East and Southern Africa. Right away this raises problems: Does Zbig get red-carpet airport receptions? Does he take the press with him? And, of course, we all remember, this is just how H.K. started when he succeeded in muscling out Secretary of State Bill Rogers.

Q: What are the details on the bitter feud between Katharine Hepburn and Bette Davis? This was the reason they've never been in a movie together. — T.T., San Bernardino, Calif.

A: Hepburn and Davis have never feuded. However, we hear Producer Hal Wallis has a script, "White Water," that he wants to team these two great actresses in. Chances are good, as Wallis gets credit for talking again and just this month announced a long tour of the South, from Texas to Florida. Brother Scott is handling the business end of the engagements, which are mainly small clubs and houses.

PEOPLE

By Robin Adams Sloan

the hard-to-please Kate into doing "Rooster Cogburn" with John Wayne.

Q: All the big shots seem to adore Barbara Walters. Does anyone ever refuse to be interviewed by her? — W.C., San Diego

A: A few do. Vice President Mondale turned down a request to be interviewed by Barbara. He reportedly told ABC that "she was at the bottom of my list," explaining that he didn't like her interviewing style.

Q: Who made the decision to cut the late Freddie Prinze's material out of the Shirley MacLaine special? — M.W., Lansing, Mich.

A: According to producer George Schlatter, it was a joint decision by all involved — not through pressure from CBS. Though Prinze's contributions were considered the funniest moments in the show, it was simply a matter of taste. We hear that a compilation film or TV show will be put together highlighting Prinze's brief career and the moments from Shirley's special might be included in that program. Looks like the start of a Prinze cult.

Q: New that Bob and Sara Dylan are splitting, what about that house they were building in Malibu? Is it very fancy? — Shaker Heights, Ohio

A: Picture a combination of the Taj Mahal and the Palace of Versailles and you'll get a good idea. At last reports, Dylan is still working away on the $3 million mansion complete with copper dome. But the house may be so top-heavy it could have structural problems and might slide into the Pacific. We hear the Los Angeles City planners are taking a close look.

Q: Hasn't President Carter always planned to give a top job to at least one of the former Kennedy people? — R.H., Newark, N.J.

A: Yes, and that's why Carter, from the start, has seen Sargent Shriver as a likely ambassador to Moscow. In addition to being a Kennedy brother-in-law, Sarge has solid diplomatic experience as former U.S. Ambassador to France — not to mention his years as boss of the Peace Corps and Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Q: What's the scoop on Kim Novak's disappearance? — D.K., Houston

A: Kim has decided to live a reclusive life in Big Sur and is quite happy. She is reported to be writing a book. It's not an autobiography but a book on the glories of nature — summing up her personal philosophy about how the good life has nothing to do with show biz. She comes down from her mountain every once in a while to do a guest bit and you'll see her soon in the forthcoming Charles Bronson film, "White Buffalo."

Q: Jerry Lewis has been in the news so much lately with his "Hellzapoppin'" flop, I'm wondering what happened to his son Gary and his career as a musician. — G.L., Arlington Heights, Ill.

A: Gary Lewis and the Playboys are back together

Smoke Detectors Really Do Work

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
A growing number of Americans are installing smoke detectors in their homes to provide an early warning system in case of fire.

cent by 1990. About eight million smoke detectors were sold last year, up from only 30,000 in 1972.

Smoke detectors work by sensing the rising smoke from a fire and sounding an alarm loud enough to wake even heavy sleepers. They can detect smoke far from the origin of a fire and often will sound the alarm before flames are visible.

"The home smoke detector is the most significant technological weapon our nation has to reduce fire deaths and destruction," said Howard

Tipton, administrator of the fire prevention and control unit.

There are two basic types of smoke detectors: photoelectric and ionization chamber.

The photoelectric smoke detector contains a light bulb and a photocell. When smoke enters the detector, light from the beam is reflected from smoke particles into the photocell, triggering the alarm.

The ionization variety contains a small radiation source that produces electrically charged air molecules called ions. The presence of these ions allows a small electric current to flow in the chamber. When smoke particles enter, they attach themselves to the ions, reducing the flow of current. The change in the current sets off the alarm.

Which is better?

According to the fire prevention and control unit, "Both types of detectors are equally effective in the home." Ionization detectors generally will react more quickly to flaming fires; photoelectric detectors will generally respond faster to smoldering fires.

There is no way of knowing in advance which type of fire you might face so the choice usually boils down to individual preference. Ionization detectors generally operate on batteries. You have greater freedom of choice when it comes to deciding where to place the detector, but you also have to replace the batteries. Replacement batteries generally cost between $2 and $10.

Photoelectric detectors usually run on household current. They may be plugged into a wall outlet or wired permanently into your home's electric system. The permanent wiring should be done by an electrician and cost about $25 to $50.

Further information on smoke detectors is available in a free Commerce Department pamphlet, "Smoke Detectors: What they are and how they work." Write to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

ANTHONY TAUBE
Rare malady

Sleeping Could Be Permanent For Baby

DETROIT (AP) — Every time 6-month-old Anthony Taube falls asleep, he risks his life.

But doctors at Detroit Children's Hospital, where the baby has spent his entire life, hope a rare operation will allow him to live a normal life.

Anthony suffers from a rare condition known as sleep apnea. "When he is asleep, he just stops breathing," explained Dr. Ronald Poland, director of Newborn Nurseries at Children's Hospital. "There is no clear explanation why it happens."

Doctors do know, however, that the child's diaphragm stops working during sleep, preventing the lungs from inhaling or exhaling.

Every night since he was born, Anthony has been connected to a respirator by means of a tracheotomy — an incision in the neck — to keep him from suffocating.

Within the next month, surgeons plan to implant a device the size of a cigarette pack in Anthony's chest. Known as a lung pacemaker, the device has implanted successfully on fewer than 50 adults and only a few children.

The lung pacemaker is similar in concept to a heart pacemaker, doctors say. It will send out regular electrical impulses to stimulate the child's diaphragm, triggering normal breathing.

"We are hoping this (surgery) does the trick," Poland said.

The baby's parents, Anthony and Peggy Taube, both 25, are optimistic.

"I have to hope. It's all I've got left," Mrs. Taube said. The family's hospital bills have topped $100,000. Her husband recently returned to his job as a sign painter after a four-week layoff.

The Taubes and their other child, 3½-year-old Julie Ann, are getting ready for the day when Anthony can come home.

Mr. Taube has fixed up a bedroom for the baby on the second floor of their home.

"It's Anthony's room. It was ready weeks before he was born," the father said.

Uncle Ben Gets Slap From FTC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission says advertisements for Uncle Ben's rice should not show children closely examining or approaching foods that are being cooked.

In a formal order made public today, the FTC said a television ad for Uncle Ben's rice may influence children to behave in a manner creating an unreasonable risk of harm.

The ad showed a mother and child in the kitchen, with the child asking if she could help and the mother saying, "Sure. Watch the Uncle Ben's." The mother says, "Uncle Ben's is foolproof."

The FTC said Uncle Ben's, with headquarters in Houston, has signed a consent order to stop ads that may influence children to engage in a manner creating an unreasonable risk of harm.

The agreement is for settlement purposes only, the FTC said, and does not constitute an admission by Uncle Ben's and its advertising firm that the law has been violated.

Not Sure Why

DETROIT (AP) — The divorce rate has been dropping since 1974 in Wayne County, and officials say they aren't sure why. Circuit Court records show divorce filings in the county were down 6 per cent in 1975 and another 9 per cent in 1976.

Love Closes Gap Of 2 Generations

By GORDON HANSON
Associated Press Writer
FRAZEE, Minn. (AP) — Love closes the generation gap when the second-graders call on the old folks at the Frazee Retirement Center.

It's an affectionate time — one for touching and for curing. Tears sometimes flow when a youngster bends to kiss an aged cheek or to gently hold a gnarled hand.

For one hour, once a month, 91 second-graders at the Frazee Elementary School share their time with 65 of the 76 elderly residents at the home who are enrolled in the foster grandparent program. Eleven of the elders are excluded because of infirmities.

"I don't believe there is a generation gap when it comes to love," says the center's director, Bob McTaggart, 38.

He said the elderly and the children "have built a relationship without any prejudices about the other's age."

Second-grade teacher Tom Thoreson, 26, launched the program after his wife, Janice, 26, who is an aide at the center, told him a year ago that "some folks hadn't received any Christmas cards yet."

Sixty-four of Frazee's 88 second-graders took part in the program a year ago. This year, 91 students are enrolled.

"We handpick each child for each foster grandparent, trying to find those who will have the same interests," said McTaggart. "The reward is a spontaneous reaction to each other."

The children visit the rooms of their foster grandparents where they read to them. They push them down the halls in wheelchairs, tell of their activities, play games they brought from home. Some grandparents plan the activities, such as participating in woodworking. They have afternoon lunch together.

The elderly also die. There was concern how a child might react to losing a foster grandparent.

A boy named Ronnie had been associated with his foster grandfather about three months when the old man died.

"Ronnie cried," said Thoreson. "He had a hard time. I talked to him about life, and death, and the next day I got a thank-you note from his parents."

"They said Ronnie would like to have another foster grandparent. They said the boy and the man had grown so close that Ronnie wanted to share that love with somebody else again. It hurt him all the way, but he wanted those memories."

Aside from the scheduled visit, the youngsters also pop up any time at the center. And Thoreson daily delivers cards and gifts which the children put into the "grandparent mailbox" at the school.

"The most heartwarming time," said McTaggart, "is when a child brings his folk to the center and introduces his Mom and Dad to the foster grandparent.

"It's the look of pride on the faces of the mother and father, and the gleam in the little one's eyes, that can bring tears."

Monroe Man Charged With Shooting Death

MONROE, Mich. (AP) — A 31-year-old man has been ordered to stand trial in Monroe County Circuit Court on charges stemming from the March 4 shooting death of a worker at a vending machine firm.

Gaylord Wilson of Monroe is charged with four counts, including first-degree murder, in the death of James Compura, 19.

Compura was slain when a gunman opened fire in the parking lot of the Verdine Co. as Compura arrived for work. Compura, who was crippled, died at the scene. A Monroe police officer was wounded in the incident.

Police said Wilson was fired by the firm Feb. 19 for tardiness. No trial date has been set.

Windshield Wiper May Be Obsolete

By KENDAL WEAVER
Associated Press Writer
MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — In a nation that loves gadgets and gimmicks — and pays royally for them even if they don't work — it seems someone would have beaten Joe Newman to his latest invention.

It's a rain-proof windshield without wipers.

That's right. Hook the device atop your car or truck and escape the blurring splatter of a thunderstorm or the irritating squish-squish of wipers battling away at a summer shower.

At least Joe Newman, who once invented a knife with wings and plastic-coated barbells, says it works real fine.

"It is amazingly simple," said Newman, an athletic 40-year-old who has turned fiddling with gadgets into a livelihood. He unveiled his latest creation recently.

"Inventing is the easiest part. I think everybody comes up with a great idea in their life. But sticking with it to see that it's produced is the hardest part," he said.

In brief "The Newman Windshield Rain Preventer" is an adjustable panel that shoots out above the windshield, to a maximum three feet, and keeps rain away something like an odd rectangular umbrella.

Newman said his inspiration came one day 12 years ago when a young fellow, driving in a summer rainstorm, couldn't see where he was going and crashed into Newman's car.

"I told the police it was a shame he got a ticket. It wasn't his fault. It was the inefficiency of his windshield wipers," he said.

That set him to thinking. What could do a better job than windshield wipers? Over the next several years he junked a few wrong-headed ideas but would be inspired again "every time I was out driving and it started raining."

He finally hit on the right gadget, he said, and hooked the device above his windshield by attaching poles to the luggage rack atop his car. He adjusted it by pulling ropes.

Pulling ropes, of course, would be too troublesome for drivers also steering the car, so he devised a small hydraulic pump that adjusts the panel with the twist of a wrist. Where the panel is set depends on how hard the rain is falling and how fast the car is going.

The invention is in the hands of his patent attorneys in Washington, he said, and he has been contacted by a few truck manufacturers who "think it works real well." He said he is planning overtures to car-makers, conceding that corporation designers one day will come up with a more sophisticated and esthetically pleasing model.

In the meantime he's pleased. "The automobile has been improved on time and again for nearly a century," he said, "but the windshield wiper went all that time with hardly a change for the better."

Until Newman.

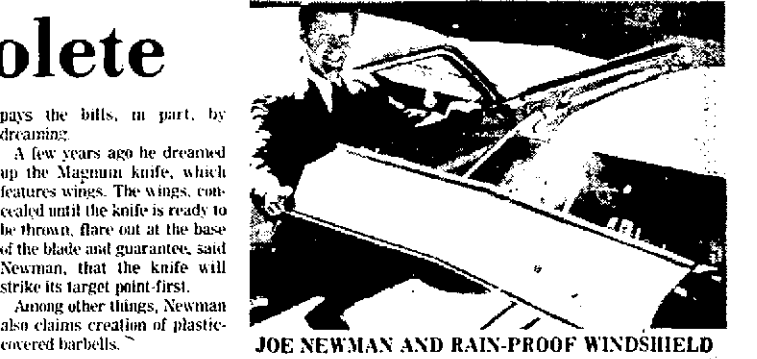

Newman is a graduate of the University of Alabama but gave up a white collar job for fulltime inventing 17 years ago.

He said inventing, design and theory come naturally to him and that he spends most of his time scribbling ideas on paper atop a table at home. Along the way, he said, he has written to scholars "challenging Einstein and Newton." He said they wrote him back.

He has only a few more tools around the house than your ordinary homeowner, he said, but he has the full support of his wife, a big plus for a man who pays the bills, in part, by dreaming.

A few years ago he dreamed up the Magnum knife, which features wings. The wings, concealed until the knife is ready to be thrown, flare out at the base of the blade and guarantee, said Newman, that the knife will strike its target point-first.

Among other things, Newman also claims creation of plastic-covered barbells.

Her Dog's A Fire Bug

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Virginia Balon's dog may no longer be her best friend. Babe, a female German Shepherd, started a fire at her house Thursday for the second time, firemen said. They said the latest fire caused $200 damage.

"What ... happens is that the dog starts looking for food on the shelf, and there's a shelf on either side of the stove. So a bag of food or trash inadvertently gets knocked into the stove," said Fire Capt. Ed Hamlet. "Then as she works her way along the top of the stove, her paws turn on the gas jets." Fire Chief Ken Sharp noted "to prove arson we have to prove intent, and the dog is not speaking to us."

STING LIKE A BEE

If the personality seems dazzling, obnoxious to some, he is a helluva fighter nonetheless, and the heavyweight ranks have needed one for a long time.

Opponents may survive Cassius Clay's propaganda attack and rhyming predictions before the fight, but so far none has been able to withstand the battering of those flashing gloves, that hypnotic dance in the ring. The man from Louisville is a surgeon in the ring, who moves with the speed of a lightweight, the power of the biggest heavyweight and the flair of an old Shakespearean trouper.

He was national Golden Gloves heavyweight champ in 1960, Olympic light heavyweight champ in the same year and, turning pro, racked up 17 knockouts and four winning decisions against no defeats. He became world heavyweight champion Feb. 25, 1964, when Sonny Liston failed to answer the bell for the seventh round in Miami Beach. Some experts thought they detected a suspicious odor but "This was no fix," the victorious Clay shouted into the microphones.

Now it is May 25, 1965, Lewiston, Maine, and Liston is back for a return crack at the title and Clay, who has begun to call himself Muhammad Ali, still has his doubters. The bell rings, Liston lumbers out like a man looking to end it in one punch. Clay, hands down, dances and circles in his mesmerizing choreography. Suddenly a short hard right to the jaw and Liston goes down like a 218-pound rock.

He falls on his back, rolls over, gets up on one knee and falls back again to stay. Clay stands over the still form screaming, "Get up you bum!"

Liston is counted out — the official time is one minute flat — and many fans scream "fake" and insist they never saw a knockout punch delivered. Says Clay: "That was my secret. It was a phantom punch. It was as fast as lightning and booming as thunder."

It would be a while before most fans would accept the champ's repeated claim, "I'm the greatest."

White-haired John Rooney, Associated Press photographer, has no complaint. he has been praying it wouldn't be a long fight. For a ringside photographer, a long fight is like a long night of deep knee bends, popping up and down the ring apron under the weight of color and black-and-white cameras. But then a very short fight is risky because it's too easy to miss the best picture. Rooney doesn't think this.

Strange Messages Interfere With Sermons In Church

UNWANTED INTERFERENCE: "It's disconcerting, particularly in the middle of a sermon," says Rev. W. Robert Alter of a variety of strange noises he attributes to Citizens Band hobbyists. Noises are an almost weekly occurrence over the public address system at his Faith Baptist church in Wallingford, Conn. (AP Wirephoto)

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP) — It's disconcerting, says the Rev. W. Robert Alter, "particularly in the middle of a sermon."

He's talking about interference, a variety of strange noises he attributes to Citizens Band hobbyists, that has become an almost weekly occurrence over the public address system at Faith Baptist Church.

In simple terms, any wire leading to an amplifier can act as an antenna and pick up CB signals being broadcast nearby. A spokeswoman for Channel Masters, one of several CB clubs in the Wallingford area, said the problem might be with the PA system or with a CB base station nearby. She said an appeal from the minister might resolve the problem.

But the Rev. John F. Heuchert of Wallingford's First United Methodist Church suggested another solution. "We use natural voice power," he said.

Meanwhile, if you find yourself a mite hungry along the road, it's nice to know there's a good buddy waitin' up ahead.

That's the way Citizens' Band radio buffs feel about Breaker, Breaker, a 2½-month-old cafe along highway I-six-oh in the quiet ranching community of Rubidoux, just west of Riverside, Calif.

Breaker, Breaker caters to CBers and even allows customers to call in orders by radio and have the meals waiting when they arrive.

"At least 90 per cent of our business is CBers, but we want to cater to everyone — CBers, truckers and the general public," says Joyce Kurtz, better known as Patches.

The restaurant's co-owner, Maureen "Moe" Hemphill, feels Breaker, Breaker is catching on largely because of its fare.

"It's hearty and it's homemade," she says. "The food in most other restaurants all tastes the same. Here everything is different — and there's a lot of it."

And in Chicago, bigotry and ugliness have invaded the world of citizens band radio, says a CB specialist.

Michael McCormack, president of the American CB Radio Association, said in a telephone interview that various ethnic and racial groups have taken over and segregated entire CB channels.

"Some even threaten outsiders who try to talk on their channels," said McCormack who monitors CB airwaves around the country. "When a white gets on a black channel, or vice versa, there is a flow of ugly racial remarks and at times threats of violence. By the articulation and language you can detect who owns the channel."

McCormack said "real hatreds exist out there."

This Rat Can Dunk

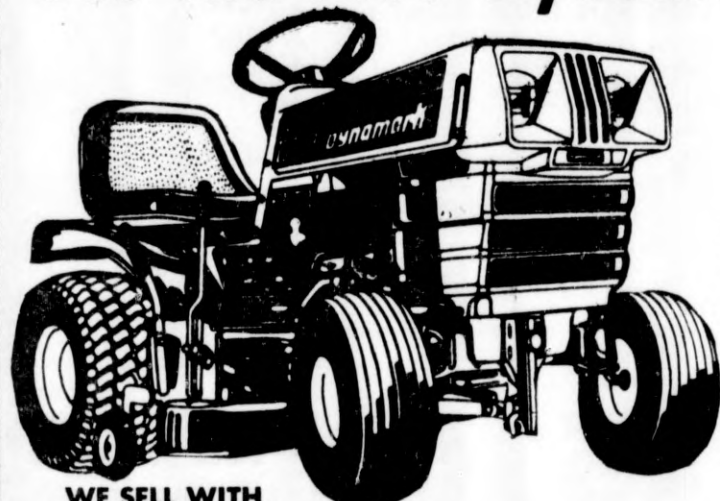

STATESBORO, Ga. (AP) — The basketball star of Georgia Southern College's psychology department is only two inches shorter than the basket. But it took 15 hours to train him to slam in a dunk shot. He's Blue — a rat, Glenn Fling of Savannah, Ga., and Terry Cantrell of Atlanta trained 5-inch-long Blue to stuff a marble into a makeshift basket seven inches off his cage floor. First Blue had to learn to run in a straight line. The two then taught Blue how to put a marble on top of a tuna can. From that, it was easy to train Blue to dunk the marble into a tiny basketball hoop. Blue is a product of a psychology class in "principles of conditioning and learning." Besides that, he's a pretty good shot, his trainers say.

Tab Up A Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is seeking $1 billion more in foreign economic aid than his predecessor, to be divided roughly between guaranteed loans and Middle East nations. White House Press Secretary Jody Powell agreed the increased economic aid would allow foreign nations to spend more of their own money on weapons.

Carter's requested increase would bring the foreign aid program, including both military and economic aid, to $7.5 billion in fiscal 1978, beginning Oct. 1.

MONEY

Timing Those Term Accounts

When Jim received a sizable year-end bonus, he wanted to do two sensible things with it: put it into a savings account that would pay him the highest possible interest rate and leave it there until it was time to pay the next installment on his daughter's college tuition.

But when Jim investigated, he found it was impossible to accomplish both goals. According to the bank's published rules for "term savings" accounts, he would have to keep his savings on deposit for 14 months in order to get 6½ percent interest—a healthy 1¼ percent higher than the interest on a regular account from which money can be withdrawn at any time. Yet the tuition payment had to be made within 11 months.

When Jim mentioned this ruefully to a bank officer one day, he discovered that there is enough flexibility to term accounts so that the bank could accommodate his situation. Jim deposited his bonus for the 11-month period at 6¼ percent interest—one-quarter percent less than the 14-month period paid, but still a full percentage point more than he would have gotten otherwise.

Moral: if you have money you can put away for a specific length of time—but not the period which matches exactly the formal time-deposit periods listed by the bank—discuss the problem with a bank executive. Most banks and savings-and-loan associations will work out a term account with a maturity date that suits your purposes, and the account will still pay a higher rate of interest than the ordinary passbook rate.

PEOPLE AND YOU

Easing The Pain Of Jealousy

The best cure for jealousy, of course, is discovering that you were mistaken and that there's no cause for anxiety. But when that happy situation eludes you, you may be able to help yourself through the difficult days by borrowing actions from the opposite sex.

Seems researchers have discovered that women have certain ways of trying to calm themselves and men have another set of actions. Keeping your own sex's instinctive behavior and adding the other sex's may double the balm and even eliminate the cause of your jealousy. For example, while jealous women often feel completely devastated emotionally, in a daze, insecure, less able to cope with other aspects of life, fearful and inadequate, men often respond actively rather than passively.

Men are likely to confront the other person and ask for an explanation of the situation. Sometimes this direct action produces a discussion which eliminates the cause and problem. When the situation is hopeless and jealousy is well founded, women's reactions may be more constructive. Although men often turn their worry inward and feel guilty and angry with themselves for being jealous, women accept their feelings and allow themselves to express them. Women's tendencies to talk to close friends about their feelings give them support and an emotional outlet. But the common reaction of men to blow off steam by getting drunk leaves their problem intact when they're sober again.

Congress 'Simplifying' Taxes Again

process easier for 96 per cent of the population. It will result in a longer but far simpler tax form, the experts say. The changes are part of a big tax-cut bill, including $50-per-person rebates, that the finance committee expects to approve this week.

The full Senate, meanwhile, hopes to complete work on a bill that would require senators to disclose their finances and would limit the income they could earn above their congressional salaries. And in the

House, debate begins Wednesday on a hotly disputed bill that would allow unions to picket an

just by looking at a table. The only factor in determining what table to use would be the number of exemptions he claims. The only computations would be to subtract any moving expenses, employee business expenses and tax-free retirement account payments from total income to arrive at adjusted gross income.

The changes also would simplify things for the 31 per cent who now itemize deductions. Their only computation above that required of non-itemizers would be to determine how much their itemized deductions exceed the standard deduction.

Here are examples of how the new system would work. One is for a $15,000-a-year family of four that takes the standard deduction, the other for the same family with $4,000 of itemized deductions. The net tax in the first example is based on the higher standard deduction approved by the House.

Standard Deduction CURRENT LAW

1. Write down adjusted gross income ($15,000).
2. Compute standard deduction, which is 16 per cent of income but not less than $2,100 or more than $2,800 ($2,400).
3. Subtract deduction from income ($12,600).

The tax bill being written by the Senate Finance Committee originally was proposed by Carter mainly as a method of stimulating the economy. But he also recommended simplification of individual tax-filing after the Internal Revenue Service reported a sharp increase in errors on returns filed this year. A large number of those errors are mathematical mistakes traceable to the computation of the standard deduction, used by those who don't itemize deductions.

Study Cooler Nuclear Power

urged a de-emphasis on civilian use of plutonium and said the country should realize "that the world is not running out of energy."

The panel included former California Institute of Technology President Harold Brown, now secretary of defense.

In its 418-page report, the Nuclear Energy Policy Study Group said:

—President Carter should postpone indefinitely plans for reprocessing plutonium from spent reactor fuel because the material can be diverted too easily for use in atomic weapons.

—Development of the controversial $12-billion plutonium breeder reactor program should be postponed and a prototype model to be constructed at Clinch River, Tenn., should be abandoned entirely.

—Strengthened security is necessary at nuclear power plants because present safeguards do "not appear adequate to meet the potential threats of terrorism."

—The government should retain control of uranium enrichment technology rather than sharing it with private industry, as former administrations have advocated.

—Because supplies of uranium and other energy sources are greater than is realized, the government should drop plans for recycling spent nuclear fuel and should bury waste in permanent deep-storage sites.

"While nuclear power is one of the options that should be pursued, it is not as critical to future economic development as its advocates claim," said the study team, headed by Spurgeon M. Keeny Jr., director of policy for the MITRE Corp.

"Nuclear power is not crucial, at least not until well into the next century."

The report said gas and oil, although declining in supply, will continue to be the nation's

Ex-Allegan Woman Air Search Target

TULSA, Okla. — Kathy Anne Brown, 22, a 1972 Allegan high school graduate, and a wealthy suburban housewife for whom she worked, are targets of an air search planned for today by police here, according to Associated Press.

Miss Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brown of rural Allegan, was believed to have been with Kendal Ashmore when Mrs. Ashmore was kidnapped Thursday and held for $500,000 ransom.

Officials said an air search would begin at dawn and be coordinated with foot patrols.

Miss Brown grew up around horses. The family lives in a rural area and she owns Morgan horses.

The press service reported that Miss Brown and Mrs. Ashmore met a few years ago at a national Morgan horse competition. Miss Brown came to live with the Ashmores last summer to help care for and train the Ashmore stable of 17 Morgans.

Both women were described by friends as friendly and warm, both ardent lovers of horses and riding competition.

Associated Press reported a 32-year-old man was arrested near Tulsa Saturday about six hours after the kidnaper or kidnappers failed to pick up the money.

The money, in two canvas sacks, had been delivered by Mrs. Ashmore's husband, Philip, Friday night to an old rodeo arena four blocks from the arrested man's residence.

S.M. Fallis Jr., Tulsa County district attorney, said the arrested man would be arraigned and charged with kidnapping today.

Authorities said Sunday they have drawn a blank so far in the search for Mrs. Ashmore, 36, wife of a Tulsa area builder and Miss Brown since Ashmore's attempt to deliver the ransom fell through.

"I keep thinking what would Kendal would do in a situation like this," a friend said. "She's a smart lady, but, I don't know. I don't guess anyone knows what they'd do in a situation like this until it happens."

Ashmore is president of Ashland Development Co., developer of land holdings, a builder and seller of homes.

The Ashmores' daughter, Laura, and Etheere Fanfare have brought home ribbons from across the country. The horse was named one of the top 10 in the country at the Grand National Morgan Horse Show in Detroit recently.

The two women were together when the abduction occurred, but Mrs. Ashmore apparently was the target. The kidnapers haven't mentioned Miss Brown in the three telephone calls they made to Ashmore, police said.

PLE: Awaiting the judges' verdict in the National Sportsmen's show in Toronto and Beautiful Lady, a pair of owned by Jim and Sandra Dennis of Y. The dog show continues all next at the National Exhibition grounds.

An organization has been formed in Berrien county to combat child abuse and neglect.

The Berrien County Child Abuse and Neglect Task Force states its purpose as assisting victims of child abuse as well as people who commit child abuse.

Membership is open to the public and volunteers are now being sought, according to Mrs. Marilyn Boehm, of Berrien Springs, a spokesman for the group.

The organization meets once a month at the Berrien county juvenile detention home in Berrien Center.

Many task force members represent local and state agencies that deal with problems of child abuse and neglect. Organizations represented include the Berrien county health department, the social services department, state police, juvenile court, the LINK crisis intervention center, the Riverwood mental health center and various schools and hospitals in the area.

The task force's goals are to educate the community on child abuse, coordinate existing programs, initiate new programs and facilitate the immediate delivery of services. Its chairman is Mrs. Margaret Clarke of Niles.

The group has also been instrumental in forming a Twin Cities chapter of Parents Anonymous. The chapter is made of people who have abused their children and are seeking support from others to prevent it from happening again, according to Mrs. Boehm.

There is also a helpline telephone people can call if they feel they are on the verge of abusing a child.

The number is 927-4447. "If we could get people to call us before they start pounding on their kids, we could help them," Mrs. Boehm said.

Mrs. Boehm said reported cases of suspected child abuse in the area have increased in the past few years.

She said Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, reported 14 suspected cases in 1974, 34 in 1975 and 69 in 1976. Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, reported three cases in 1974, six in 1975 and 11 in 1976.

EASTER SEAL PROGRAM: Handicraft is one of several activities physically handicapped adults and children participate in at Berrien county Easter Seal Society center in St. Joseph. Here, crafts are being made during center's weekly recreation program for adults. Examining craft item is Mrs. Luhika Ampey, center's recreational director. Looking on is Mrs. Carol Haynes, R.N., program coordinator.

Whirlpool's '76 Tax Bill Listed At $100.5 Million

Whirlpool Corporation's total 1976 tax bill was $100.5 million. The Communicator, a publication of Whirlpool's St. Joseph division, reported in its March 17 issue that $15.7 million went for state and local taxes, $66.8 million to the federal government for income taxes, and $18 million as payroll taxes for social security and unemployment compensation. The Communicator reported payment of taxes required the company to file 1,700 separate tax forms. Taxes are Whirlpool's third largest expense, exceeded only by labor and materials costs. Whirlpool operates nine divisions in six states with corporate headquarters on North Shore drive, Benton township.

Mexican Trip Led By Legend Hunter

By ALICE KOCH
Stevensville Correspondent

Romain Wilhelmson, referred to by his peers as "the legend hunter," lived up to the title Sunday as he led the Travel and Adventure series audience into the more mysterious places of Mexico seeking the history of that country.

Twin City Camera club will present "Viva Mexico" again today and Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the St. Joseph high school auditorium.

Wilhelmson divides his travelogue into two parts, the known and the unknown. He first visits the modern cities, historical landmarks and sunny beaches and resort areas. He then travels to parts never before or seldom explored mainly due to the rough terrain.

The photographer visits a 300-year-old monastery which has been converted into a hotel in Taxco. The government, he said, has designated the city a national shrine and forbids the building of new structures or the demolition of old ones.

One might think the largest pyramid in the world would be found in Egypt, but no so as Wilhelmson points out when he visits it in Cholula. It is one of many found in Mexico and those in Palique, also seen on the tour, have given archaeologists reason to continue probing for more answers.

Mexico City, the country's capital and largest city, next on the tour, has a combination of old and new as is seen in the Plaza of the Three Cultures. Grouped together are Indian pyramids, an old church built by the Spaniards and a modern housing project.

Traveling down the west coast, visits are made in Acapulco, Puerto Vallarta and Mazatlan that are not only an attraction to the vacationer but are fast becoming popular to the retiree. Prices there are compared to those in Florida in the 1920's.

In the resort city of Chihuahua, Wilhelmson boards a train to take him to the northern parts of the country. The railroad, he said, was built by the government in an effort to bring civilization to the hard to reach areas.

Living in this uncivilized area the photographer finds the Tarahumara Indians, known to be the purest tribe in the country. Marriage outside the tribe is forbidden and if one chooses to do so he or she must leave.

Wilhelmson, in search of historic objects that will prove the country's legend, concludes his visit at the Valley of the Caves where he finds a helmet and breast plate worn by a Spanish soldier in the early 1500's.

Many such treasures, he said, are lying in these undiscovered places just waiting to be found by the explorer.

SJ Man Hurt In Smashup

Berrien sheriff's deputies said a St. Joseph man was injured Saturday when his auto went out of control and struck a bridge pillar on the Cleveland avenue overpass at I-94, Lincoln township.

Treated and released from Memorial hospital was Roger E. Stevens, 21, of 723 Hoyt street. Deputies said Stevens was northbound on Cleveland. Stevens was ticketed for careless driving, deputies said.

Coloma School Board Meeting Tonight At 8

COLOMA — A special meeting of the Coloma school board has been called for tonight, beginning at 8, by Marshall Badt, school board president. The meeting will be held in the F.J. Merritt administration building, Boyer road, Coloma.

SJ School Board Plans Special Meet

St. Joseph School Supt. Burton R. Aldrich said a special meeting of the board of education will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, March 28, at Jefferson school, to consider possible layoffs from transfer of Gard and Bellwether special education programs to the Berrien intermediate school district.

Details of the possible layoffs of about 15 teachers were reported earlier in The Herald-Palladium. Aldrich also said that because of the upcoming spring vacation, the regular April meeting of the board of education will be at 7 p.m. Monday, April 18, at Lincoln school. The regular meetings are normally held the second Monday of the month. Aldrich said the board's workshop session, normally held on the first Monday of each month, will not be held in April.

Petitions Oppose SJ Twp. Manager

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Petitions signed by at least 240 St. Joseph township residents opposing creation of a township manager post will be presented to the township board tonight, according to George Dixel, a retired businessman.

Dixel, of 3347 Maple lane, said the petition he wrote and circulated and other petitions given to him list several reasons for opposition. Dixel said "if they need a manager, let the people vote on it."

Dixel said he personally has nothing against Isadore DiMaggio, the township's treasurer whose appointment as manager was unanimously approved, with one member absent, at the March 7 township board meeting.

Supervisor Orval Benson asked that he be relieved of most of the management chores of his office and that those duties be given to a township manager. DiMaggio said his salary will be about $21,000 a year. He is scheduled to begin the job April 1.

Benson's salary as supervisor is $13,500. There has been no mention at a board meeting of any cut in pay when Benson's duties are reduced.

Tonight's meeting of the township board will begin at 7:30 at Fairplain West school, 1901 Fairplain avenue.

A goal of $30,600 has been set for this year's Easter Seal drive now underway in Berrien county, according to Mrs. Maria Depuydt, executive director of the county Easter Seal Society. The drive will run through April.

Mrs. Depuydt said that at least 95 per cent of the money raised would remain in the county for use in programs offered at the society's center for physically handicapped children and adults at 2015 Lake View avenue, St. Joseph.

The society has been helping handicapped people in the county since 1932, Mrs. Depuydt said.

Easter Seal services include a weekly recreational program for handicapped adults, a twice-weekly infant program for children afflicted with cerebral palsy, a loan closet (wheel chairs, walkers, crutches) cost-free for limited periods.

Mrs. Depuydt said other programs are visiting nurse services, a free cerebral palsy clinic six times a summer activities program for handicapped school-aged children and an information and referral program.

Limited financial assistance is provided in many cases for physical therapy and for special orthopedic prescription devices and braces.

Fund raising methods to be used in the campaign include mail solicitations, lily tag days,

The following people have been named area chairmen for the 1977 campaign: Joyce Essig, Bridgman; Ralph Frost, Benton Harbor; Ruth Gintert, R.N., St. Joseph; Barbara Green, Coloma; Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Murray, New Buffalo; Glenn Murray, Three Oaks; Gerald Radde, Buchanan; Rosemarie Roth, Stevensville; Jack Schick, Niles; and Ron Willit, Berrien Springs.

Third Homicide Of Year In BH

By RALPH LUTZ

Robert L. Alexander, 34, of 795 East Washington street, Benton Harbor, died Saturday of a gunshot wound allegedly inflicted as a result of a quarrel at his home, according to city police.

Police said no arrest has been made, pending a review of the shooting with the Berrien prosecutor's office this morning. Police were called to the home at 9:20 a.m. Saturday by Alexander's wife, Helen, 34. Seized were a .38 caliber revolver and kitchen knife.

Det. Sgt. Sam Watson reported that the shooting appeared to have stemmed from a quarrel. Mrs. Alexander was reported treated at Mercy hospital for facial bumps and abrasions. She was released and went home, police said.

Police listed the death as a homicide. It was the second homicide in Benton Harbor last week and the third of the year.

The police report an autopsy by Dr. William Benner showed death was caused by massive hemorrhaging from a gunshot wound in the aorta. A single slug was recovered from the body. Police said the autopsy indicated the bullet entered near the upper right shoulder, moved downward and entered the aorta just above the heart.

Police said Alexander showed no sign of life when officers arrived and was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy hospital at 10 a.m.

The body was on the floor of an inside service porch. A knife was found on the floor of an adjacent bathroom, police said.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. at the Fairplain chapel of Florin funeral service. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Friends may call beginning Wednesday morning at the funeral home.

Mr. Alexander was born Nov. 4, 1942, in Tallulah, La. He was employed at Auto Specialties Manufacturing company.

Survivors include his wife, Helen; three sons, Robert Jr., Norman, Jason, all at home; his mother, Mrs. Mabel Alexander, Dallas, Tex.; grandfather, Joe Alexander, Tallulah, La.; and 17 brothers and sisters.

'Men From UNCC' Cinderella Cage Tale

Stay Alive As Michigan, Other Powers Ousted

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top-rated Michigan and third-ranked Kentucky bit the dust Saturday. No. 2 UCLA bowed out two days earlier and San Francisco, which held the top spot for much of the season, has been long gone from the National Collegiate basketball championships. But the "Men from UNCC" are still alive.

The "Men from UNCC" isn't a TV spy story. It's more a Cinderella tale in which a school whose basketball history only dates back a dozen years knocks off the No. 1 team in the nation to make the championship round-of-four in Atlanta next weekend.

If you're not aware of it by now, UNCC stands for the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, as differentiated from THE University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, which also advanced to the national semifinals and which hereafter shall be known simply as "North Carolina."

Joining them are Marquette and the University of Nevada at Las Vegas. Saturday afternoon's nationally televised semifinals sends fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas against No. 5 North Carolina, followed by the "Men from UNCC," rated 17th, against seventh-ranked Marquette.

The pairings came about last Saturday when North Carolina upset Kentucky 79-72 in the East Regional, the "Men from UNCC" shocked mighty Michigan 75-68 in the Midwest, Marquette trimmed Wake Forest 82-68 in the Midwest and Nevada-Las Vegas ran away from Idaho State 107-90 in the West Regional.

If UNCC meets UNLV in the finals, it might be mistaken for a spelling bee. And North Carolina Gov. Jim Hunt has suggested that the NCAA's name be changed to North Carolina Athletic Association. Imagine if Wake Forest had made it, too.

The No. 1 Man from UNCC is a lanky 6-foot-8 center with the catchy handle of Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell, who led the 49ers past Michigan with a 25-point, 13-rebound show. Lew Massey added 19 and Kevin King helped hold Michigan center Phil Hubbard to just 14. "We've never played guys like that before," marveled Michigan All-American Ricky Green, who led the Wolverines with 20 points. "Their arm reach was so long I couldn't believe it. No matter how high you'd get your shot, it seemed like they'd be waiting to tip it."

If UNCC is Cinderella, veteran Marquette Coach Al McGuire, with his past penchant for drawing costly technicals, certainly isn't Prince Charming. However, McGuire will have plenty of followers in Atlanta, having announced his retirement at the end of this season.

McGuire would have been granted early retirement but for a career-high 18-point performance against Wake Forest by 6-9 substitute Bernard Thome to go with Bo Ellis' 20 and Butch Lee's 19. Thome, a sophomore, will be back on the bench when the ball goes up against UNCC. And he'll probably be off the bench in a hurry if the Warriors fall behind again.

North Carolina was comfortable most of the way against Kentucky's physical Wildcats despite the loss of foul-plagued, sore-elbowed All-American Phil Ford for the last 19 minutes. While he was in there, Ford scored only two points. But his backcourt mate, John Kuester, took over, running the Tar Heels' four-corner offense down the stretch and hitting four crucial free throws in the final 72 seconds after Kentucky had whacked a 15-point deficit to just one.

The injury-plagued Tar Heels also played without center Tommy LaGarde, out for the season with a knee injury, while Walter Davis scored 21 points despite a broken index finger on his shooting hand. Ford, LaGarde and Davis all were members of the United States gold medal-winning Olympic basketball team.

It would have been Cinderella vs. Cinderella had Idaho State beaten run-and-gun Nevada-Las Vegas. But after trailing 52-51 at the half, UNLV's Ronnie Rebels caught fire following a pep talk from Coach Jerry Tarkenton and outscored the Bengals 20-7 in the first seven minutes of the second half.

"I gave them a scolding," Tarkenton reported. "The first half, we played like we were in a trance. We didn't play with any intensity. We're not a good basketball team unless we play with intensity."

Eddie Owens scored 13 of his 24 points and Robert Smith had 12 of his 18 in the second half.

Bucks Blasted In Semifinals

St. Mary Pops Title Dream

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

LANSING. — Buchanan's dream of a second straight Class C championship turned into a nightmare here Saturday night.

Redford St. Mary roared out to a 46-28 halftime lead and coasted past the Bucks 88-59 in the Class C semifinals before more than 3,500 fans at Lansing Eastern.

"They are a great defensive team," Buchanan coach Jon Bohannon said. "And I feel they are the next state champions. Tonight was really the championship game. And as far as I'm concerned we are the second best team in the state."

Redford St. Mary, now 22-4,

will face Saginaw SS. Peter and Paul next Saturday night at Crisler Arena for the Class C crown. But if Saturday's defensive effort is any indication, the Rusties should have no problem capturing the title.

St. Mary's tenacious defense forced Buchanan into a poor 32 per cent shooting effort (on 21 of 64 shots from the floor) and 33 turnovers.

"We just got them out of their game," St. Mary coach Pat Mulcahy said. "Buchanan is a good team, but the kids were ready. It was our game that they played tonight. We just played our game and that's a strong man-to-man."

It was that tremendous defense which, for all practical purposes, wrapped the game up in the opening four minutes. Buchanan's top scorer, Gerald Busby, picked up four personal fouls in the first 3:49. Busby re-entered the game in the second quarter and finally fouled out only three minutes into the third stanza. The 6-4 standout scored just nine points, the first time in 25 games Busby has been held out of double figures.

The nine-point effort did push the junior's career total to 1,004 points. Busby is believed to be only the second junior in southwestern Michigan history to achieve that status. The other was Fennville's Richie Jordan.

"Our game plan was to get the ball inside to Gerald," Bohannon said. "But when you don't have Gerald to get the ball in to, it's tough to do."

"We didn't lose anything emotionally when he went out of the game. But we sure lost the skill factor."

Forward Tony Taylor drew the assignment of guarding Busby for St. Mary. And the 6-4 standout limited Busby to just three of 12 from the floor.

"I think we frustrated him a little bit," Mulcahy said. "And because of that he got out of his game."

"But then Taylor is one of the best defensive men around. He's quick, can jump, plays great position and is a smart player. He doesn't get cheap fouls."

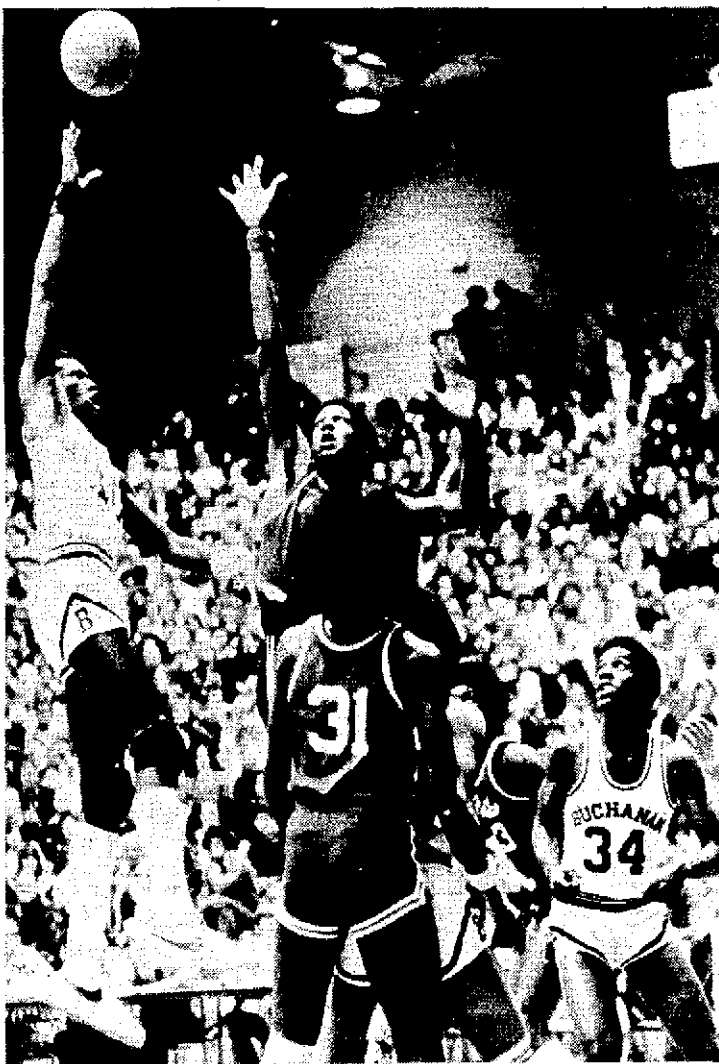

Offensively, it was the one-two punch of 6-4 forward Joe Stafford and 6-7 center Steve Jones which did Buchanan in. Stafford blistered the nets on 11 of 17 from the floor and scored 27 points, while Jones added a 7-of-10 effort for 17 points.

The duo combined for 29 points in the first half as St. Mary raced to the 18-point halftime margin. Stafford tallied 19 and Jones 10.

Mo Kyles and Greg Frazier were the only Buchanan players to hit double digits. Kyles tallied 18 and Frazier added 13. But the duo were limited to a combined eight points in the first half.

St. Mary also finished with a 43-30 board edge with Stafford and Jones pulling down eight apiece. Mo Kyles grabbed 11 for the Bucks.

But the total brought Busby's career mark to 1,004, making the 6-4 forward only the second area junior ever to score 1,000 points. Stafford topped St. Mary with 27. (Staff photo by Harry Smith)

49ers Earn Recognition

Eliminate Top-Ranked Wolverines, 75-68

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Johnny Orr says 17th-ranked North Carolina-Charlotte has "a chance" of winning the 1977 NCAA college basketball championship.

"When you are there, you have a chance," said Orr, coach of the nation's top-ranked team, the Michigan Wolverines.

UNCC, the Cinderella team in the tournament field, stands only two victories away from realizing that dream after sending the heavily favored Wolverines to the sidelines Saturday with a 75-68 victory in the NCAA Midwest Regional finals.

It was no fluke.

The unheralded 49ers trailed only twice all day — 2-0 in the opening seconds and 49-48 with 12 minutes remaining after Michigan had valiantly overcome a 13-point halftime deficit. The Carolina team quickly pulled away again and it was obvious Michigan would not make it to the final four in Atlanta this week.

The 49ers, who destroyed sixth-ranked Syracuse in the regional semifinals Thursday night, will face No. 7 Marquette and its fiery, retiring head coach, Al McGuire, in one of the semifinal tests at the Omni Saturday.

The other will pair fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas, the nation's highest scoring team, against No. 3 North Carolina, the more widely acclaimed representative of the Tar Heel state.

"We just defeated the No. 1 team in the nation," said Coach Lee Rose, who seems to enjoy needling the pollsters who overlooked his team.

"We are not even ranked in UPI," he said. "We are 17 in AP. We beat 6 and 1. Maybe now is the time to go home. But I think we'll go to Atlanta."

His team will generate some excitement. First, there is Cornbread Maxwell, a smooth operating 6-foot-8 center who seldom lets a deadpan expression leave his face. Then, there is Lew Massey, second only to Maxwell on the school's all-time scoring list.

Guard Melvin Watkins is nicknamed "Bionic" because of his muscular build. Kevin King is an excellent defensive player who held Michigan's Olympic gold medalist Phil Hubbard to only 14 points.

Chad Kinch, a 6-foot-4 freshman guard, turned in the most spectacular play in the Michigan game just before halftime, sweeping down the right baseline, leaving the floor about eight feet out and stuffing a shot over Hubbard.

Maxwell led the scoring with 25 points and also had 13 rebounds. He took the ball upcourt against Michigan's pressing defense. Massey contributed 19 points. All-American Ricky Green led the Wolverines with 20.

'Cornbread' Maxwell Cut Once

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell, the silky smooth North Carolina-Charlotte center who ousted top-ranked Michigan from the NCAA tournament, once was cut from his high school squad for being too slow and awkward.

Maxwell poured in 25 points, pulled down 13 rebounds and handled the ball like a guard against Michigan's pressing defense Saturday to lead the unheralded 49ers to a 75-68 decision over the favored Wolverines. Maxwell said he only played his senior year in high school after the coach accused him of being slow and awkward when he cut him his junior season.

"I didn't agree with the coach," said Maxwell, who had only one full scholarship offer when he graduated — to UNC-Charlotte, which now moves into next week's national semifinals in Atlanta against No. 7 Marquette.

"That was the only team I ever saw that let their center bring the ball up the floor," said Steve Grote, an intense Michigan performer who plays a key role in its pressing defense.

Maxwell said he learned to handle the ball in the streets of his home town, Kingston, N.C. "Street ball teaches something that a coach can't teach."

Lee Rose, the Charlotte coach, calls Maxwell the best player in the country "pound for pound," and says he does more things well than any other big man in the nation. Concerning Maxwell facing the press, "We would be remiss if we did not incorporate his ball-handling ability into our attack against pressure."

The 6-foot-8 Maxwell said he got his nickname from the movie, "Cornbread, Earl and Me," because he resembled Jamaal Wilkes, a former UCLA star now with the Golden State Warriors of the National Basketball Association.

Phil Hubbard, Michigan's Olympic gold medalist, could not handle Maxwell inside. "He ranks right up there with the finest I saw all year," Hubbard said.

"He's a good ball player. You can't take it away from him," said Grote.

Maxwell was named the Most Valuable Player in the NCAA Midwest tournament and was joined on the All-Tournament team by teammate Lew Massey, Michigan's Hubbard, All-American Ricky Green and Detroit's John Long.

Edwardsburg Girls State Volleyball Champs

It only took southwestern Michigan two years to get state champion in girls volleyball.

Edwardsburg became the first area school to accomplish that feat when it topped Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern 13-10, 14-15, 15-10 in the finals of the Class C tourney at Spring Arbor College Saturday.

Smith Haven almost equaled

the Eddies' task but the Rams came up short in the second annual tourney. They won their first two matches and lost to Sturgis in the finals 15-1, 15-8 in Class B. The Rams end the season at 25-1.

Bridgeport topped Watersmeet in the first round of the "D" meet at Delta College, but lost to Flint Holy Rosary in the semifinals 15-1, 15-2.

The Eddies got to the championship by beating Rogers City 15-5, 15-10 and Gaidwin 15-4, 13-10. They then topped Northern in the first game of the finals and coach Pat Reutko thought something might give.

"I was afraid they would let down after they won the first game so easily," she mentioned. "Northern came back with some super serves."

In the last game, Edwardsburg was never behind. Northern did come back to tie the Eddies twice, but could never overcome the eventual state champs. "The kids played real well in the clutch," Reutko beamed.

The Eddies' top spikers were Sheryl Knispel and Tammy Herrmanns. And in the last game, Sue Catto came through with some clutch hits. Reutko mentioned.

"A big key in the last game was our defense," she added. "We made more saves and played more balls than at any

NEW HOPE IN THE DISCOVERY AND TREATMENT OF INHERITED DISEASES

Potential for some diseases, including diabetes and many birth defects, can be passed on through the genes, tiny elements that determine our makeup. Now researchers are starting to understand how to detect the "bad" ones.

Some of the most exciting medical advances in recent years have come in the field of genetics, the biological study of heredity and its variations. We now know that genes not only control the color of our eyes and hair and whether we have the right number of fingers and toes but that they also can determine whether or not we'll be susceptible to such illnesses as heart disease, diabetes and other life-threatening diseases. Here are some of the facts and some of the good news about genetic advances.

WHAT ARE GENETIC DEFECTS?

Simply stated, genetic defects are disorders and diseases with which some people are born. Many, such as Down's syndrome—the medical name for mongolism—are obvious at birth. Others don't become evident until weeks, months or even years later.

The array of genetic diseases is staggering, but of the 1,500 that have been identified, most are extremely rare. Not so rare, however, are diseases like diabetes, heart disease and some other illnesses.

WHAT CAUSES GENETIC DISEASES?

Inherited diseases and disorders usually are caused by flawed genes. Geneticists know that of the thousands of genes we each carry on our 23 pairs of chromosomes, between eight and 10 are likely to be defective. Rarely do these bad genes make their presence known. But under some circumstances they can—and do—cause trouble.

HOW ARE THE CARRIERS OF GENETIC DISORDERS IDENTIFIED?

It usually takes only a simple blood test. These tests have become particularly important to families who have reason to fear these three so-called "ethnic diseases":

- Sickle Cell Anemia. This blood disease occurs most frequently among blacks and can now be identified in the carriers.

- Tay-Sachs' Disease. Jews of Eastern European descent are most prone to this always fatal disease. Doctors now urge all Jewish couples of child-bearing age and from this background to come in for testing when they marry.

- Thalassemia. Italians, Greeks and Near Easterners run the greatest risk of thalassemia, a blood disease that is fatal in its most severe form. Although carriers now can be identified through blood tests, the tests can't show whether or not the fatal form is present.

Needless to say, the overwhelming majority of couples tested for these diseases will be reassured that they run no risk of passing them on. For the others, help is available in genetic counseling.

WHO SHOULD HAVE GENETIC COUNSELING?

The greatest need is among couples who already have had an abnormal child, who have seen a certain type of genetic disease in their families and who have been identified as carriers of a specific disorder.

In addition, women over 35 who wish to have a baby have been seeking counseling in ever-greater numbers because of publicity

Sunny Walnut Loaf

Offer lots of butter and marmalade to spread on this delicious walnut-studded quick bread.

Start with a basic nutbread batter, first sifting in some cardamom with the dry ingredients. When you stir in the walnuts, required in the recipe, add grated peel from one medium-size orange and about one-fourth cup diced candied citron or citrus peels per loaf.

The bright fruit touches are in delicious harmony with the crunchiness of walnuts, America's favorite ingredient nut in all kinds of home baked goodies.

The Rain In Spain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After working 34 years for the National Weather Service, Oscar Nichols, a 57-year-old meteorologist here, decided to do something new. He sent the weather report across the wires all in rhyme.

For example: "Strong winds will develop over the ocean and over the land; Creating in the desert areas of blowing dust and sand."

"Now bright blue skies will bring sunny and warm days; And super visibility since the wind swept out the haze."

The idea for a rhyming forecast came from Wayne McCarter, another weatherman, who Nichols said "Breaks into verse every now and then."

McCarter turned out a poetic prediction about 10 days ago and got quite a reaction — favorable letters, phone calls and even a two-pound box of candy.

Five percent of all babies are born with genetic defects, but new knowledge could significantly reduce the risks of these disorders.

about the increased risk of giving birth to a mongoloid child as the age of the mother advances.

WHAT IS GENETIC COUNSELING?

For couples who have something to fear from genetic disorders, counseling is a means of learning what their risks are and what medical means are available to reduce those risks. Basically, counseling can tell them what the genetic disease they face means in medical, emotional and even financial terms. Just as important, the counseling can correct the misinformation people have about genetic diseases and reassure parents that it's not their fault that a child is affected.

HOW CAN GENETIC DISEASES BE DIAGNOSED DURING PREGNANCY?

There are two methods of prenatal diagnosis. The best known is amniocentesis. In this procedure, a long needle is inserted into the mother's abdomen to draw fluid from the amniotic sac where the fetus is developing. An analysis of that fluid will tell doctors whether or not the genetic problem they're looking for is present.

The other new procedure is ultrasound, a method of scanning the mother's abdomen with high-frequency sound waves to ascertain the position of the fetus, to measure the infant's head size and to monitor the rate of fetal growth and development.

WHAT ABOUT HEART DISEASE AND DIABETES?

These are the diseases doctors say have a genetic component. They tend to run in certain families. High-risk individuals frequently can be identified through blood tests and regular checkups. A susceptibility to heart disease, for instance, may be indicated by an inherited condition called hyperlipemia—an abnormally high level of fatty substances in the bloodstream. This condition can be counteracted to a significant extent by diet. Diabetes can be controlled through medication and proper diet. Preventive measures—regular checkups, weight control—can reduce the risk in susceptible families.

WHERE ARE COUNSELING AND TREATMENT AVAILABLE?

The National Genetics Foundation has established a Genetic Counseling and Treatment Network to provide diagnosis, treatment and counseling to people concerned about genetic disorders of all varieties. Genetic counseling also is available through medical centers, teaching hospitals and clinics. The March of Dimes maintains a directory of genetic-counseling units throughout the United States.

By Mike Sandin
Agronomist

Every year I see people pour more and more money into their lawns. They dig, fertilize and lime. They rake it all in. They scatter their seed and roll and water it.

Birds love it! Seeds which aren't washed away by rain give them a feast. But some seed grows, and soon it's time to weed, water and mow, mow . . .

until summer comes to burn the lawn into hay, or crabgrass and diseases infest it.

That's what happens to ordinary grass, but not to Amazon Zoysia.

"MOWED IT 2 TIMES," WRITES WOMAN

For example, Mrs. M. R. Mitter writes me how her lawn " . . . is the envy of all who see it. When everybody's lawns around here are brown from drought ours just stays as green as ever. I've never watered it, only when I put the plugs in . . . Last summer we had it mowed (2) times. Another thing, we never have to pull any weeds — it's just wonderful!"

And from Iowa came word that the state's largest Men's Garden Club picked a Zoysia lawn as the "top lawn — nearly perfect" in its area. Yet this lawn had been watered only once all summer up to August!

Cuts Your Work, Saves You Money

Your deep-rooted, established Amazon lawn saves you time and money in many ways. It never needs replacement . . . ends re-seeding forever. Fertilizing and watering (water costs money, too) are rarely if ever needed. It ends the need for crabgrass killers permanently. It cuts pushing a noisy mower in the blistering sun by 2/3.

CHOKES OUT CRABGRASS

Thick rich, luxurious Amazon grows into a carpet of grass that chokes out crabgrass and weeds all summer long. It will NOT winter kill. Goes off its green color after killing frost, regains fresh new beauty every Spring — a true perennial!

For Slopes, Play Areas, Bare Spots

End erosion of slopes with Amazon. Perfect answer for hard-to-cover spots, play-worn areas.

Your Own Supply of Plug Transplants

NO SEED, NO SOD!

There's no seed that produces winter-hardy Meyer Zoysia. Sod of ordinary grass brings with it the problems of seed, like weeds, diseases, burning out, other ills.

Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass Was Perfected by U.S. Govt.; Released In Cooperation With U.S. Golf Assoc. as a superior grass.

Order guaranteed Amazon now, get your bonus plugs FREE. Your order will be delivered at earliest correct time for planting in your area.

If it isn't Amazon, you're not getting the plugs that made Zoysia famous.

Accept No Substitutes

Consumer protective agencies constantly warn consumers, "Be sure you're getting the brand you're paying for; watch out for bait and switch people." So look for the name Amazon if you want the real thing — the world's best known zoysia. Our pre-cut plugs (full 3 sq. in.) look different, ARE different. Why take chances with an untried grass? There really is no substitute.

Believe 'Squirrel' Killer Abducted Boy

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — The person who abducted an 11-year-old Birmingham boy is "a squirrel-kind of killer who strikes when it snows," a criminal psychiatrist said Sunday.

Dr. Bruce Danto of Detroit said the suspect, who is believed to have abducted and murdered three other Oakland County children in the last 14 months, "picks kids up like a squirrel picks up nuts in the wintertime, and then he drops them (dead) on the road."

Timothy King was last seen Wednesday night when he went to a drugstore four blocks from his home in this Detroit suburb to buy a candy bar.

Since January 1976, six youngsters have disappeared and were later found dead in crimes that began or ended in Oakland County.

Danto said Timothy's abduction was prompted by a weather forecast of snow. He described the abductor as a "loner" who does not succeed as an adult but is expert at gaining the confidence of children.

The person plays with homicide "because, like the child he is, he is getting away with it," Danto claimed.

Police in this affluent area north of Detroit have asked children if they were ever approached by a stranger who tried to lure them into a car. Officials said they now believe Timothy was abducted on a chance basis, and that the abductor has probably tried to solicit other children.

French Leftists Post Big Gains

PARIS (AP) — The Socialist-Communist drive to win control of the French National Assembly next year picked up steam from runoff local elections in which the leftist alliance won a majority of the popular vote and control of 70 per cent of France's larger cities.

Sunday's defeat was the biggest ever suffered by the conservative-centrist coalition, forged by the late President Charles de Gaulle after he established the Fifth Republic 19 years ago. It opened a year of hard political fighting in preparation for the National Assembly elections scheduled for March 1978.

Police on Friday released a psychological profile of the abductor based on similar crimes. It describes the person as intelligent and educated who is probably a white-collar worker who lives or works in Oakland County. The abductor is almost a fanatic about cleanliness and may be considered a loner by other adults, according to the profile.

Meanwhile Sunday, Timothy's mother issued an open letter pleading for the safe return of her missing 11-year-old son.

The letter, published in the Detroit News, came as police continued efforts to find the boy and a man seen talking to him moments before his disappearance.

"There are no words to express how much we all miss Tim," Marian King said in her letter. "I appeal to all of you from the bottom of my heart —

Police said they believed a man seen talking to Timothy is connected with the boy's disappearance, not merely a witness.

"This man is able to lure a youngster even to a point that he (the youngster) ignores the safeguards and warnings he's been told," said Birmingham Police chief Jerry Tobin. "We don't have a shabby, dirty man here with a bag of candy."

Police said the unidentified man was seen talking to Timothy moments before the youth left a drugstore where he bought some candy.

CHINA DOLL: Eleven-year-old Susan Basch lets her mother take a good look after returning to Denver, Colo. from a trip to China with several schoolmates. Susan wears a cap that "everybody wears there." Sixteen students of private Colorado Academy, age 11-15, went on 18-day tour of China, returning Saturday with bags of souvenirs ranging from Mao caps to acupuncture needles. (AP Wirephoto)

Brezhnev Raps Carter's Stand

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev said today that relations between the United States and the Soviet Union cannot develop normally as long as the Carter administration defends Soviet dissidents.

"Washington's claims to teach others how to live, I believe, cannot be accepted by any sovereign state," Brezhnev told a congress of trade unions.

He said normal development of relations is "unthinkable" under these conditions.

Four Schools In State Finals

Detroit Catholic League Super

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Detroit Catholic League will be represented by four teams in the Michigan High School Athletic Association basketball finals at Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor Saturday.

And five of the league's 34 squads were among the 16 semifinalists in this year's state prep basketball tournament.

Detroit Catholic Central was the only representative of the league to fall last Saturday — and the Shamrocks' loss was a 65-63 setback at the hands of league rival Birmingham Brother Rice.

Catholic Central had an opportunity to tie the contest from a 64-62 deficit in the closing seconds. Rob Gonzalez, who scored 13 points for CC, hit the first half of a one-and-one free throw situation. His second attempt missed, and Tim Schearer, who scored 13 for Brother Rice, put the victory away with a final free throw.

In the other Class A semifinal game Saturday, top-ranked Lansing Everett defeated Saginaw, 48-10. Earvin "Magic" Johnson hit for 16 points and Larry Hunter 13 to lead the Vikings, improving their record to 26-1.

Everett meets Brother Rice (21-3) in the state Class A finale at the University of Michigan's arena at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

In Class B, Dearborn Divine Child earned the right to represent the Catholic League with a thrilling 51-50 defeat of Saginaw Buena Vista. Tom Wing dropped in a free throw in the closing seconds to give the explosive "as they were," Bohannon said. "But I didn't expect them to dominate the boards like they did. They took the boards away from us in the first half and that was it."

Despite the loss, Buchanan still has much to look forward to for next year. The Bucks return five of the top six players from this year's 21-6 team, losing only guard Joe Kyles.

"I'm starting Monday getting ready for next year," Bohannon said. "All I have to do is talk about this ballgame to get ready for next year. We're going to get stronger from this loss."

"I'm awfully proud of these guys. They played over injuries all year. These are very strong-willed kids. I love these kids and am very proud of them."

Redford hit on 40 of 81 from the floor for 49 per cent. The Rusties hit on 21 of 35 in the first half (60 per cent).

Redford committed 24 turnovers themselves.

other time of the year."

Rezutko had a feeling at the start of the regionals that the Eddies, who end the season at 27-4, might go all the way.

"I had a feeling in the back of my mind but I didn't want to push it," she stated. "We never really pointed to the state title. But when we played so well in the regionals, I said that if we could play that well in the finals, we could take it."

South Haven wasn't as fortunate as Edwardsburg. The Rams topped Tawas Area 15-10, 15-8 in the quarterfinals and then beat Grand Rapids Christian 15-3, 15-9 in the semis before bowing to Sturgis in the finals.

"All year we would give up a few points but would come back and win," commented coach Dene Hedden. "But Sturgis just kept the pressure on us all the time in the finals."

Even though South Haven lost the first match badly, the score was tied at 1-1. But Sturgis reeled off the next 14 points, never more than three at a time though, to take the first game.

Just about the same thing happened in the second game. Sturgis got the Rams down early but South Haven fought back to trail by one at 6-5. The strength of spiker Sue Wegner prevailed for the winners the rest of the way.

Ram spikers while Libby Shockey and Lois Moritti did the setting. Amar, Webster, Moritti and Mosley were all Wolverine conference performers.

Hedden will have to do some rebuilding on the team as seven of his 12 girls are seniors. "But I consider eight of the 12 my starters and four of them are underclassmen," he stated.

Bridgman knocked off Watersmeet 3-15, 15-12, 15-9 in the quarterfinals before losing to Flint Holy Rosary, the eventual state champ.

Rosary is just basically a machine when it comes to girls sports. Bees' coach Chuck Ridgeway explained. It is 89-0 since volleyball became a varsity sport and has won its last 55 girls basketball games.

"Those girls weren't exceptionally big, but they spiked that ball like crazy," Ridgeway declared. "In the two games, they maybe had just one point which wasn't decided by a spike. They were a super, super club. We were just lucky to get out of there alive."

In the first match against Watersmeet, Hope Schaller led the Bee spikers with seven while Sandy Bannman had seven and Tracy Spitzer four. Joan Newsted was the most successful setter.

The Bees will have a lot of new faces on the team next season as 11 of the 12 girls graduated.

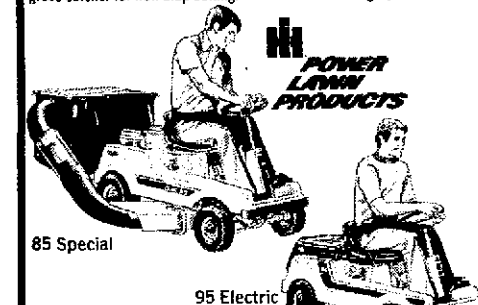

TRAP SHOOTER: Mark Hayes had to stand in an awkward position while shooting out of a sand trap on the 18th green during final round play of the Tournament Players Championship Sunday at Jacksonville, Fla. Hayes picked up $60,000 while winning the tourney. (AP Wirephoto)

Resignation Next For Ousted Indira Gandhi

By MYRON L. BELKIND
Associated Press Writer

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi probably will resign today following the loss of her seat in Parliament and reverses suffered by her Congress party in the Indian general election, official sources reported.

Mrs. Gandhi's foes already had begun talks to try to put together a government. With returns in for 283 of the 542 seats in the lower house of Parliament, the new Janata (People's) party had 135 and could count on the support of nine more. Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party, which won two-thirds of the seats in the 1971 election, had only 103. Independents, regional groups and a handful of minor parties accounted for the rest. Hours after the announcement that she had lost her own seat, the 59-year-old prime minister ordered the end of the state of emergency, under which she imprisoned thousands of her opponents, and the restoration of all civil liberties. Proclaimed in June 1975 to keep her in office after her conviction on a charge of campaign irregularities, the emergency sparked a voter revolt that contributed to her downfall, the defeat of her son Sanjay in his first bid for office, and the eclipse of the ruling dynasty her father, the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, established 30 years ago. The chief contenders to succeed her are two former leaders of the Congress party who broke with her, Morarji Desai and Jagjivan Ram. Desai, now 81, was Mrs. Gandhi's deputy prime minister in 1969 when she split the party in a struggle for power with conservative leaders. He and other conservatives formed the Opposition Congress, and in January it merged with three other opposition parties to form the Janata. Ram, the 68-year-old leader of India's Untouchable caste, was the agriculture minister in Mrs. Gandhi's last cabinet. He broke with her last month and formed the Congress for Democracy, which won seven seats in the early returns. There was speculation that Mrs. Gandhi's defeat would produce more defectors from her Congress who would rally behind Desai or Ram. Although separate parties, the Janata and Ram's Congress campaigned together and pledged to work together in the new Parliament. No major shift in foreign policy is expected since the Janata's manifesto pledged adherence to India's traditional policy of nonalignment "free from any attachment to any power bloc."

Await Landmark Ruling In Detroit Bugging Case

DETROIT (AP) — In what could be a landmark decision, a federal judge here is expected to rule this week whether government agents must obtain search warrants to enter buildings and plant court-approved electronic "bugs."

Whichever way Judge Damon J. Keith rules, it will play an important part in a two-year-old case against two reputed Detroit area mobsters whose activities were monitored by government "bugs."

Dominic J. Licavoli and Salvatore "Sam" Finazzo are accused of taking part in the alleged $18,000 bribery of a Small Business Administration official in Cleveland, Salvatore A. Lauricella.

Keith is the same judge whose decision six years ago that held unrestricted government wiretapping illegal led to present standards for wiretap authorizations. That decision, in a case involving the left-wing "White Panthers" of Ann Arbor, was upheld 8-0 by the U.S. Supreme Court in June, 1972.

At issue now is the question: If the FBI obtains a court order allowing electronic surveillance of telephone lines, does that automatically permit agents to enter a building in order to place the bugs?

Earlier this year the Court of Appeals in Washington, D.C. ruled that the government must notify the court of all entries it makes in connection with court-ordered bugging.

But a 1976 decision by a New Jersey federal court held that a court order for electronic eavesdropping implies permission to enter the building to place the equipment.

It is likely Keith's ruling — either way — eventually will reach the U.S. Supreme Court.

The two reputed Detroit-area mobsters are charged with engineering an $18,000 bribe from owners of a Cleveland construction company, B.I.M. Lauricella was indicted last April on charges that he agreed to accept the bribe from two B.I.M. officials in exchange for getting the firm a SBA guarantee for a surety bond on a 1973 building and excavation project.

Charged with Lauricella were B.I.M. president Frank Ilacqua and vice-president John P. Bobal, both of Cleveland.

Also charged in the indictment were Licavoli, of Detroit, and Finazzo, now living in Leonard, Mich.

Court records show that during the fall of 1973 the FBI got federal court orders for a series of three electronic wiretaps on telephones at a Detroit business in which Finazzo reportedly had an interest.

Defense attorneys for Licavoli and Finazzo have charged that the evidence gained from that surveillance ought to be thrown out of court because the FBI did not have search warrants when the bugs were planted.

John L. Newcomer, special attorney for the U.S. Organized Crime Strike Force in Detroit, has argued that the court order allowing the wiretaps implied authorization for surreptitious entry to plant the bugs.

Sciatica-A Painful Experience for Anyone

Sciatica, often mistakenly referred to as a disease, is actually a symptom of nerve pressure or an irritation of the sciatic nerve caused by a physical injury, mal-function, or disease.

"Since the sciatic nerve is the largest and longest nerve in the human body, it is not surprising that many authorities consider it the most susceptible to injury," says Dr. Ackerman of the Chiropractic Center.

While sciatica can occur in either sex, seventy-two percent of its victims are men.

"Whether caused by over-exertion, a fall down a stairway, or a kick from a mule, the result is the same...pain," Dr. Ackerman continues. "The pain may be only minor in its first stages, or it may be so crippling and intense as to make strong athletes weep."

Pain may appear anywhere in the region of the sciatic nerve, from the low back down to the feet.

"Applying heat or cold to the painful area, or gulping pain-killing drugs might bring temporary relief at best," Dr. Ackerman explains. "But the problem will remain."

As a specialist in nerves and spinal disorders, the Doctor of Chiropractic knows that nerve interference in the low back is the actual cause of the problem. His training and experience enable him to treat the cause, not just administer temporary measures aimed at relieving the symptoms. With the nerve interference eliminated, the sciatic nerve can once again function properly, eliminating the pain and discomfort naturally from within.

Dr. Ackerman maintains Chiropractic offices at 3918 Red Arrow Highway, St. Joseph (telephone 429-1700.) (c) ARS 1977

Hungarians Big On Smoking

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Hungarians are second only to Americans in the smoking of cigarettes, according to statistics published here. The annual per capita consumption in this country of 10.5 million is 3,750 cigarettes.

The statistics, compiled by Dr. Laszlo Vertes and Dr. Nandor Kun, put Canada in third place, followed by Switzerland, Britain, Poland, Japan and Bulgaria.

The United States and Bulgaria were listed as the leading producers of tobacco, with an average of 4.1 million tons of tobacco leaves being harvested annually worldwide.

Hungary has a "Society of Opponents to Smoking," with a membership of some 4,000, which seeks to promote a ban on smoking in offices and certain catering establishments.

Some see the sea from where they live,
Some see the open fields.
To some, atop a ridge or hill,
A gorgeous landscape yields.

Some view the mountains rising high,
Some watch a river flow,

We see and some you know:

One way a street, one way a house,
A house that is immense.
That leaves two other views we have,
And both the same: a fence.

Milliken Did Big Turnabout On PBB

By ROY HOWARD BECK
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Two years ago, Gov. William Milliken was making it fairly clear where his administration stood on the PBB issue.

A tone of his statements and those of his top aides, however, was much different from that of the governor's comments in an interview with The Associated Press, released on Thursday.

Referring to the political albatross that PBB has become for him, Milliken said in the AP interview that he only wished he had done a better job of telling the public how much his administration did in dealing with the PBB crisis.

But in March 1975, the governor and his administration were making major attempts — particularly in Grand Rapids — to downplay concern about the fire-retardant chemical which is responsible for the largest livestock poisoning in history.

A series of 13 stories in the Grand Rapids Press was detailing how PBB problems appeared to be multiplying, rather than subsiding, two years after the accidental mixing of PBB in livestock feed.

Experts and officials — both state and national — were raising serious questions about potential health hazards. Some citizens, as well as some officials in West Michigan, were crying for a lowering of the legal level of PBB allowed in food.

On March 20, 1975, Milliken made a rare public statement to try to allay concerns. Usually he had aide Mark Mason or department of agriculture officials rebut handling of the PBB problems. But that day, Milliken stated that reports of human health problems "allegedly connected with PBB, tend to create a sense of alarm which I believe is unwarranted."

He went on to assure consumers that the state was testing every animal butchered so there should be no fear about contaminated meat reaching the supermarkets.

But it was later discovered that slaughterhouse testing contained no special analysis for PBB. Even Mason admitted that only a few selected cattle were undergoing the expensive PBB tests to which Milliken had alluded.

A side of PBB-contaminated beef could slip through inspections and into the supermarkets somewhat easily, Mason acknowledged.

So Meijer, Inc., a Grand Rapids-based supermarket chain, announced it was considering much more stringent safeguards in buying its meat than the state had recommended.

On March 25, 1975, Milliken sent Mason and several other administration officials to persuade Meijer not to take the extra precautionary steps.

Tolerance levels and inspection procedures provided all the safety needed, they said, and extra precautions merely would add to "the climate of fear" in Western Michigan.

Meijer snubbed Milliken's delegation and instituted the tougher buying standards. Many stores began to advertise that they handled only out-of-state beef.

Milliken hastily gathered top aides in a special PBB task force which criticized stories in the press. Resulting was a scathing eight-page attack on some newspapers for carrying the stories.

"People in some parts of the state are being terrorized for no justifiable reason thanks to conclusions that little or no basis in fact," the task force charged.

It denounced news reports for implying that cattle were dying as a result of PBB contamination, or that meat inspection wasn't thorough enough.

Milliken's task force also rejected arguments that the state wasn't doing enough to clean up the mills that handled the contaminated feed.

Yet in the landmark PBB trial now underway in Cadillac, a Department of Agriculture official testified last Tuesday that despite a state order to close the feed mill in McBain, officials in Lansing allowed the mill to stay open.

Throughout the spring of 1975, Milliken's administrative officials contended that the PBB problem was nearly over and rejected all attempts to lower PBB tolerance levels.

Milliken changed his position a year later and has since been advocating lowered levels.

Milliken was not alone in his insistence that citizens were off-base in their fears. Federal Food and Drug Administration official statements backed the Milliken administration.

And, in the spring of 1975, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley stood solidly behind Milliken.

With petitions being circulated now for the recall of Milliken because of the PBB problem, the fire-retardant material has proved to be as persistent in the political realm as in the chemical world.

AH SPRING??? Spring was officially ushered in at 12:43 p.m. yesterday, but as white stuff on ground at branch bank in Buchanan indicates, mother nature didn't cooperate. Southwestern Michigan residents awoke yesterday morning to find snow — up to three inches worth — instead of blossom petals. Higher than freezing temperatures, however, caused most to melt before nightfall. Forecast calls for more snow tonight and some Tuesday. (Staff photo)

FIRST DAY OF 'SPRING' DOES IT Winter's Snowfall Sets Record

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm & Features Editor

The 3 to 3.5 inches of snow that greeted southwestern Michigan Sunday for the first day of Spring also sent the winter's total snowfall over the top to a 53-year record at the Herbert Teichman weather observation station near Eau Claire.

And still not content, the National Weather Service predicts another two to three inches of snow tonight. Spring arrived officially at 12:43 p.m. Sunday.

Teichman, who recorded 3 inches of snow Sunday morning, said it boosted the total snow at his station for the winter to 110 inches. That smashed the old record of 108½ inches of snow measured there in the 1962-63 winter. Teichman and his father, the late William Teichman, have maintained a weather observation station in cooperation with the National Weather Service since 1924.

The record at Teichman's station is supported by a record of 159 inches of snow measured during the winter at the Paw Paw village public works department in neighboring Van Buren county. Harry Bush, head of the Paw Paw department, was not available this morning for comment on the snowfall there. However, Paul Kaiser, engineer-manager of the Van Buren County Road commission, stated that the 159 inches there was a all-time high for the 25 years records have been maintained there.

The 110 inches of snow measured at the Teichman station is nearly double the average winter figure of 56 inches there.

Teichman said a review of the station records also showed the winter produced several other records.

Continuous snow cover of one-inch or more on the ground for 96 days, from Nov. 29 to March 4 is a record, and compares with an average of 61 days.

January was the coldest month on record, having a mean temperature of 12.5 degrees. The old record was 15 degrees for January of 1963.

Monthly snowfall totals at the Teichman station this winter were: November, 25½ inches; December 36 inches; January, 35½ inches; February, 8½ inches, and March to date, 4½ inches.

Trooper Ailment No Heart Attack

NEW BUFFALO — State Trooper Charles Bohn, 32, who sustained chest pains during a foot chase near Grand Beach late Friday night, was reported in "good" condition today at St. Anthony hospital, Michigan City, Ind.

The hospital said Bohn did not suffer a heart attack. He has been removed from the intensive care unit to a regular room, the hospital said. The nature of the illness was not reported by the hospital.

The hospital said Bohn is expected to be released soon.

The Benton Harbor state police post said it learned that Bohn sustained a deficiency in a coronary artery, and the heart, itself, was not damaged.

Bohn and Trooper Donald Beck arrested two Indiana men after stopping an auto for defective equipment late Friday night. Bohn apprehended the driver after a foot chase, the post said. Details of the arrest were reported in Saturday's edition of this newspaper.

Trooper Bohn joined the department in 1966, served two years at the Jackson post and then was transferred to New Buffalo, where he served since.

Two Pedestrians Are Auto Victims

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two elderly pedestrians were among five persons who died in weekend traffic accidents on Michigan roads and highways, state police reported today.

Troopers said Katherine Witzke, 71, of Au Gres, was struck and killed Saturday as she walked along U.S. 23 in Arenac County.

Mark Robinson, 75, of Owosso, was killed Saturday when he was hit by a car on Michigan 52 near Michigan 21, officials said.

State police identified the other victims as:

—Donald James Lockwood, 20, of Eaton Rapids, who was killed Sunday when the car he was riding in went out of control and rolled over on Bellview Highway south of Charlotte.

—Dean Lyle Miller, 31, of Midland, who died Sunday when the car he was driving collided broadside with another vehicle in Midland County's Larkin Township.

—Marc Anthony Sattler, 20, of Rochester, who was killed Sunday when the car he was driving ran off the road in Macomb County's Shelby Township.

Radios, Boat Gear Are Stolen

SOUTH HAVEN — The theft of equipment valued at over $1,000 from boats at the All Seasons marina was reported to city police Saturday.

Allan Benson of Elk Grove Village, Ill. said a marine radio and AM-FM radio valued at $700 were taken from his boat sometime since Nov. 30.

Jim Burkett of Saugatuck reported the theft of fishing reels and equipment valued at $368 from his boat sometime since Nov. 23.

Speech Contest Won By Grams

Joel G. Grams, 3012 Windsor drive, St. Joseph township, and a member of Mainstreet Toastmasters, St. Joseph, won the Area III speech contest Saturday advocating self help.

The contest was held at the St. Joseph Elks lodge. Host for the contest was the Whirlpool Toastmasters club.

Grams took a curt reply from a weary waitress during World War II who advised him "to stir with what you got" when he asked for more sugar for his coffee. He used that as the title and theme of his speech.

Grams argued in his five and a half minute speech that all people, from those in small neighborhoods to the largest cities, can accomplish wonders if they merely use the tools and talents that have at hand.

Runnerup was George Craven of Whirlpool Toastmasters, Chief judge was Eleanor Horn-dasch, president of Whirlpool Toastmasters, and toastmaster was Joel Snider of the host club.

Grams will represent Area III, which covers Southwest Michigan, at the state contest April 22 and 23 in Flint.

Judge Won't Send Escaped Man Back

DETROIT (AP) — A Detroit Recorder's Court judge has refused to extradite an Alabama prison escapee because of what the judge termed intolerable prison conditions in that state.

Judge George Crockett Jr. ruled that sending 37-year-old Alphonsa Blount back to Alabama would subject him to "cruel and unusual punishment" in violation of his constitutional rights.

Blount escaped in the summer of 1974 while performing with a prison band in Montgomery, Ala. He had served one year of a 44-year sentence for armed robbery.

He fled to Detroit and has been steadily employed since that time, according to testimony at extradition hearings. He was arrested two years ago by federal officials armed with an Alabama fugitive warrant.

Blount said he did not commit the armed robbery, but pleaded guilty after a court-appointed lawyer promised him that the sentence would be only 90 days.

He had been paroled from prison a year before that after serving nearly 12 years of a 20-year sentence for armed robbery.

Crockett said Friday he based his ruling that the Alabama prison system did in fact constitute cruel and unusual punishment on hearings held by two U.S. district courts in that state.

Dowagiac Home Is Destroyed

DOWAGIAC — Fire here early Sunday destroyed a two-story home at 406 Walnut street, according to Dowagiac firemen.

Firemen said they have not yet determined the cause of the 3:07 a.m. blaze at the Mary Clark home.

The Clark family was away when the blaze broke out and firemen said. They said when the first truck arrived at the scene, the house was totally engulfed in flames.

There was no dollar estimate of damage.

Fidrych Admits Temper Tantrum Was 'Bush'

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

For a short while, it looked like Mark "The Bird" Fidrych had suffered the malady prevalent among newly established athlete stars — a swollen head.

The Detroit Tiger pitcher stomped toward home plate and argued vociferously with rookie umpire Ted Hendry over his contention that Fidrych had hit a batter in a recent exhibition game.

The Bird threw down his glove. Later he argued other calls with similar animation.

Had the 1976 American League baseball Rookie of the Year become such a great star that he could expect to intimidate the umpires?

Had Fidrych assumed he could get away with such antics because of his value as a drawing card?

So it seemed. But afterwards Fidrych spent a good 15 minutes admonishing himself in front of reporters. What he did was "bush," he said.

"You'll never see me do that again," he added.

"I should have just taken my medicine," said Fidrych, who had just given up eight hits, 12 runs and hit three batters in one inning against the Chicago White Sox.

Fidrych said things built up so much that he just "cracked."

His admitted "temper tantrum" was wrong.

His admission of that showed he has class. It indicated he won't be one to let his fame get in the way of honest self-criticism or lead to pomposity.

Except for his one-inning flareup, Fidrych seemed as relaxed as ever. He didn't let things bother him much last year and doesn't look like he will in 1977.

Asked if the burden of constant interviews and dealing with autograph hounds and ballpark groupies had much effect on him, The Bird said: "I'm very relaxed. I'm not under any strain. If I was, I'd just look myself away."

Usually a rookie has to be in the right place at the right time to make it big in the big leagues. Pitcher Dave Rozema of Grand Rapids is in that position. Tiger manager Ralph Houk virtually admitted recently that Rozema, who isn't on the regular 40-man roster, had the club made before spring training began. Houk said last year Fidrych had the team made "before he threw a pitch in spring training." Houk simply made up his mind based on The Bird's minor league performances and scouting reports.

"Is Rozema in the same boat?" Houk was asked.

"Well," he said, pausing, "I guess you'd have to say he is in the same boat. The only way he couldn't make this team is if he was to completely go to pieces."

Rookie leftfielder Tim Lincecum, meanwhile, isn't in the same boat. He's been ripping hits and driving in runs all over the place, but doesn't have such a good chance of making the team. With fellow rookie and former No. 1 draft choice Steve Kemp assured of a spot, there just doesn't appear to be room to squeeze Lincecum in among the many outfielders.

However, the first injury to an outfielder this season is almost sure to bring Lincecum up.

Comar Going To Wayne St.

DETROIT (AP) — Southgate Aquinas prep football coach Dick Comar has been named offensive line coach at Wayne State University.

Comar, 38, replaces Vern Sharbaugh, who resigned. Comar's job as assistant athletic coach becomes effective April 4, WSU officials said today.

Comar, a native of Adrian, had been football coach and athletic director at Southgate Aquinas since 1968 and compiled a 47-163 record there. He will have teaching responsibilities at Wayne in the physical education and health departments, officials said.

Time to listen. More than a million workers were laid off this winter as factories were shut down because natural gas was unavailable. Home heating by gas was threatened in many areas despite turned-down thermostats. For over 20 years, government regulation has operated to keep natural gas prices artificially low. In our view, this attempt to "protect" the consumer has led to misuse and waste of natural gas, and contributed directly to today's problems. Now there is a growing recognition by others that the removal of price regulation on new natural gas is a vital ingredient to any long-term solution. Below, some significant examples of that view:

The Washington Post

Enforcing conservation or increasing production "requires getting rid of the absurd and obsolete structure of gas price controls that encourages Americans to use too much of it for the wrong things. The country is going to have to pay more for the stuff, unless it wants to institutionalize the winter gas shortage as an annual event." Jan. 27, 1977

THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL

"The pricing mechanism is the best way to allocate a scarce premium resource. Gradual deregulation of natural gas is the best way of bringing that about. When will Congress see the light?" Feb. 14, 1976

The New York Times

"Mr. Carter evidently wants 90 days to devise an overall energy policy, including his campaign pledge to deregulate prices for 'new' gas. . . . Restricting wasteful and non-essential consumption is even more important than increasing the supply. Natural gas is a premium fuel, fully combustible, non-polluting and easy to transport. Neither increases in gas production nor effective conservation can be achieved while it is sold (in terms of comparative heat content) at half the price of coal and a fifth the price of oil. It should not be wasted on non-essential uses." Jan. 25, 1977

THE EVENING SUN (Baltimore)

"The plain fact is that artificially low prices on interstate gas have done two things. They have diverted much of this energy into the uncontrolled intrastate markets. . . . And this in turn has meant that the diminishing overall supply of gas has been unfairly allocated, with industry and residential owners in non-gas-producing states facing severe shortages." July 30, 1976

The Phoenix Gazette

"A free market would do a much better job of fairly distributing the natural gas supply than a government-regulated market ever could." Feb. 7, 1976

THE PLAIN DEALER (Cleveland)

"The only sensible solution is to allow free market forces to determine the wellhead price of . . . gas. To do otherwise is to hamper expansion of the economy and creation of new jobs through industrial expansion and commercial and residential construction. The choice is simple: Pay more for natural gas or promote unemployment." Oct. 16, 1976

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

WHAT IN THE WORLD...

Actress Karen Grassle Quick Diagnoses That Save Sick Plants

Plant problems? Here's how to diagnose the most common ones. Steve Smith, a Florida county extension ornamentalist, says if you discover a plant with burned leaf tips or brown margins, you need to reduce the amount of fertilizer you are feeding the plant. This also could mean you are being too stingy with the water. Yellowing and dropping leaves are a signal of gas fumes, overwatering, poor drainage or not enough air. Small leaves indicate too little water or that the plant is existing in tight or heavy soil. Weak growth or light green or yellow spots on healthy green foliage is a sign of too little fertilizer, root rot or that the light is too intense. A house plant that is yellowing, wilting or has "soft growth" is exposed to excessive heat or has a root injury. Plants with small leaves and long internodes indicate too little light or too high temperature. Most foliage plants do best at temperatures between 60° and 70° F. If the leaves are heavy with grime, use soapy water, a soft cloth and a gentle touch. While watering your plants, keep these points in mind: don't use cold water, as it shocks the plant. Only a dash of water can make the plant miserable. Often the soil in the bottom of the container becomes dry, causing the plant to wilt or die. Plants are like people in that they like their food served at regular intervals. Reduce fertilization during the winter months. The best suggestion on feeding plants is simply to follow the directions on the food container. If you do not want to buy a special house-plant fertilizer, mix one teaspoon of a complete garden fertilizer in one quart of water. Apply this solution every four to six weeks.

The Best Way To Bake A Potato

Baked potatoes are tastiest if they're wrapped in pierced foil, baked between 400°-425° F. for 50 to 60 minutes and served immediately from the oven, say researchers at the University of Idaho's agricultural program. They reported that most restaurant baked potatoes are served at an "on the plate" temperature of less than 160° F. The ideal temperature is 200° F., reached when a potato is taken from the oven and split just long enough to add salt, butter or sour cream.

Quick Takes

An apple can clean your teeth better than a toothbrush can, says Dr. Loren Tukey of Pennsylvania State University. An apple's efficiency rate as a tooth and gum cleaner is 95.5 percent, which is more than 30-percent better than a toothbrush's. . . . The most encouraging salary increase in the last 10 years occurred among women, according to the Federal Job Information Bureau. Starting salaries for women college graduates are 81-percent higher today than they were 10 years ago. . . . If you think 53 million stale crackers aren't worth their salt, you're not in the hauling and storing business. The city of Denver is paying $20,000 to have the crackers, leftover from old fallout shelters, taken off municipal hands. The U.S. Office of Emergency Preparedness has decided they now are inedible. . . . The average American family has cash assets of $2,100, according to a new study by the Detroit Bank and Trust Co. The study estimates that the average family has $50 cash on hand, $250 in checking accounts, $1,500 in savings accounts and $300 in U.S. Government savings bonds. . . . While coffee prices have been grabbing the headlines recently, another commodity desired by American consumers is selling at record-high levels. World cocoa prices have more than tripled in the last 13 months, meaning that shoppers will be paying higher prices than ever for chocolate products. Many of the big chocolate manufacturers have raised the price of candy bars from 15 to 20 cents, and analysts don't discount the possibility of the quarter candy bar unless cocoa prices stabilize.

A Do-It-Yourself SAT Cram Course

As the race for college acceptance tightens, study programs designed to prepare the student for the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) are flourishing. If you or your child plan to take the SAT soon, here are some of the coaches' tips:

1. If you don't know the answer, don't guess. Go on to the next question. A wrong answer counts against you; the trick is to get as few wrong and as many right as possible.
2. Do the easy questions first. Sometimes the first sections of tests are loaded with the hardest questions.
3. On the reading comprehension questions, quickly scan the passage and then the questions so you know what to look for when you go back to read the question carefully.
4. If you have taken the test and done poorly, take it again. It is offered six times during the year, generally November through June. Frequently, those who take the SAT a second time develop a test-taking strategy and improve their scores significantly.

GROUND RADAR SEARCH: Lambert Dolphin (standing) and John Tanzi, both researchers for Stanford Research Institute of Palo Alto, Calif., take reading on a "ground radar" device as they attempt to determine presence of underground chasm at the Victorio mountain site in New Mexico. Treasure Hunters Find Shaft To Cave

By SUE MAJOR HOLMES
Associated Press Writer
WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — Treasure hunters looking for a legendary cache of gold supposedly hidden inside Victorio Peak have found a shaft which they say leads to a cave in the mountain.

One of the explorers said someone has been in the shaft since he went down it 20 years ago and saw piles of gold ingots. The opening, just large enough for a single person to pass through, was found Sunday after hours of excavation.

The object of the search is a cave stacked full of gold bars and other objects of unknown total value which the late Milton "Doc" Noss claimed to have discovered in 1937.

Noss had said he and a helper accidentally dynamited the opening shut. However, others claim to have been in the vault since.

The origin of the supposed gold is unknown, but some have speculated it was left by Indians or Spanish explorers, or perhaps by thieves.

The peak is on the restricted White Sands Missile Range, long off-limits to treasure seekers who have heard the legend.

But the military and the state have given a 10-day search permit to Expeditions Unlimited, Inc., a Florida firm experienced in undersea treasure hunts, which has been hired by some of those claiming the treasure.

Expeditions Unlimited president Norman Scott said the statements of the three men who entered Sunday suggested that it was a passageway that eventually ends up in caverns hundreds of feet down.

The three were Leonard Fiege, Jack Hull and EUT's professional spelunker, Jerry Lee. Their preliminary exploration lasted only an hour because of the dawn-to-dusk restrictions of the permit.

Lee said they found evidence of a campsite, including five sticks of dynamite, and commented that "whoever was down there appears to have left in a hurry."

Fiege said he first saw the cavern full of gold when, as an Air Force captain, he entered a passageway on the peak's east side in 1958.

Fiege said Sunday's exploration disclosed timbers shoring up earth and ladders "where you used to have to slide down a crevice."

Hull also claimed to have entered the mountain once before, but said he saw no metal bars at that time.

Lee said the area the three explored together is connected by a tiny passageway to a large room "where the ceiling has obviously fallen in."

He said the cave-in could have been caused by drilling such as that done by Gaddis Mining Co. in 1963 during a search by the Museum of New Mexico.

Prior to Sunday's excavation, the site was gone over by a Stanford Research Institute team using ground radar. Lambert Dolphin, head of the team, said the sophisticated electronics equipment would "detect a void in the rock, or changes in a void," but not metal.

If treasure is found, there remains the question of who will share in the wealth.

Ova Noss, 80-year-old widow of Doc Noss, watched the work Sunday. She is considered one of six legitimate claimants to the treasure, but unlike the other five has not formally agreed to this group search.

Town Reviving Saturday Night Baths

DOLLAR BAY, Mich. (AP) — Residents of miniscule Bumbletown soon may be able to revive the tradition of the Saturday night bath — with imported water.

Since last summer, the 19 families who live in the hilltop town near here in Michigan's Upper Peninsula have suffered a drought-within-a-drought. While the entire western U.P. is suffering a scarcity of water, Bumbletown wells have gone bone-dry. Particularly irritating to Bumbletown residents is the fact that Allouez Township — just 7,000 feet away — has plenty of water. But it would cost $250,000 for Bumbletown to tap into the township's water supply.

It took the personal word of Gov. William Milliken, but Bumbletown finally began getting water over the weekend, hauled in by Department of Natural Resources tankers in 250-gallon loads. Milliken, on a 2½-day circuit of the U.P., was faced by a five-person Bumbletown delegation. The residents complained that they had discussed their plight with everyone from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to the governor's own staff — all to no avail.

"You've got me now," Milliken said. And on Saturday, the first water shipment rolled into town. The transport of water will continue until a long-range solution can be found, a Milliken aide said. Until the governor stepped in, Bumbletown had been forced to get by on 30 gallons of water a week delivered by local officials.

"We've been able to go to the local high school and shower on Mondays and Wednesdays," said Bumbletown resident Garth Galbraith, 32. "But by Saturday, we're pretty rank." Residents have managed by "hauling water from the creek" or melting snow, Galbraith said.

"You have to have 10 inches of snow to get an inch of water," Galbraith added. "I watched one couple in their 70s spend all day at it."

Youth Tax Revolt Is Forecast

DETROIT (AP) — Young Americans tired of footing the bill for programs for the elderly may stage a tax revolt in less than 25 years, warns a Wayne State University professor.

Henry Pratt, an expert on the politics of the senior citizens' movement and author of "The Gray Lobby," a history of the movement, predicted the conflict will start at the beginning of the 21st Century.

Pratt said the younger generation will become increasingly burdened by taxes to pay for medical and retirement programs for a rapidly growing senior citizen population.

"The young will become increasingly resistant," Pratt said. "There is no question there is going to be a conflict."

Pratt said the revolt could force an abrupt end to mandatory retirement at age 65. The easiest way to avoid a tax rebellion, he feels, is to allow or require older people to work as long as they are physically able to support themselves.

The underlying cause of the tax rebellion, Pratt contended, is the shrinking birth rate — down to 1.76 children per woman now, compared with 3.7 in 1957.

According to the 1970 census, there were 115.1 million persons in the U.S. between the age of 18 and 64, and 20.1 million age 65 and older — about 5½ workers for each retiree.

The Social Security administration currently reports it takes the contributions of about 3½ workers for every person drawing benefits to pay for the system.

That, said Pratt, is a delicate balance that can't hold out for long. Using a moderate birthrate figure of 2.1 children per woman, there will be 188.4 million persons between 18 and 64 years of age by the year 2050, and 51.2 million persons age 65 and older.

ISU Wins Mat Crown

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Iowa State took its seventh NCAA wrestling championship here Saturday with such a strong performance in the consolation that it could have won — and almost did — the title without crowning any individual champions.

The Cyclones sent three wrestlers into the finals but Joe Zuppann at 150 and Kelly Ward at 158 both lost their matches.

That left the Cyclones in danger of becoming the first team in the 47-year history of the NCAA tournament to win the championship without having an individual title.

But Frank Santana, who wrestled the entire tournament with a shoulder injury and was the No. 3 seed, scored a 12-7 victory over Evan Johnson, Minnesota, the defending champion at 180.

Three wrestlers repeated as NCAA champions — Lee Kemp of Wisconsin, Chris Campbell of Iowa at 177, and Jimmie Jackson of Oklahoma State at heavyweight.

Nick Gallo, of Hofstra.

decided Iowa's Keith Montana, 8-3, at 126, and was named the tournament's outstanding wrestler.

The closest match of the night pitted Jackson against No. 1 seed Larry Bledenberg of Oregon State at heavyweight.

It was the fifth time the two heavyweights had met, and Jackson now leads the series 3-2.

116—Jim Haines, Wisconsin, dec. Mike McArthur, Minnesota, 8-7.
126—Nick Gallo, Hofstra, dec. Keith Montana, Iowa, 8-1.
134—Pat Neu, Minnesota, dec. Dennis Brighton, Michigan State, 3-2.
142—Steve Barrett, Oklahoma State, dec. Sam Kanar, Indiana, 12-5.
150—Mark Churella, Michigan, dec. Joe Zuppann, Iowa State, 9-3.
158—Lee Kemp, Wisconsin, dec. Kelly Ward, Iowa State, 9-5.
167—Rod Kilgore, Oklahoma, dec. Mark Lieberman, Lehigh, 4-2.
177—Chris Campbell, Iowa, dec. Mark Janison, Michigan, 12-6.
190—Frank Santana, Iowa State, dec. Evan Johnson, Minnesota, 12-7.

Heavyweight—Jimmie Jackson, Oklahoma State, awarded dec. in overtime over Larry Bledenberg, Oregon State. (Referee said decision based on four more seconds of riding time in extra period.)

'Bad News' Barnes May Skip NBA Playoffs

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Pistons forward Marvin Barnes says he may skip the National Basketball Association playoffs and surrender to Rhode Island prison officials immediately after the regular season ends.

Barnes cited harassment and money differences with the Pistons as the major factors in his decision.

The 24-year-old's arrest last fall for carrying a concealed weapon at Detroit Metropolitan Airport violated his probation that had been imposed for hitting a Providence College teammate in 1974. As a result of the violation, Barnes was sentenced to a year's prison term that is scheduled to begin May 16.

"As of today, I don't have any intention of playing in the playoffs," Barnes said Sunday. Of his impending prison term, he said, "You know, that's like waiting to die.... I might as well die now."

Oscar Feldman, Pistons general manager and part-owner, said he had no comment on Barnes' remarks until he could talk with the player. But Feldman did say he believed playoff games were part of the season contract.

Barnes disagreed. "I'm not obligated to play the playoffs for them," he said. "My contract doesn't say I have to play playoffs."

"The playoffs are something a player should want to play in. He motivates himself to get into them because that's where you get all your prestige and your ink and your extra money."

"I might not choose to get all that," he said. "I might choose to get my time over with. All of a sudden, I might not be able to take all this no more."

The 6-foot-9 Barnes came to the Pistons at the beginning of the season after fighting over his salary. He had been with St. Louis of the American Basketball Association and Detroit received him in the dispersal draft.

As examples of his differences with the NBA club, he said once the Pistons' management refused to believe he had a broken bone in his ankle and suspended him for going to his St. Louis home to seek outside medical advice.

He also said the Pistons demanded he go to physical rehabilitation classes for his ankle.

Another time, according to Barnes, the Pistons told him that if he didn't go on a road trip, he would be suspended and sent to jail.

Barnes also said he suspects the Pistons leaked information about his arrest last fall on the gun charge. Without the leak, he contends, the case would have been cleared up quietly.

Porsches Dominate 12 Hours Of Sebring

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Porsches again have dominated the 12-hour Sebring sports car race, sweeping the top 10 spots. But the manufacturer's fastest model, the turbocharged 934, will have to wait another year for a victory.

The pole-setting 934 owned by Ted Field and Hurley Haywood, to fourth. Fifth was a 934 driven by Gary Belcher and John Gunn, which had qualified fourth.

Various difficulties dropped the second fastest qualifier, a 934 driven by Danny Ongais, Ted Field and Hurley Haywood, to fourth. Fifth was a 934 driven by Gary Belcher and John Gunn, which had qualified fourth.

"We won by attrition," said Brad Frisselle, who joined George Dyer in a Porsche Carrera in taking top honors. "Our game plan was to just run steady, and it worked."

With International Motor Sports Association driving ace Peter Gregg on the course enjoying a 10-mile lead after four hours, co-driver Busby had an omen of things to come.

"That two-lap lead can disappear just like that," said Busby, of Laguna Beach, Calif., snapping his fingers. "You never know what's going to happen. Last year, I led this thing for five hours and 50 minutes and a wheel fell off my car."

History repeated itself with Gregg leading by 25 miles after eight hours on the 5.2-mile circuit. By the time Gregg nursed the car to the pits on three wheels for a 25-minute repair job, Frisselle and Dyer were in the lead to stay.

A half-dozen more pit stops for Gregg and Busby enabled a Carrera driven by Diego Febles of Puerto Rico and Hiram Cruz of Miami to edge into second, five laps off the pace.

The winners, who started seventh, averaged 101.322 miles per hour for 234 laps, overcoming four flat tires caused by track debris and a minor collision involving Dyer and a GTU car. The accident tore up a fender on the winning car.

Will Kids Start Getting Better Instead Of Bigger?

American children may soon stop growing taller than their parents in each generation. A set of 14 computer-drawn growth charts based on 20,000 children measured in the past 15 years shows a leveling off of growth during the past decade. Before 1965, according to the National Center for Health Statistics, six-to-11-year-olds were about a half-inch taller each decade. "Perhaps we have reached the limits of our genetic potential regarding growth," speculates Dr. Peter V. Hamill, chairman of the center's task force. Or, suggests Dr. Francis Johnson, study-group member, "the general leveling off could mean that factors such as good nutrition, pure water and freedom from childhood diseases are making their maximum contribution." Physical height is greater now than when the country was founded: an average 18-year-old boy 200 years ago measured 5'7.1"; today's average 18-year-old stands 5'9.6". The average 18-year-old girl is now 5'4".

If The Shoe Wears, Get It Fitted

You can tell what's wrong with your shoes by the particular way they wear, says the Shoe Service Industry Council. For example, if your shoe curls at the toe, the shoe is too long. If the sole wears unevenly or if the heel pushes under, the shoe is too short. And if your shoes go out of shape, you may be wearing the wrong size. To get the right size, buy shoes in the afternoon — your feet are biggest then. Try on both shoes before buying. To keep shoes in shape, avoid wearing the same pair two days in a row; when possible, wear one pair every third day. Never dry out wet shoes on a radiator.

Is The Ideal Man A Perfect Man?

A man who's a bit of a rogue is more attractive to women than a great guy who always does the right thing, says San Diego psychiatrist Dr. Harold Greenwald. He offered this definition of a "rogue": "He'll fail to be on time for appointments; bet at the track or play poker with the guys half the night; sometimes refuse to shave on weekends; possibly use salty language." If a man acts in such ways all the time, or even frequently, women won't find him appealing at all — but if he lapses into such behavior now and then, most women will like him better, Greenwald insists. It's the guy who acts like a saint most days and a sinner once in a while who really captivates women."

Smoke Detectors Really Do Work

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

A growing number of Americans are installing smoke detectors in their homes to provide an early warning system in case of fire.

The National Fire Prevention and Control Administration says 33 states already have regulations requiring the use of smoke alarms, usually in new houses, mobile homes and developments. Other states and some cities are considering similar rules.

The agency says it would like to see the devices in 25 per cent of all American homes by 1980 and in 75 per cent by 1990. About eight million smoke detectors were sold last year, up from only 50,000 in 1972.

Smoke detectors work by sensing the rising smoke from a fire and sounding an alarm loud enough to wake even heavy sleepers. They can detect smoke far from the origin of a fire and often will sound the alarm before flames are visible.

"The home smoke detector is the most significant technological weapon our nation has to reduce fire deaths and destruction," said Howard

Tipton, administrator of the fire prevention and control unit.

There are two basic types of smoke detectors: photoelectric and ionization chamber.

The photoelectric smoke detector contains a light bulb and a photocell. When smoke enters the detector, light from the beam is reflected from smoke particles into the photocell, triggering the alarm.

The ionization variety contains a small radiation source that produces electrically charged air molecules called ions. The presence of these ions allows a small electric current to flow in the chamber. When smoke particles enter, they attach themselves to the ions, reducing the flow of current. The change in the current sets off the alarm.

Which is better?

According to the fire prevention and control unit, "Both types of detectors are equally effective in the home." Ionization detectors generally will react more quickly to flaming fires; photoelectric detectors will generally respond faster to smoldering fires.

There is no way of knowing in advance which type of fire you might face so the choice usually boils down to individual preference. Ionization detectors generally operate on batteries. You have greater freedom of choice when it comes to deciding where to place the detector, but you also have to replace the batteries. Replacement batteries generally cost between $2 and $10.

Photoelectric detectors usually run on household current. They may be plugged into a wall outlet or wired permanently into your home's electric system. The permanent wiring should be done by an electrician and cost about $25 to $50.

Further information on smoke detectors is available in a free Commerce Department pamphlet, "Smoke Detectors: What they are and how they work." Write to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

ANTHONY TAUBE
Rare malady

Sleeping Could Be Permanent For Baby

DETROIT (AP) — Every time 6-month-old Anthony Taube falls asleep, he risks his life.

But doctors at Detroit Children's Hospital, where the baby has spent his entire life, hope a rare operation will allow him to live a normal life.

Anthony suffers from a rare condition known as sleep apnea. "When he is asleep, he just stops breathing," explained Dr. Ronald Poland, director of Newborn Nurseries at Children's Hospital. "There is no clear explanation why it happens."

Doctors do know, however, that the child's diaphragm stops working during sleep, preventing the lungs from inhaling or exhaling.

Every night since he was born, Anthony has been connected to a respirator by means of a tracheotomy — an incision in the neck — to keep him from suffocating.

Within the next month, surgeons plan to implant a device the size of a cigarette pack in Anthony's chest. Known as a lung pacemaker, the device has implanted successfully on fewer than 50 adults and only a few children.

The lung pacemaker is similar in concept to a heart pacemaker, doctors say. It will send out regular electrical impulses to stimulate the child's diaphragm, triggering normal breathing.

"We are hoping this (surgery) does the trick," Poland said.

The baby's parents, Anthony and Peggy Taube, both 25, are optimistic.

"I have to hope. It's all I've got left," Mrs. Taube said. The family's hospital bills have topped $100,000. Her husband recently returned to his job as a sign painter after a four-week layoff.

The Taubes and their other child, 3½-year-old Julie Ann, are getting ready for the day when Anthony can come home. Mr. Taube has fixed up a bedroom for the baby on the second floor of their home.

"It's Anthony's room. It was ready weeks before he was born," the father said.

Uncle Ben Gets Slap From FTC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission says advertisements for Uncle Ben's rice should not show children closely examining or approaching foods that are being cooked.

In a formal order made public today, the FTC said a television ad for Uncle Ben's rice may influence children to behave in a manner creating an unreasonable risk of harm.

The ad showed a mother and child in the kitchen, with the child asking if she could help and the mother saying, "Sure. Watch the Uncle Ben's." The mother says, "Uncle Ben's is foolproof."

The FTC said Uncle Ben's, with headquarters in Houston, has signed a consent order to stop ads that may influence children to engage in a manner creating an unreasonable risk of harm.

The agreement is for settlement purposes only, the FTC said, and does not constitute an admission by Uncle Ben's and its advertising firm that the law has been violated.

Not Sure Why

DETROIT (AP) — The divorce rate has been dropping since 1974 in Wayne County, and officials say they aren't sure why. Circuit Court records show divorce filings in the county were down 6 per cent in 1975 and another 9 per cent in 1976.

Oglivie's Hot Bat Keys Tiger Victory

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Manager Ralph Houk isn't wavering on his decision to make Ben Oglivie the Detroit Tigers' regular rightfielder this baseball season.

And why should he, especially after the way Oglivie has been lashing the ball in spring training?

Oglivie drove in four runs with a three-run homer and a double Sunday to lead the Tigers to an 8-4 exhibition victory over the Chicago White Sox at Sarasota.

The slender Panamanian is tied for most at-bats and hits on the team, going 11-for-33 for a .333 average. His nine runs batted in is also tops in the club.

"I'll continue at the same pace as in the past," the left-handed hitter said. "I'm not going to change my style of play. I'm relaxed."

He said his goal in Florida is to "build up endurance by playing a lot. I'll try and get as much hitting in as I can. I want to get everything going when the season starts."

Oglivie looks like he's got it all going already. So does rookie leftfielder Tim Corcoran, who continues to hit with authority.

Corcoran, who has only an outside shot at making the team, lined two singles and blooped another. Two other times he was robbed of hits, once by shortstop Lee Richard's keeping catch and the other on a diving grab by rightfielder Richie Zisk.

Corcoran and Rusty Staub are the other Tigers with 11 hits. While Staub is tied with Oglivie with 33 at-bats, "Corky" is 11-for-22 with eight RBI, three homers, a double and triple.

Fellow rookie Dave Rozema, meanwhile, gave up his first runs in three spring pitching appearances. But he looked strong in his five-inning performance.

"I was pleased with it," the 24-year-old right-hander from Grand Rapids said. "I did the things I wanted to do."

Houk said Rozema "pitched good enough. His ball was sinking good."

Detroit scored first with a pair of runs in the third inning off starter Bart Johnson. Rookie third baseman Phil Mankowski hit a sacrifice fly and Oglivie scored his double.

Dave Duncan singled in a Chicago run in the bottom of the inning, but the Tigers scored two more in the fourth on a force out by Marvin Lane and second baseman Tim Nordbrook's throwing error.

Oglivie's homer came in the fifth off Johnson, following a walk by Luis Alvarado and single by Mankowski. Bruce Kinn singled in a run in the seventh.

This by Duncan and Jorge Orta gave the White Sox a pair of runs in the fifth off Rozema, then Kevin Bell singled in another off Jim Crawford in the eighth.

The Tigers were to host Montreal today at Lakeland, with Dave Roberts expected to start for Detroit.

Lyle Adds Bugner To Boxing Upset List

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Boxing's heavyweight division took another turn Sunday when power-puncher Ron Lyle of Denver hammered out a 12-round split decision over British heavyweight champion Joe Bugner.

Bugner was the fourth-ranked contender going into the fight, coming off a one-round knockout of Richard Dunn last October, while Lyle was ranked seventh, losing a decision to Jimmy Young late last year.

Last Thursday, it was the boxer, Jimmy Young, who upset the brawler, George Foreman. But in Sunday's nationally televised bout from Caesars Palace, it was the strong man, Lyle, who prevailed.

Bugner, whose mother brought the family from Hungary to England during the Hungarian revolution, was quite talkative and confident in training for the fight. Local books had him a 2-1 choice.

At one point Bugner called himself the "real White Hope."

The victory raised Lyle's record to 34-5-1, with 23 knockouts, while Bugner is now 52-8-1, with 33 kayos.

From the beginning, Lyle,

218, went after the bigger Bugner, 229½, never backing away.

Lyle said he tried to go for a knockout early but found Bugner a "very good defensive fighter."

So the strategy was changed. Lyle moved inside, using a vicious right to relentlessly pound Bugner's mid-section, then moving with left and right upper cuts to Bugner's face.

Bugner, 27, was able to score almost at will with his left jabs, but they were flicking, almost slap-like, and did little or no damage.

Bugner seemed content to lure Lyle, 35, into the ropes. And while he did pick off a good number of Lyle's powerful body shots with his arms, the blows sapped Bugner's strength,

Petty Bounces Back After Poor Season

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — There is a sign on the wall in Richard Petty's garage which says, "There are good years, and there are bad years ... and then there was last year." Petty had fewer victories last year in Grand National stock car racing than at any time in his career since 1961.

But now there is this year. Things have turned around completely for the six-time national champion.

"We've won two out of five so far this season, and I suppose with a little better luck, we could have had a chance to make it five out of five," Petty said after winning Sunday's Atlanta 500.

Petty's troubles — in the form of Cale Yarborough — were far behind him at the finish. Yarborough drove almost the last half of the race without brakes — a hair-raising experience.

Petty's brother Maurice told Yarborough, "We were lucky you had trouble." Yarborough replied, "You're lucky any time you run all day with no trouble."

David Pearson finished second, 12 seconds behind Petty. Yarborough was more than a lap down.

Petty averaged 144.097 miles an hour, breaking an eight-year-old track record. Less than 20 miles of the distance was run under caution. The only interruptions in the action were separate spins by Benny Parsons and Jody Ridley.

Parsons, A.J. Foyt, Johnny Rutherford, Bobby Allison and Janet Guthrie, who had her most impressive outing to date in stock cars, were among those sidelined by mechanical troubles.

Decatur Man Still In Race

KOYUK, Alaska (AP) — Randy Dekuiper of Decatur, Mich., was one of five mushers bringing up the rear Sunday in the 1,049-mile Iditarod sled dog race to Nome.

Dekuiper was on route in Kaltag, 795 miles from Anchorage.

The three leaders in the race pulled out of Koyuk and headed for Elm on Sunday. Elm is 918 miles from the Anchorage starting point.

U-M Icers In Semis

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan will face Boston University in a National Collegiate Athletic Association semifinal hockey game Thursday at Olympia Stadium in Detroit.

The Wolverines earned the tournament spot with a 7-5 victory Sunday over Bowling Green.

The U-M had five goals in the first period, two of them from freshman Dan Lerg. Bill Thayer also added a pair for Michigan.

Bowling Green rallied for four goals in the final period to make it a close contest, but couldn't manage to pull even.

Western Collegiate Hockey Association champion Wisconsin will face New Hampshire in Friday's semifinal match, with the winners to meet Saturday for the NCAA title.

Spartans' Last Inning Burst Beats Wright

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Michigan State hammered in three runs in the last half of the ninth inning Sunday to defeat Wright State (Tex.) 5-4 in college baseball action.

The Spartans face Lubbock Christian College Monday in the opening round of the six-day Citrus Baseball Tournament here.

Senior left fielder and co-captain Al Weston of Hazel Park doubled to score Rodger Bastien and Randy Hop, tying the score at 4-4 with one out. Then Weston scored the winning run from third base as Wright State tried for a double play on Ty Williamson's grounder and failed.

THE PLAN THAT CAN ADD NEEDED HEALTH INSURANCE DOLLARS TO YOUR BASIC COVERAGE.

You hear it everywhere. There ought to be protection available for the big bills — the bills caused by catastrophic illness. Well, that protection is available right now from Mutual of Omaha — up to $250,000.00 for each member of the family. It's a lot of protection, but it's necessary protection because today's and tomorrow's medical care costs are so high and going higher.

Yet it is reasonable in cost because it needn't duplicate your basic hospital-surgical-medical plans. They are splendid for ordinary bills. This is for extraordinary bills — the catastrophe you never plan on meeting, but that nevertheless can come to any of us with appalling consequences.

This can be the RIGHT protection for you ... IF you have basic protection now. (If not, Mutual of Omaha can provide that, too.) But it will only be right for you if you understand everything about when this policy protects you — when your basic plan protects you — all the details that you must have clearly in mind. We will give you all these details if you mail the postage free reply card now. No obligation. Find out exactly what protection you now have — how much of the bills you can face today your basic plan will cover — how much this new Major Medical plan will cover.

You deserve to know all the facts about the coverage available in your state, and Mutual of Omaha will provide them as a personal service.

Our figures show you're seven times more likely to be laid up at home than in the hospital. That's why this Mutual of Omaha plan covers you both IN and OUT of the hospital for services and supplies like these:

IN HOSPITAL

Hospital room and board charges — the average daily semi-private rate for your hospital • Confinement in an intensive care unit • Services of a radiologist for diagnosis or treatment • Anesthesia and its administration • Hospital furnished medical services and supplies.

IN AND OUT OF HOSPITAL

Treatment by a physician or surgeon • X-ray and laboratory examinations • Drug and medicines requiring a prescription and purchased upon a physician's order and dispensed by a licensed pharmacist ... and much, much more!

Windshield Wiper May Be Obsolete

By KENDAL WEAVER
Associated Press Writer
MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — In a nation that loves gadgets and gimmicks — and pays royally for them even if they don't work — it seems someone would have beaten Joe Newman to his latest invention.

It's a rain-proof windshield without wipers.

That's right. Hook the device atop your car or truck and escape the blurring splatter of a thunderstorm or the irritating squish-squish of wipers battling away at a summer shower.

At least Joe Newman, who once invented a knife with wings and plastic-coated barbells, says it works real fine.

"It is amazingly simple," said Newman, an athletic 40-year-old who has turned fiddling with gadgets into a livelihood. He unveiled his latest creation recently.

"Inventing is the easiest part. I think everybody comes up with a great idea in their life. But sticking with it to see that it's produced is the hardest part," he said.

In brief "The Newman Windshield Rain Preventer" is an adjustable panel that shoots out above the windshield, to a maximum three feet, and keeps rain away something like an odd rectangular umbrella.

Newman said his inspiration came one day 12 years ago when a young fellow, driving in a summer rainstorm, couldn't see where he was going and crashed into Newman's car.

"I told the police it was a shame he got a ticket. It wasn't his fault. It was the inefficiency of his windshield wipers," he said.

That set him to thinking. What could do a better job than windshield wipers? Over the next several years he junked a few wrong-headed ideas but would be inspired again "every time I was out driving and it started raining."

He finally hit on the right gadget, he said, and hooked the device above his windshield by attaching poles to the luggage rack atop his car. He adjusted it by pulling ropes.

Pulling ropes, of course, would be too troublesome for drivers also steering the car, so he devised a small hydraulic pump that adjusts the panel with the twist of a wrist. Where the panel is set depends on how hard the rain is falling and how fast the car is going.

The invention is in the hands of his patent attorneys in Washington, he said, and he has been contacted by a few truck manufacturers who "think it works real well." He said he is planning overtures to car-makers, conceding that corporation designers one day will come up with a more sophisticated and esthetically pleasing model.

In the meantime he's pleased. "The automobile has been improved on time and again for nearly a century," he said, "but the windshield wiper went all that time with hardly a change for the better."

Until Newman.

Newman is a graduate of the University of Alabama but gave up a white collar job for fulltime inventing 17 years ago.

He said inventing, design and theory come naturally to him and that he spends most of his time scribbling ideas on paper atop a table at home. Along the way, he said, he has written to scholars "challenging Einstein and Newton." He said they wrote him back.

He has only a few more tools around the house than your ordinary homeowner, he said, but he has the full support of his wife, a big plus for a man who pays the bills, in part, by dreaming.

A few years ago he dreamed up the Magnum knife, which features wings. The wings, concealed until the knife is ready to be thrown, flare out at the base of the blade and guarantee, said Newman, that the knife will strike its target point-first.

Among other things, Newman also claims creation of plastic-covered barbells.

Her Dog's A Fire Bug

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Virginia Balon's dog may no longer be her best friend. Babe, a female German shepherd, started a fire at her house Thursday for the second time, firemen said. They said the latest fire caused $200 damage.

"What ... happens is that the dog starts looking for food on the shelf, and there's a shelf on either side of the stove. So a bag of food or trash inadvertently gets knocked into the stove," said Fire Capt. Ed Hamlet. "Then as she works her way along the top of the stove, her paws turn on the gas jets." Fire Chief Ken Sharp noted "to prove arson we have to prove intent, and the dog is not speaking to us."

At That Moment

STING LIKE A BEE

If the personality seems dazzling, obnoxious to some, he is a helluva fighter nonetheless, and the heavyweight ranks have needed one for a long time.

Opponents may survive Cassius Clay's propaganda attack and rhyming predictions before the fight, but so far none has been able to withstand the battering of those flashing gloves, that hypnotic dance in the ring. The man from Louisville is a surgeon in the ring, who moves with the speed of a lightweight, the power of the biggest heavyweight and the flair of an old Shakespearian trouper.

He was national Golden Gloves heavyweight champ in 1960, Olympic light heavyweight champ in the same year and, turning pro, racked up 17 knockouts and four winning decisions against no defeats. He became world heavyweight champion Feb. 25, 1964, when Sonny Liston failed to answer the bell for the seventh round in Miami Beach. Some experts thought they detected a suspicious odor but "This was no fix," the victorious Clay shouted into the microphones.

Now it is May 25, 1965, Lewiston, Maine, and Liston is back for a return crack at the title and Clay, who has begun to call himself Muhammad Ali, still has his doubters. The bell rings, Liston lumbers out like a man looking to end it in one punch. Clay, hands down, dances and circles in his mesmerizing choreography. Suddenly a short hard right to the jaw and Liston goes down like a 218-pound rock.

He falls on his back, rolls over, gets up on one knee and falls back again to stay. Clay stands over the still form screaming, "Get up you bum!"

Liston is counted out — the official time is one minute flat — and many fans scream "fake!" and insist they never saw a knockout punch delivered. Says Clay: "That was my secret. It was a phantom punch. It was as fast as lightning and booming as thunder."

It would be a while before most fans would accept the champ's repeated claim, "I'm the greatest."

White-haired John Rooney, Associated Press photographer, has no complaint. He has been praying it wouldn't be a long fight. For a ringside photographer, a long fight is like a long night of deep knee bends, popping up and down the ring apron under the weight of color and black-and-white cameras. But then a very short fight is risky because it's too easy to miss the best picture. Rooney doesn't think this night.

Wellington Fights Napoleon Again

No One's Hurt In These Battles

By JERRY HARKAVY
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Once a month, a small group of armchair generals gathers in a college classroom to relight some old battles — like Waterloo, Gettysburg and Stalingrad.

Crowding Study

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A special legislative committee would study overcrowding in Michigan prisons under a resolution introduced in the state House.

Rep. Richard Fessler, R-Union Lake, said the committee could study various alternatives to relieve overcrowding. Fessler has suggested that military bases which are phased out by the federal government be used as state prisons.

For hours, they pore over cardboard battlegrounds, deploying infantry battalions and artillery batteries into positions to destroy enemy units or seize a strategic hill or town.

The meetings are conducted by the Maine Wargamers Association, one of hundreds of similar groups around the country devoted to the fast-growing hobby.

The gameboards are scaled-down versions of historic battle sites, and the military units — represented by tiny cardboard chips — are the same ones that met in the actual encounters.

At one table, two players began the opening scenario of a complex game called "Wellington's Victory." Bob Kane of Portland was moving Napoleon's army into position to capture a village south of Waterloo. Larry Willwerth of Scarborough, heading an Anglo-Dutch force, was trying to block him.

The scenario is based on a preset number of moves by each player, and takes 10 to 12 hours to complete. "It would take 50 or 60 hours to play the whole game," said Kane.

Lengthy games are nothing new for dedicated wargamers. Willwerth, a 33-year-old engineer who has been involved in the hobby since 1955, attends national conventions that attract crowds of 2,500.

"We go to these tournaments once or twice a year, and we play for three straight days," he said.

Many wargamers say they got hooked on the hobby after tiring of chess. "Chess was designed as a war game but it's not as realistic," said James Allard of Westbrook. Although dice are rolled in most games, players insist that skill and intelligence, not luck, determine the outcome.

In general, wargamers tend to be college-educated, with an interest in history, and many are former military officers. "People give us incredulous looks. They think we're a bunch of warmongers, but we're not," said Allard.

The wargaming boom got its start in the late 1950s, with the introduction of a game called Tactics II. Today, there are several hundred games to choose from, and the number of hobbyists nationwide probably ranges from 100,000 to 150,000. There are several national publications devoted to wargaming.

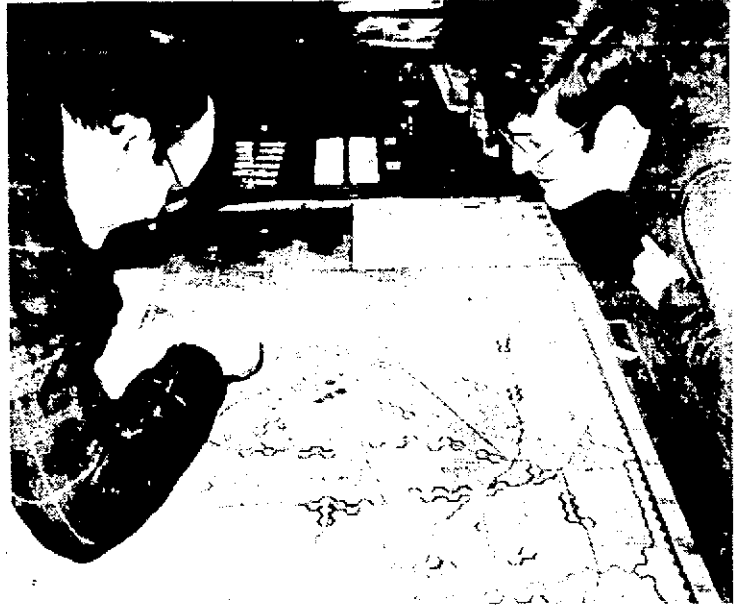

The games are based on battles dating back to the times of the Roman legions and earlier, and go up to Vietnam. Although most games are for two players, five association members were involved in a recreation of medieval England's Wars of the Roses.

There are a handful of games based on theoretical scenarios, including wars between NATO and Warsaw Pact powers, and on space age conflicts with a gameboard that spans the galaxies.

The games vary widely in complexity, and novices are advised to start out with the simpler ones.

There aren't any women among the Maine wargamers, and members agree that the hobby is pretty much male-oriented. "Women are culturally turned off by the military," said one member. "They are getting into the hobby, but very slowly."

Bainbridge Twp. Board Will Meet Twice April 2

Bainbridge Township Clerk Mrs. Beverly Koroch has announced there will be two township board meetings Saturday, April 2, at the township hall.

Mrs. Koroch said the annual township meeting will begin at 1 p.m., and that following the annual meeting, the township board's April meeting will be held, eliminating the need for board members to meet Monday, April 4.

The township hall is at the corner of Bainbridge Center and Territorial roads.

When the ladder of the Italian Communist Party (PCI), Dr. Enrico Berlinguer, announced his deputies in the National Assembly and Senate would critically support the Christian Democratic (DCP) government of Giulio Andreotti, I suggested the decision could shatter his own ranks. In theory, support for the minority DCP government would demonstrate "Communist" responsibility in a period of economic chaos and thus earn them the right to participate in a broad-based regime.

However, in practice this involved a willingness to muffle the PCI militants, particularly in the huge labor federation, the Communist-dominated CGIL. And also to put a lid on juvenile enthusiasts, always prepared to denounce a sell-out to the capitalists. In terms of practical politics, Berlinguer, to prove the PCI was now a trustworthy democratic party and to win further support among the Italian electorate as a whole (last year the PCI got 34 per cent of the vote), chose to risk losing support within the PCI.

Well, Berlinguer had a bad month. First, the Soviets rallied the faithful and blasted "Eurocommunism" as plain, old-fashioned heresy. Then, at a meeting with the Spanish and French Communist leaders, Santiago Carrillo and Georges Marchais, Berlinguer notably toned down his criticism of Soviet and East European violations of human rights.

There have been various explanations for this shift, but the simplest makes the most sense: Boris Ponomarev, the Politburo's man on the Eurocommunism caper, has probably threatened to cut the PCI's vast subsidy from Moscow and inspire internal opposition to Berlinguer. It becomes more evident every day that the Soviet leadership is climbing the wall over the human rights issue: internally docile Rumania was actually shaken by two earthquakes, the first a human rights protest against the Stalinist regime. Who knows, even the Bulgarians might turn on.

The leaders of the CGIL — a well-disciplined cadre — have been trying to escape from this cul-de-sac, but they are unhappy. Trotskyists, Maoists and other "intellectual scum" (to use a standard term of endearment) have flanked them on the left, demanding higher wages and screaming, "To hell with responsibility! Up the Revolution!" The Italian worker, whose average real pay is below the American poverty line, is understandably attracted.

For months everybody has been watching everybody else uneasily, waiting for a sign. How many seconds were left on that grenade? Not many: it exploded the first week in March at the University of Rome, normally a PCI bastion. The students were on strike and CGIL leader Luciano Lama appeared to convey to them the best wishes and solidarity of the workers. He didn't get beyond his first sentence: the "intellectual scum" shrieked him down and began throwing Molotov cocktails, paving stones and similar fraternal items.

It ended with the ultimate indignity: Lama, the leader of the working class, was extricated by the riot police — notorious enemies of progress. But the bigger problem, which has some Christian Democrats laughing over their Valpolicella, is how the PCI can extricate itself from its de facto alliance with the DCP without repudiating the democratic program that brought it so close to power?

'Men From UNCC' Cinderella Cage Tale

Stay Alive As Michigan, Other Powers Ousted

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top-rated Michigan and third-ranked Kentucky bit the dust Saturday, No. 2 UCLA bowed out two days earlier and San Francisco, which held the top spot for much of the season, has been long gone from the National Collegiate basketball championships. But the "Men from UNCC" are still alive.

The "Men from UNCC" isn't a TV spy story. It's more a Cinderella tale in which a school whose basketball history only dates back a dozen years knocks off the No. 1 team in the nation to make the championship round-of-four in Atlanta next weekend.

If you're not aware of it by now, UNCC stands for the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, as differentiated from THE University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, which also advanced to the national semifinals and which hereafter shall be known simply as "North Carolina."

Joining them are Marquette and the University of Nevada at Las Vegas. Saturday afternoon's nationally televised semifinals sends fourth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas against No. 5 North Carolina, followed by the "Men from UNCC," rated 17th, against seventh-ranked Marquette.

The pairings came about last Saturday when North Carolina upset Kentucky 79-72 in the East Regional, the "Men from UNCC" shocked mighty Michigan 75-68 in the Midwest, Marquette trimmed Wake Forest 82-68 in the Midwest and Nevada-Las Vegas ran away from Idaho State 107-90 in the West Regional.

If UNCC meets UNLV in the finals, it might be mistaken for a spelling bee. And North Carolina Gov. Jim Hunt has suggested that the NCAA's name be changed to North Carolina Athletic Association. Imagine if Wake Forest had made it, too.

The No. 1 Man from UNCC is a lanky 6-foot-8 center with the catchy handle of Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell, who led the 49ers past Michigan with a 25-point, 13-rebound show. Lew Massey added 19 and Kevin King helped hold Michigan center Phil Hubbard to just 14.

"We've never played guys like that before," marveled Michigan All-American Rickey Green, who led the Wolverines with 20 points. "Their arm reach was so long I couldn't believe it. No matter how high you'd get your shot, it seemed like they'd be waiting to tip it."

If UNCC is Cinderella, veteran Marquette Coach Al McGuire, with his past penchant for drawing costly technicals, certainly isn't Prince Charming. However, McGuire will have plenty of followers in Atlanta, having announced his retirement at the end of this season.

McGuire would have been granted early retirement but for a career-high 18-point performance against Wake Forest by 6-9 substitute Bernard Toome to go with Bo Ellis' 20 and Butch Lee's 19. Toome, a sophomore, will be back on the bench when the ball goes up against UNCC. And he'll probably be off the bench in a hurry if the Warriors fall behind again.

North Carolina was comfortable most of the way against Kentucky's physical Wildcats despite the loss of foul-plagued, sore-elbowed All-American Phil Ford for the last 19 minutes. While he was in there, Ford scored only two points. But his backcourt mate, John Kuester, took over, running the Tar Heels' four-corner offense down the stretch and hitting four crucial free throws in the final 72 seconds after Kentucky had whacked a 15-point deficit to just one.

The injury-plagued Tar Heels also played without center Tommy LaGarde, out for the season with a knee injury, while Walter Davis scored 21 points despite a broken index finger on his shooting hand. Ford, LaGarde and Davis all were members of the United States gold medal-winning Olympic basketball team.

It would have been Cinderella vs. Cinderella had Idaho State beaten run-and-gun Nevada-Las Vegas. But after trailing 52-51 at the half, UNLV's Runnin' Rebels caught fire following a pep talk from Coach Jerry Tarkanian and outscored the Bengals 20-7 in the first seven minutes of the second half.

"I gave them a scolding," Tarkanian reported. "The first half, we played like we were in a trance. We didn't play with any intensity. We're not a good basketball team unless we play with intensity."

Eddie Owens scored 13 of his 24 points and Robert Smith had 12 of his 18 in the second half.

Bucks Blasted In Semifinals

St. Mary Pops Title Dream

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

LANSING — Buchanan's dream of a second straight Class C championship turned into a nightmare here Saturday night.

Redford St. Mary roared out to a 46-28 halftime lead and coasted past the Bucks 88-59 in the Class C semifinals before more than 3,500 fans at Lansing Eastern.

"They are a great defensive team," Buchanan coach Jon Bohannon said. "And I feel they are the next state champions. Tonight was really the championship game. And as far as I'm concerned we are the second best team in the state."

Redford St. Mary, now 22-4,

will face Saginaw SS. Peter and Paul next Saturday night at Crisler Arena for the Class C crown. But if Saturday's defensive effort is any indication, the Rustics should have no problem capturing the title.

St. Mary's tenacious defense forced Buchanan into a poor 32 per cent shooting effort (on 21 of 64 shots from the floor) and 33 turnovers.

"We just got them out of their game," St. Mary coach Pat Mulcahy said. "Buchanan is a good team, but the kids were ready. It was our game that they played tonight. We just played our game and that's a strong man-to-man."

It was that tremendous defense which, for all practical purposes, wrapped the game up in the opening four minutes.

Buchanan's top scorer, Gerald Busby, picked up four personal fouls in the first 3:49. Busby re-entered the game in the second quarter and finally fouled out only three minutes into the third stanza. The 6-4 standout scored just nine points, the first time in 25 games Busby has been held out of double figures.

The nine-point effort did push the junior's career total to 1,004 points. Busby is believed to be only the second junior in southwestern Michigan history to achieve that status. The other was Fennville's Richie Jordan.

"Our game plan was to get the ball inside to Gerald," Bohannon said. "But when you don't have Gerald to get the ball in to, it's tough to do."

"We didn't lose anything emotionally when he went out of the game. But we sure lost the skill factor."

Forward Tony Taylor drew the assignment of guarding Busby for St. Mary. And the 6-4 standout limited Busby to just three of 12 from the floor.

"I think we frustrated him a little bit," Mulcahy said. "And because of that he got out of his game."

"But then Taylor is one of the best defensive men around. He's quick, can jump, plays great position and is a smart player. He doesn't get cheap fouls."

Offensively, it was the one-two punch of 6-4 forward Joe Stafford and 6-7 center Steve Jones which did Buchanan in. Stafford blistered the nets on 13 of 17 from the floor and scored 27 points, while Jones added a 7-of-10 effort for 17 points.

The duo combined for 29 points in the first half as St. Mary raced to the 18-point halftime margin. Stafford tallied 19 and Jones 10.

Mo Kyles and Greg Frazier were the only Buchanan players to hit double digits. Kyles tallied 19 and Frazier added 13. But the duo were limited to a combined eight points in the first half.

St. Mary also finished with a 43-30 board edge with Stafford and Jones pulling down eight apiece. Mo Kyles grabbed 11 for the Bucks.

'Cornbread' Maxwell Cut Once

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) —

Cedric "Cornbread" Maxwell, the silky smooth North Carolina-Charlotte center who ousted top-ranked Michigan from the NCAA tournament, once was cut from his high school squad for being too slow and awkward.

Maxwell poured in 25 points, pulled down 13 rebounds and handled the ball like a guard against Michigan's pressing defense Saturday to lead the unheralded 49ers to a 75-68 decision over the favored Wolverines.

Maxwell said he only played his senior year in high school after the coach accused him of being slow and awkward when he cut him in his junior season.

"I didn't agree with the coach," said Maxwell, who had only one full scholarship offer when he graduated — to UNC-Charlotte, which now moves into next week's national semifinals in Atlanta against No. 7 Marquette.

"That was the only team I ever saw that let their center

bring the ball up the floor," said Steve Grote, an intense Michigan performer who plays a key role in its pressing defense.

Maxwell said he learned to handle the ball in the streets of his home town, Kingston, N.C. "Street ball teaches something that a coach can't teach."

Lee Rose, the Charlotte coach, calls Maxwell the best player in the country "pound for pound," and says he does more things well than any other big man in the nation.

Concerning Maxwell facing the press, "We would be remiss if we did not incorporate his ball-handling ability into our attack against pressure."

The 6-foot-8 Maxwell said he got his nickname from the movie, "Cornbread, Earl and Me," because he resembled Jamaal Wilkes, a former UCLA star now with the Golden State Warriors of the National Basketball Association.

Phil Hubbard, Michigan's Olympic gold medalist, could not handle Maxwell inside. "He ranks right up there with the finest I saw all year," Hubbard said.

"He's a good ball player. You can't take it away from him," said Grote.

Maxwell was named the Most Valuable Player in the NCAA Midwest tournament and was named on the All-Tournament team by teammate Lew Massey, Michigan's Hubbard, All-American Rickey Green and Detroit's John Long.

Edwardsburg Girls State Volleyball Champs

It only took southwestern Michigan two years to get state champion in girls volleyball.

Edwardsburg became the first area school to accomplish that feat when it topped Grand Rapids Forest Hills Northern 13-10, 3-15, 15-10 in the finals of the Class C tourney at Spring Arbor College Saturday.

South Haven almost equaled the Eddie's task but the Rams came up short in the second annual tourney. They won their first two matches and lost to Sturgis in the finals 15-1, 15-8 in Class B. The Rams ended the season at 25-1.

Bridgman topped Watersmeet in the first round of the 'D' meet at Delta College, but lost to Flint Holy Rosary in the semifinals 15-1, 15-2.

The Eddie's got to the championship by beating Rogers City 15-5, 15-10 and Galdwin 15-4, 13-10. They then topped Northern in the first game of the finals and coach Pat Reztuko thought something might give.

"I was afraid they would let down after they won the first game so easily," she mentioned. "Northern came back with some super serves."

In the last game, Edwardsburg was never behind.

Northern did come back to tie the Eddie's twice, but could never overcome the eventual state champs. "The kids played real well in the clutch," Reztuko beamed.

The Eddie's top spikers were

No Mountains? Climb Building For Recreation

By TIM REITERMAN
Associated Press Writer
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) —

Who are these guys? Those guys who look like second-story men inching their way up the sides of lofty University of California buildings in the dead of night?

They're city-bound mountaineers, making do in the absence of great granite cliffs.

"Building climbing is very similar to Yosemite rock climbing," says one climber, Chris Vandiver. "Yosemite rocks are smooth and so are the buildings. You climb small cracks, usually without a rope. If you make a mistake up high, you're dead."

A loosely knit group of about 45 climbers convenes about twice a week at nearby Indian Rock for a little warmup before tramping to the campus.

Although the sport has attracted a daring few since the 1930s, never have so many tried to conquer the sheer walls here — comparable in some ways in difficulty to Himalayan peaks or Yosemite's El Capitan. Most often there is no more than a series of finger holds. Campus police, needless to say, frown on the activity.

"Apparently no one is reporting the climbers anymore, or none of our officers is seeing them," says campus Police Lt. Robert Laddien. "We had a rash of climbing a few years ago. All we could do was ask them to come down. We didn't have anyone brave enough to go up after them."

The climbers say they have grown more brazen in the past year, attempting some daylight maneuvers.

"At night, you might just make a few climbs," relates Vandiver, a 25-year-old former Yosemite climbing instructor. "If you're going to make a day of it, you might undertake the Greek Theater, a 50-foot climb, or Memorial Coliseum or Wurster Hall, which is more than 100 feet."

The only unquenched structure on campus has been the 307-foot Campanile bell tower. The climbers say they could scale it using metal spikes called pitons. But they scrupulously avoid damaging the structures, other than to leave black marks from their cleated boots.

"These climbs were close by and tough," says Mike Harding, a 39-year-old former climber. "There also was a bit of grammar school adventure in playing hide and seek with the cops."

"The climbers of the past were often quiet guys you'd see walking around campus late at night. They'd look at a building and say, 'Let's go for it.' A few minutes later, they'd be on a rooftop."

The climbers recall only one serious accident several years ago. A man scaling the main library slipped and broke his legs.

Cemetery Requires Permission To Plant

NEW BUFFALO — The Pine Grove cemetery board here has announced that no planting or lot improvements are permitted at the cemetery without first obtaining permission from Anton Carson, cemetery sexton.

Carson said all artificial flowers and blankets are to be picked up no later than April 1, or they will be destroyed.

Fresh decorations may be placed on graves after April 1.

Fire Death Toll Up

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan had 80,220 reported fires in 1976, claiming 358 lives and causing $198.2 million in damages, both records, Michigan State Police said. The death total, up 30 per cent from 1975, included three firemen. The property loss was about $53 million greater than 1975, the highest previous year. Investigators reported 8,810 arson fires, totaling $14.7 million in losses. Arson was suspected in another 8,035 fires.

Four Schools In State Finals

Detroit Catholic League Super

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Detroit Catholic League will be represented by four teams in the Michigan High School Athletic Association basketball finals at Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor Saturday.

And five of the league's 34 squads were among the 16 semifinalists in this year's state prep basketball tournament.

Detroit Catholic Central was the only representative of the league to fall last Saturday — and the Shamrocks' loss was a 65-63 setback at the hands of league rival Birmingham Brother Rice.

Catholic Central had an opportunity to tie the contest from a 64-62 deficit in the closing seconds. Rob Gonzalez, who scored 13 points for CC, hit the first half of a one-and-one free throw situation. His second attempt missed, and Tim Scheerer, who scored 13 for Brother Rice, put the victory away with a final free throw.

In the other Class A semifinal game Saturday, top-ranked Lansing Everett defeated Saginaw, 48-40. Earvin "Magic" Johnson hit for 16 points and Larry Hunter 13 to lead the Vikings, improving their record to 26-1.

Everett meets Brother Rice (21-3) in the state Class A finale at the University of Michigan's arena at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

In Class B, Dearborn Divine Child earned the right to represent the Catholic League with a thrilling 51-50 defeat of Saginaw Buena Vista. Tom Wing dropped in a free throw in the closing seconds to give the Falcons that triumph.

Grandville maintained its undefeated status by trimming Oscoda, 66-59, in the other Class B contest Saturday. AllState senior Vince Vogt paced the Bulldogs with a 16-point performance.

Divine Child, now 25-1, meets Grandville (24-0) Saturday at 11 a.m. for Class B honors.

Redford St. Mary of the Catholic League waltzed into the Class C finals with an 88-59 victory over Buchanan. Senior forward Joe Stafford contributed 27 points as the Rusties improved their record to 22-4.

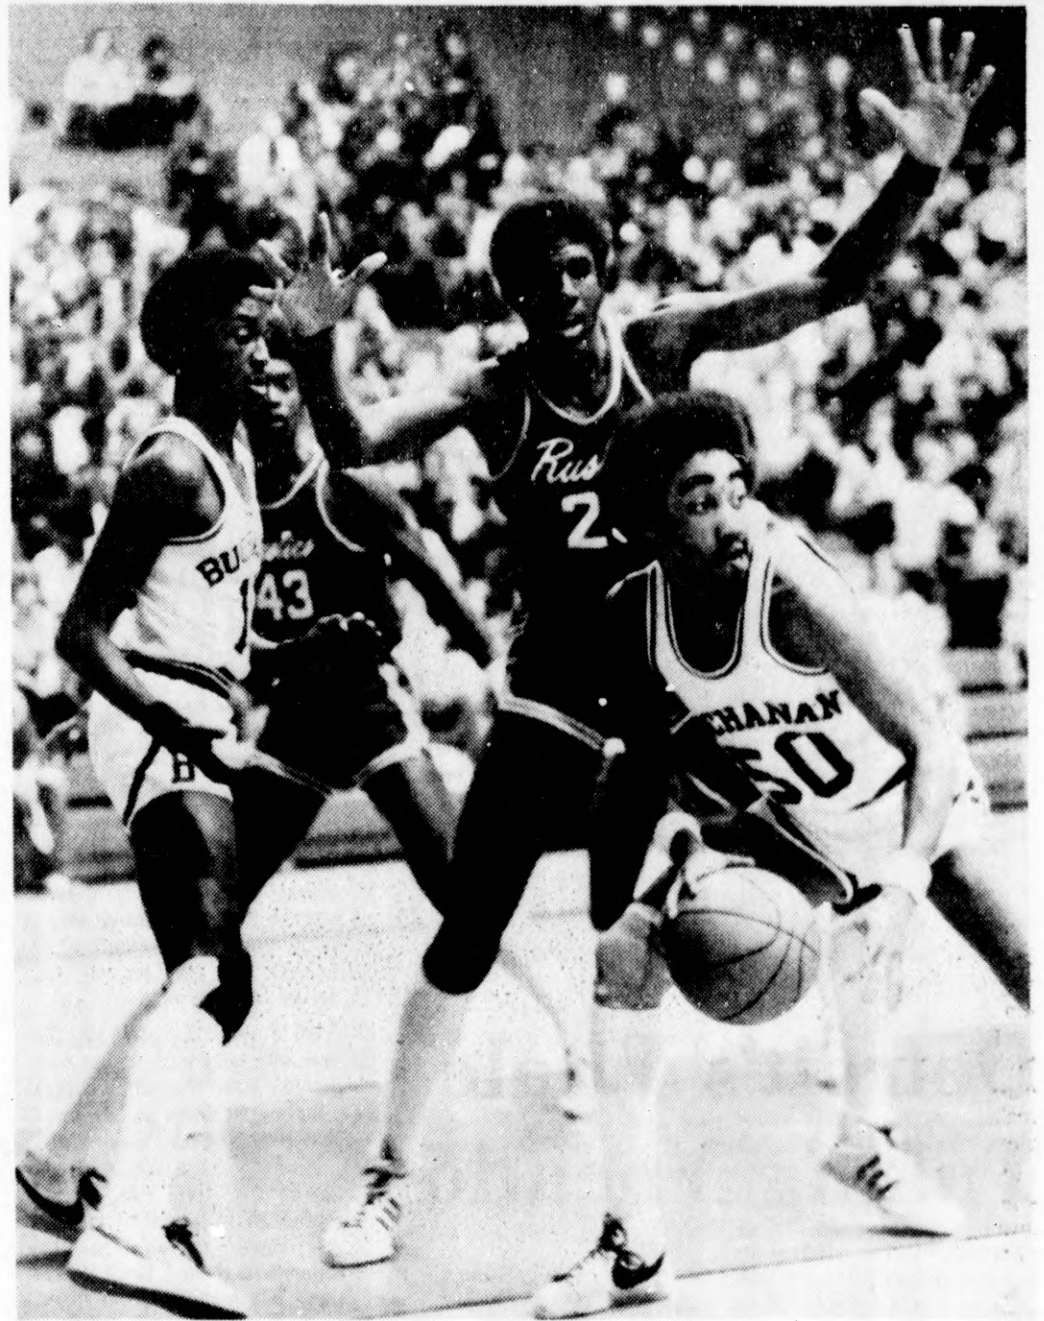

Saginaw St. Peter & Paul also picked up an easy Class C semifinal win Saturday. Junior guard Cass Wilson scored 28 points as the Crusaders topped Boyne City, 75-41.

The Crusaders, now 20-4, and the 22-4 Rusties tangle for the Class C championship at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Terry Tripplett and Donnell Williams combined for 41 points as Detroit East Catholic advanced with a 72-62 Class D triumph over Fulton-Middleton. That decision put one Catholic League team in each of the four final bouts next week.

A 27-point contribution from Robert Alaska helped Maple City Glen Lake better Harbor Springs, 75-59, in the other Class D semifinal battle. The victory brought Glen Lake's record to 25-2.

East Catholic (23-1) plays Glen Lake for the Class D title at 7 p.m. Saturday at Crisler.

LOOKING FOR OPENING: Buchanan's Ronnie Williams (50) searches for a teammate to pass to during Saturday's Class C semifinal against Redford St. Mary. Surrounding Williams is Redford's Steve Jones (25), while Mo Kyles (12) of the Bucks and Tony Taylor (43) of St. Mary look on. Redford roared past Buchanan 88-59 to end Buchanan's hopes of repeating as Class C champs. (Staff photo by Harry Smith)

explosive as they were," Bohannon said. "But I didn't expect them to dominate the boards like they did. They took the boards away from us in the first half and that was it."

Despite the loss, Buchanan still has much to look forward to for next year. The Bucks return five of the top six players from this year's 21-6 team, losing only guard Joe Kyles.

"I'm starting Monday getting ready for next year," Bohannon said. "All I have to do is talk about this ballgame to get ready for next year. We're going to get stronger from this loss."

"I'm awfully proud of these guys. They played over injuries all year. These are very strong-willed kids. I love these kids and am very proud of them."

Redford hit on 40 of 81 from the floor for 49 per cent. The Rusties hit on 21 of 35 in the first half (60 per cent).

Redford committed 24 turnovers themselves.

other time of the year."

Reutko had a feeling at the start of the regionals that the Eddies, who end the season at 27-4, might go all the way.

"I had a feeling in the back of my mind but I didn't want to push it," she stated. "We never really pointed to the state title. But when we played so well in the regionals, I said that if we could play that well in the finals, we could take it."

South Haven wasn't as fortunate as Edwardsburg. The Rams topped Tawas Area 15-10, 15-8 in the quarterfinals and then beat Grand Rapids Christian 15-5, 15-9 in the semis before bowing to Sturgis in the finals.

"All year we would give up a few points but would come back and win," commented coach Dene Hedden. "But Sturgis just kept the pressure on us all the time in the finals."

Even though South Haven lost the first match badly, the score was tied at 1-1. But Sturgis reeled off the next 14 points, never more than three at a time though, to take the first game.

Just about the same thing happened in the second game. Sturgis got the Rams down early but South Haven fought back to trail by one at 6-5. The strength of spiker Sue Wegner prevailed for the winners the rest of the way.

Players Championship came as a mild surprise to Mark Hayes. But the quiet, 27-year-old used the wind as his ally and extended for still another week the youthful revolution that has shaken the pro golf tour.

With the season 11 weeks old, only Jack Nicklaus has been able to win against the horde of youngsters who, week after week, have bettered the best efforts of golf's established stars.

This time the supporting cast included some of the game's greatest names — Nicklaus, Tom Watson, Hale Irwin and Ray Floyd. All fired and fell back in the howling winds that turned the alligator-infested Sawgrass course into an unbeatable monster.

No one in the field of the world's finest players was able to break par for four rounds over the reclaimed swamp and marshland that the touring pros were playing for the first time.

"I was just concentrating on making pars," Hayes said after his even-par 72 had given him a two-stroke victory at 289, one over par and the highest winning score in any tour event since Nicklaus won the 1972 U.S. Open at 290.

Hayes' credentials — two victories and more than $150,000 in earnings last year — are such that his triumph couldn't be classified as an upset. But even he didn't expect it.

"I really wasn't in it over the front nine," said the Oklahoma State product, who joined the tour in the fall of 1973. "But then all the leaders started to make bogey and kind of came back to me."

Mike McCullough, a non-winner who had led or shared the lead through the first three rounds, claimed second with a birdie on the last hole. He had a 73, a 291 total and the biggest check of his five-year career, $34,200. Hayes won $60,000 from the total purse of $300,000.

Irwin, with a closing 74, and Australian Bruce Devlin, 72, tied for third at 292. At 293 were defending champion Nicklaus, 74; veteran internationalist Graham Marsh, 71, and Tom Watson, 77. Floyd, in the title chase most of the way, went to a 78-296.

Lawyer-Farmer Leads Tax Revolt

By LARRY McDERMOTT
Associated Press Writer

HILLSDALE, Mich. (AP) — It's not exactly the Boston Tea Party, but a young lawyer-farmer in southern Michigan is stirring up a heady brew of revolt on behalf of angry farmers who say they're being taxed out of business. Farmers in largely rural Hillsdale County have banded together 2,000-strong to form Hillsdale County Citizens for Reasonable Taxation. They say county property tax assessments on farmland are unfairly based on current land sales. As a result, they say, farmers are being forced to sell large blocks of land to pay the taxes.

Their leader is a 31-year-old product of the University of Detroit law school who holds an agriculture degree for Purdue University.

Michael Nye grew up on a farm in southern Indiana, then went to Purdue. Drafted by the Army to become a veterinarian, he instead was sent to law school. After his discharge, Nye settled in Hillsdale. A few years ago he and his wife, Marcie, began farming 120 acres they bought and another 280 acres they rented. He also entered a general law practice with a partner.

Two years ago, the property taxes in Hillsdale County began to jump. A county-wide assessment increase of 23 per cent was ordered last year, including a whopping 57 per cent jump in Ransom Township. Another 12 per cent increase is set for this year. That was the last straw, farmers said.

"We're not upset about paying taxes. It's throwing these constant increases on the farmers that we're fighting. It's making them sell the land they love just to pay unfair taxes," Nye said. Nye has filed a nine-count complaint in Hillsdale County Circuit Court alleging the assessment methods of county supervisors are illegal. And, in a novel approach, he told the court that the assessments violate the state's Environmental Protection Act of 1970.

"Farmland is a natural resource. Through these high assessments, the county is forcing the farmer to sell this natural resource in violation of the act," Nye said. "You have people who sell their property in an affluent part of the state for $2,000 an acre and come down here and have no qualms about paying $2,000 an acre, when the land isn't worth even half that much," he added.

Nye said county supervisors are illegally basing assessments on land sales rather than how much farmers earn off the land. The county plans to collect $8.1 million in taxes this year, an increase of nearly $1 million compared with last year. Some farmers are refusing to pay their taxes, placing money instead in an escrow account until the dispute is settled. Others symbolically are wearing tea bags pinned to their lapels and attaching tea bags to their tax bills. County officials concede collections "are not as good as last year."

Traditionally, taxpayer revolts in Michigan have been a lot of talk with little or no results. But Nye is optimistic about this one. "It's growing every day. We're getting lots of letters of support. Counties surrounding us want to join, and — most important — we believe we are on good legal ground," he said.

MASSIVE RESCUE EFFORT: Berrien sheriff's officers, pipetstone-Berrien township firemen and wrecker crewmen worked for 90 minutes Saturday to free driver pinned in auto that went down embankment off Dean's Hill road, near Huckleberry road, Berrien township. Ambulance crew and nurse from nearby Berrien general hospital also gave aid. Five other people in auto had been freed when picture was taken. Sheriff's Lt. Ronald Schalton said driver Joseph N. Jackson was passing an auto and allegedly was forced off road by pickup truck that also was passing. Pickup was reported driven by Richard Dougan, 29, of 660 St. Joseph avenue, Berrien Springs. Schalton said Dougan was ticketed for improper lane usage. Accident occurred at 5 p.m.

NEARLY FREE: Rescue crew reaches driver Joseph N. Jackson, 57, of 307 Pokagon road, rural Dowagiac, who sustained hand and leg injuries and was reported in satisfactory condition at Berrien General hospital this morning. Also listed in satisfactory condition were passengers Joseph Jackson Jr., 15, of 1222 North Ninth street, Niles, and Melvin Transon, 9, Dowagiac. Three other passengers escaped injury. (Staff photos)

GOP Could Grab Two Senate Seats

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

Republicans will try to cut into the Democratic majority in the state Senate this week as voters select new senators in two special elections.

Democrats acknowledge they are underdogs in one race, and that the other, in a normally Democratic district, is closer than expected.

Democrats now hold a 22-13 edge in the Senate, with three vacancies. Two of the empty seats are up for election Wednesday, one previously held by a Republican and the other by a Democrat. The third, held by a Democrat before, is slated for a primary election next week and a general election April 19.

If Republicans could take both seats Wednesday, they would have one more member than they did when the present Senate was elected in 1974. They won 14 seats then.

Both races feature state representatives seeking to move up to the Senate. If they succeed, then special elections will be held to fill the House seats they vacate.

In the 29th district, Rep. Harold Scott, D-Flint, is the logical favorite to win the seat of former Democratic Sen. Dale Kildee, who was elected to Congress. The area is heavily influenced by labor, especially the United Auto Workers.

But Scott is reportedly in a close fight with Grand Blanc Township Supervisor William Delaney, and Democrats fear that public boredom with the mid-year election could produce a low turnout that would hurt Scott's chances.

"In a special election, everybody's got a chance," noted state Democratic Chairman Morley Winograd.

Scott, 38, was first elected to the legislature in 1974. He is a University of Michigan graduate and was a teacher for 11 years. He defeated six other Democrats in the primary, including a young, liberal state representative, Mark Chodfelder, D-Flint.

Delaney, 36, has been township supervisor since 1974. A native of Marshall and a Western Michigan University graduate, he worked for Buick Division for 10 years.

In the 14th district in western Wayne County, state Rep. Robert Geake, R-Northville, is favored over Redford Township Supervisor Patrick McDonald, a Democrat. Winograd said, however, polls show the race will be close.

The two are seeking the Senate seat given up by Carl Pursell, a Plymouth Republican, who was elected to Congress.

Geake, 40, is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is an educational psychologist. He was first elected to the House in 1972.

McDonald, a 29-year-old attorney, is a native of Paul Ave and a graduate of the University of Detroit Law School. He was first elected supervisor in 1974.

The third Senate vacancy is the seat of former Sen. John Bowman, a Democrat who resigned to become a lobbyist.

SENATE DEBATING TAX BREAK

Downtown Business Aid Sought

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Senate committee has started debate on legislation that would encourage development of downtown areas by giving a tax break to businesses that are modernized or rebuilt.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, is designed to help businesses restore rundown establishments without fear of getting hit with a hefty tax increase.

It is similar to tax breaks already given to industrial plants that modernize or move into Michigan and homeowners who maintain their houses. A tax expert from the Department of Management and Budget said, however, it must be significantly altered before the Miliken administration can support it.

Debate on the bill began last week in the Senate Finance Committee. DeMaso said he will continue technical work on the measure this week, although it is not likely to see a committee vote soon.

Meanwhile, the full Senate has little action slated for this week. The House is scheduled to begin discussions on a package of bills to crack down on drug kingpins, and the House Appropriations Committee may vote on a bill to lower the permitted levels of PBB in food.

Under DeMaso's bill as now written, a business could spend money on replacement or restoration without incurring a tax hike because of the increased value of the structure. And a new business could be exempted from half of its property tax after it moved to a new location.

It would be up to the local unit of government to grant the exemption, and it would run for 12 years.

"Most downtown areas are shabby," DeMaso said. "They need to be modernized and brought up to date. It would have a tremendous impact in areas where there is a reluctance of a store owner to do anything with his store because of a heavy tax burden."

But Doug Roberts, acting director of the state Office of Revenue and Tax Analysis in the Department of Management and Budget, was skeptical of the measure as drafted.

He said communities could use the measure to vie for business and "raid" each other by offering tax breaks. "It's just not in the interest of the state to have one unit competing with another," he said.

Roberts added, however, that the administration would eye

the bill with more favor if it were limited to downtown areas and restricted to existing stores so it would not be used to attract businesses from other communities.

"We're not opposed to revitalization," he said. "If the goal is to help decaying cities, we're interested."

DeMaso said he would be willing to alter the bill, including a limit on how much property could be exempted from increased taxes, what types of businesses would be eligible, and in what areas the program would be used.

'Bart' Points Way To Missing Pair

SOUTH HAVEN — With the help of a state police tracking dog, two young South Haven children missing nearly six hours were found unharmed Saturday. Trooper Laure MacDonald and his tracking dog, Bart, of the Paw Paw post, found Tammy Wakild, 8, and Regina Planine, 9, under a loading dock at Michigan Fruit Canners Co. here, about a mile from their homes. Both children wandered away from the trailer park where they live around lunchtime Saturday. The pair said they hid under the loading dock after becoming lost and scared. Tammy is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Pulliam and Regina is the daughter of Mrs. Tom Cagle.

He'll Probe In Coldwater

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee said he will hold a hearing in Coldwater to investigate charges of mismanagement at the Coldwater State Home for the mentally retarded. Sen. John Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, said the hearing will be held March 31. He said his office has received a number of complaints about improprieties at the home. The complaints charged there was a double standard of discipline at the home.

WEAPONS SEIZED: State police at Benton Harbor post said these weapons were seized at 4:45 p.m. Saturday from pickup truck parked at Watervliet rest area off I-94. Occupant of truck Earl J. Barnaby, 28, Tucson, Ariz., was booked on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and violating conservation law (carrying uncased gun). Reported seized were 16 gauge shotgun, .357 magnum revolver, knife, shells, karate sticks and metal "stars," described as throwing-type weapons. Arrest was by Trooper Michael Parker of South Haven post, assigned to state police special traffic enforcement program (STEP). Post said Parker on routine patrol investigated after seeing shotgun propped up inside truck. Weapons were held at Benton Harbor post. (Staff photo)

Smythe Division Race Heating Up Hawks Break Losing Streak

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ernie Hicke, the Minnesota North Stars' veteran left wing, said it best: "The pressure is on."

Hicke referred to the race in the National Hockey League's Smythe Division, where the North Stars and Vancouver Canucks trail the Chicago Black Hawks by a point in the race for second place.

The North Stars did their part to keep pace Sunday, trimming the Detroit Red Wings 2-1 on Hicke's second-period goal.

"They've got to worry about catching us now," boasted Minnesota goalie Pete LoPresti after making 30 stops.

But later, Chicago passed

Minnesota by beating Pittsburgh 3-2 and Vancouver stayed tied with the North Stars by defeating the Colorado Rockies 4-1.

Some of the other NHL playoff races also continued their fever pitch. The Buffalo Sabres topped the Washington Capitals 6-2, breaking a tie with the idle Boston Bruins and taking sole possession of first place in the Adams Division; the New York Rangers beat the St. Louis Blues 5-3 and pulled within five points of Atlanta, which holds the third and last playoff spot in the Patrick Division, while the Cleveland Barons defeated the Flames 5-4.

Hicke's 27th goal of the season came with just 17 seconds remaining in the second period. He took a pass from Tim Young and lifted a shot over the stick of Detroit goalie Jim Rutherford.

Grant Mulvey scored at 7:04 of the third period, helping Chicago beat Pittsburgh for its first victory in nine games since Feb. 26. The Penguins, who lost for the fourth time in five games, remained three points ahead of third-place Los Angeles in the Norris Division.

Ron Sedlbauer scored twice and goalie Cesare Maniago kicked out 44 shots as Vancouver beat Colorado, extending the Rockies' winless streak to 13 games — equalling the longest in the league this season, by Los Angeles.

Gil Perreault scored his 37th and 38th goals of the season, including the one which capped a three-goal spree in 2:04 which sent Buffalo past Washington.

Mike McEwen, Ron Greschner and Pat Hickey scored goals in a 3:03 span of the third period, as the Rangers extended to 24 games their home domination of St. Louis. The Blues, who led three times, have not won at Madison Square Garden since Nov. 13, 1968.

Cleveland, assisted by one disputed goal and one freak goal, held off Atlanta. The Flames claimed that Bob Girard's first-period goal was kicked into the net illegally, giving the Barons a 3-0 lead. Atlanta held Cleveland to three shots in the second period, but two of them resulted in goals — the second when Flames defenseman Pat Quinn kicked the rebound of a Wayne Merrick shot past his own goalie.

Merrick's goal gave Cleveland a 5-1 lead.

Detroit's Vitale Taking Vacation

DETROIT (AP) — University of Detroit basketball Coach Dick Vitale says he's going to take a vacation and then get down to the business of next season.

Vitale said he watched and rewatched the film of his University of Detroit's 86-81 loss last week to Michigan in the NCAA regionals.

"Yeah, I watched it," the coach muttered. "But the score didn't change. It was the same every time."

But the normally voracious Vitale promised not to stay down long. After a family vacation in Florida, he'll go back to work and concentrate on next year.

The Titans finished the season on Thursday with a 25-4 mark. The losses were to Minnesota, Duquesne, Loyola and Michigan.

"I'm just emotionally drained," Vitale said Friday after his team flew back from Lexington, Ky. "I make every game into a war within myself and I owe it to my body and my family to take some time off."

When he returns from vacation, Vitale said he'll start thinking about recruiting.

"We want three people for our front line and a real fine guard to take Dennis' (Boyd) place," he said.

Boyd and forward Ron Bostick are the only starters the Titans will lose through graduation this year.

U-D's schedule next year includes Marquette, Michigan State, Dayton and Duquesne at home after the opener at Toledo.

'Hairless' Hrabosky May File Grievance

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Al Hrabosky, the Mad Hungarian of the St. Louis Cardinals' bullpen, does not like his mental outlook. He likes his facial outlook even less.

Unhappy over an edict by Vern Rapp, the Cards' new manager, that all facial hair had to go, Hrabosky has threatened to file a grievance with the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Hrabosky's famed Fu Manchu mustache was one of the casualties after Rapp announced his ban on facial foliage. And shorn of his security blanket, Hrabosky is contemplating an official grievance.

"There's a very good chance of it real soon," he said Sunday as the Cardinals dropped an 8-2 exhibition game to the Cincinnati Reds. "My mental outlook is atrocious. There's more tension on this club than I've ever seen."

"I'm still trying to do my best — do my job, work hard and set an example for others," added Hrabosky, who has totaled 44 saves and a record of 2910 in the past three seasons.

The hairless Cards were held hitless over the first four innings by Cincinnati's Woodie Fryman while the Reds produced a pair of four-run innings, one of which included Joel Youngblood's two-run homer.

Hrabosky was not the only player making waves. Center-fielder Mickey Rivers of the New York Yankees, who failed to suit up for the first day of spring practice and was yanked last week when he neglected to run out a ground ball, got in more trouble during a 7-3 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies. He played a single into a triple by not chasing the ball during the seventh inning and nonchalantly dropped a fly ball later in the inning.

Elsewhere on the exhibition trail, Jerry Morales drove in six runs with two homers, a triple and a single as the Chicago Cubs outlasted the Seattle Mariners 16-15 in 10 innings.

In another slugfest, Bob Gorinski, the 1976 Pacific Coast

League home run and RBI champ, collected four RBI with a 450-foot homer and a triple, powering the Minnesota Twins over the Boston Red Sox 10-7.

Bobby Grich, sidelined with a sore back, made his debut with the California Angels. He played four flawless innings in the field and said his back felt fine, but the Angels lost to the Oakland A's 8-7 on newly acquired Mitchell Page's two-run single.

Merv Rettenmund's three-run homer led the San Diego Padres past the Cleveland Indians 9-7. Ben Oglivie hit a three-run homer and doubled home another run in the Detroit Tigers' 8-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Rick Rhoden and Burt Hooten hurled a five-hitter and Manny Mota homered, leading the Los Angeles Dodgers over the New York Mets 4-0, and Lee May's ninth-inning homer gave the Baltimore Orioles a 3-2 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rookie Brian Asselstine homered for Atlanta as the Braves downed the Texas Rangers 5-3. Montreal's Larry Parrish delivered a two-run triple, leading the Expos over the Houston Astros 8-6. Jerry Augustine allowed one run in six innings, pitching the Milwaukee Brewers to an 8-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants, and Buck Martinez drove in three runs with a homer and two singles as the Kansas City Royals defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 9-7.

Loudermilk Sees Nashville Tragedies

By RICHARD H. LOWE
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Fighting a losing battle against self-control, country-folk singer John D. Loudermilk has forsaken frivolity of an earlier era and channeled his energy toward his family.

"I have seen so many tragedies in this town in the music business," he said. "It's no one's fault. It's just the way it is — the big car, the big house, just all the trappings."

"If I had stayed around here, I know I would've burned myself out. I've watched it ruin guy after guy."

Loudermilk, 42, a native of Durham, N.C., lived and recorded his music here for 15 years, before divorcing, remarrying and traveling to Europe with his three sons in 1971.

Hits like "Tobacco Road," "I Wanna Live," "Waterloo" and "Abilene" are among the 600 he has written. Some have been recorded by Waylon Jennings, Perry Como, Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra and the Jefferson Airplane.

When they returned from Europe, Loudermilk and his family moved to Lafayette, La. "We wanted a place that was warm and semi-tropical," he said. "We wanted to get out of the mainstream."

That's when he turned attention to his family.

"I've been through a lot of things that have been other than songwriting, and sometimes I wonder if that has been the better part of my judgment," he said.

"My family is the most important thing to me. It used not to be. One point when I was much younger, Nashville was my playground, but as I grew older I realized that a family is all you have."

Loudermilk spends nearly all his time with his songwriting and his family, his wife, Susan and his sons, John Jr., 19, Rick, 15, and Mike, 16.

"My rocks turned over in my head," he said. "I only had these kids and that's the only way that I could help the next generation. It's more important than writing, even more important than making speeches or carrying signs or doing whatever."

Loudermilk said it took him years to conquer the way of life in the music business here.

"It was mostly hedonistic foolishness. It was materialistic," he said. "It was the accumulation of petty toys, and I've been through all of that. When you go through it and take a look at it, you realize just how foolish it is."

"I didn't have a lick of sense until I was 30. There were general interplanetary truths, facts of life, that had not even crossed my mind until I was 30."

Every summer, Loudermilk and his family crawl into their trailer and travel. They have visited every state in the nation, plus Mexico, Germany, France, England, Italy, Spain and East Germany. The songwriter said he wants to take his family to Russia and China in the near future.

His sons collected mounds of scrapbooks, offering them an understanding of other cultures and ways of life.

"From that I hope they've learned in a short amount of time what took me a long time to learn," Loudermilk said.

He said he has tried to broaden his sons' minds through education in various schools. They have attended Catholic, British and small country schools. Loudermilk hopes his youngest son will attend a Jewish school shortly to increase his association with different religions.

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — For a short while, it looked like Mark "The Bird" Fidrych had suffered the malady prevalent among newly established athlete stars — a swelled head.

The Detroit Tiger pitcher stomped toward home plate and argued vociferously with rookie umpire Ted Hendry over his contention that Fidrych had hit a batter in a recent exhibition game.

The Bird threw down his glove. Later he argued other calls with similar animation.

Had the 1976 American League baseball Rookie of the Year become such a great star that he could expect to intimidate the umpires?

Had Fidrych assumed he could get away with such antics because of his value as a drawing card?

So it seemed. But afterwards Fidrych spent a good 15 minutes admonishing himself in front of reporters. What he did was "bush," he said.

"You'll never see me do that again," he added.

"I should have just taken my medicine," said Fidrych, who had just given up eight hits, 12 runs and hit three batters in one inning against the Chicago White Sox.

Fidrych said things built up so much that he just "cracked."

His admitted "temper tantrum" was wrong.

His admission of that showed he has class. It indicated he won't be one to let his fame get in the way of honest self-criticism or lead to pomposity.

Except for his one-inning flareup, Fidrych seemed as relaxed as ever. He didn't let things bother him much last year and doesn't look like he will in 1977.

Asked if the burden of constant interviews and dealing with autograph hounds and ballpark groupies had much effect on him, The Bird said: "I'm very relaxed. I'm not under any strain. If I was, I'd just lock myself away."

Usually a rookie has to be in the right place at the right time to make it big in the big leagues. Pitcher Dave Rozema of Grand Rapids is in that position. Tiger manager Ralph Houk virtually admitted recently that Rozema, who isn't on the regular 40-man roster, had the club made before spring training began.

Houk said last year Fidrych had the team made "before he threw a pitch in spring training." Houk simply made up his mind based on The Bird's minor league performances and scouting reports.

"Is Rozema in the same boat?" Houk was asked.

"Well," he said, pausing, "I guess you'd have to say he is in the same boat. The only way he couldn't make this team is if he was to completely go to pieces."

Rookie leftfielder Tim Corcoran, meanwhile, isn't in the same boat. He's been ripping hits and driving in runs all over the place, but doesn't have such a good chance of making the team. With fellow rookie and former No. 1 draft choice Steve Kemp assured of a spot, there just doesn't appear to be room to squeeze Corcoran in among the many outfielders.

However, the first injury to an outfielder this season is almost sure to bring Corcoran up.

Comar Going To Wayne St.

DETROIT (AP) — Southgate Aquinas prep football coach Dick Comar has been named offensive line coach at Wayne State University.

Comar, 38, replaces Vern Sharbaugh, who resigned. Comar's job as assistant athletic coach becomes effective April 4, WSU officials said today.

Campaign Dropped

DETROIT (AP) — Boxing to pressure from competitors and consumers, Chatham Supermarkets has dropped a controversial advertising campaign featuring a 12-member "consumer food council."

Chatham said the panel would continue as an advisor to the firm's management but would not be used in future advertising.

The panelists — all appointed by Chatham — did selective shopping; and appeared on TV and in radio ads praising Chatham's pricing and merchandising policies.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Opener Is Mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, beginning the week on an uninspired note.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped nearly 2 points in early trading, but gainers took a slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market's weak showing last Thursday and Friday had dampened buying interest.

They also said traders were waiting to see what eventual form economic stimulus legislation now before Congress would take.

Today's early prices included BankAmerica, up 1/4 at 26 1/2; Eastman Kodak, down 3/4 at 70 1/2; and Merrill Lynch, off 1/4 at 19.

Merrill Lynch said last week its first quarter earnings were "not going to be very good" because of slack securities trading volume so far this year.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 3.82 loss to 961.02, reducing its gain for the week to 13.30 points.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 7-6 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 19.54 million shares, against 20.70 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .09 to 55.36.

Linen Truckers Okay Pact

Delivery truck drivers for eight linen supply firms, including three in Berrien County, returned to work today under a new three-year contract that ended a 10-day strike, according to Fred Ruess, manager of the Cadillac Overall Supply, Coloma branch.

The strike affected Cadillac, Banner Linen Service of St. Joseph, and Means Supply Service, Niles. The other firms are based in Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, Sturgis and Lansing. They comprise the Michigan Outstate Linen and Industrial Association.

The drivers, totaling about 260, are members of Teamsters union, Local 7, based in Kalamazoo.

Robert Peck, local secretary-treasurer, said the contract was approved Friday by about a 3 to 1 margin in voting held at varied locations. Peck did not report contract provisions, except that they included improved pay, pensions, insurance and vacations.

The strike began March 8. Peck said all of the drivers were called back to work. Peck said he didn't anticipate any layoffs.

Cadillac Supply at Coloma has five drivers, and Banner in St. Joseph has two.

DISSIDENT DEPARTS
MOSCOW (AP) — President Nikolai Podgorny left Moscow today on a major Soviet diplomatic mission to southern Africa where he will meet leaders of black political and guerrilla movements fighting white regimes, diplomatic sources said.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. We have just retired and seek to increase our income. Our assets include a $100,000 house (with a $21,000 mortgage against it), $30,000 in cash and $20,000 in stocks. The cash is earning 6 percent, the dividend yield on the stock is 3 1/2 percent. Our 3 1/2 percent mortgage costs $178 a month. Should we wipe out the mortgage? Friends warn us that it is difficult to sell a house without a mortgage.

A. A sizable low interest rate mortgage which may be assumed by a buyer does, of course, facilitate the sale of a house. But I doubt that $21,000 will cut too much ice in the sale of a $100,000 house. One argument for wiping out the mortgage from savings is that although you would be dropping the earning power of that $21,000 from the present 6 percent (bank rate) to 3 1/2 percent (mortgage rate) it would reduce your monthly outgo (interest and amortization) $178 a month while cutting bank interest income by only $128, or $105 a month. So on a "current" basis you have $73 a month more to spend on living and luxuries.

Secondly: Why only 3 1/2 percent dividend income from a retirement portfolio? And finally: Without belaboring the point — a $100,000 house represents pretty expensive dwelling costs for the retirement income ($15,000 plus investment earnings) you list. Only you can decide whether or not you can afford it.

Arson Eyed In Fire At Saugatuck

ALLEGAN — Allegan county sheriff's deputies said this morning they suspect arson in a fire that badly damaged a Saugatuck township house last night.

Deputies said the fire at 2961 61st street was reported about 7:40 p.m. In a subsequent investigation, deputies reported they recovered several items from the fire scene that would point towards arson.

The home is owned by a yet unidentified out-of-state family, deputies said.

There has been no arrest in connection with the fire, deputies said.

Livestock Buyer Under U.S. Order

WASHINGTON, D.C. — J. Bernard Redless, Sr., a partner in Reznick's Packing Plant, South Haven, has been ordered to refrain from violating financial and payment requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) said today.

Redless is a meat packer who purchases livestock for slaughter purposes in southwestern Michigan. Litigation is still in process for his wife, Joyce Redless, a co-respondent in the case.

Albert F. Sylvester of the USDA said Redless consented to issuance of the order and waived oral hearing. The USDA said, adding that Redless neither admitted nor denied the charges in an administrative complaint filed by USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration.

The USDA spokesman said Administrative Law Judge Victor W. Palmer ordered Redless, in connection with his operation of Reznick's Packing Plant, to cease and desist from:

—Purchasing livestock while his current liabilities exceed his current assets unless the full purchase price is paid at the time of purchase.

—Issuing insufficient fund checks or drafts and failing to pay, when due, the full purchase price of livestock.

The cease and desist order, like a permanent injunction, was issued to insure future compliance with the Packers and Stockyards Act, the USDA said. Packers are required to maintain a solvent financial position and to pay promptly for livestock, unless credit has been arranged in advance.

AM General Given Postal Truck Contract

DETROIT (AP) — AM General Corp. has been awarded a $23.9 million contract to build 3,300 quarter-ton delivery trucks for the U.S. Postal Service, the American Motors subsidiary announced today.

The contract includes an option to build 2,000 additional units, the company said.

Kelley Questions N-Fuel Charge

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said today that Consumers Power Co. has made improper use of the fuel adjustment clause to raise its rates and should refund $1.50 million to customers.

Kelley asked the Public Service Commission to direct Consumers to stop its practice of changing accounting procedures which lead to higher customer rates without a proper hearing.

Consumers has increased the amount it receives through the fuel adjustment clause by changing the salvage value of its spent nuclear fuel, Kelley said. He added that the changes were being made without PSC approval.

In the past, Consumers had assumed that the spent nuclear fuel from its Palisades and Big Rock Point nuclear generating facilities would have substantial salvage value, but the utility has been claiming since June 1976 that the spent fuel has no value, the attorney general said.

"This method of accounting increases the cost of fuel and triggers the automatic fuel adjustment clause, thereby raising the rates Consumers' customers have to pay," he said.

Kelley also asked the PSC to investigate why the book value of Consumer Power's fuel has increased so much. He said that in the last year the company has doubled the value of nuclear fuel and passed the costs along to ratepayers.

A PSC judge has found Consumers' accounting procedures reasonable, but the PSC staff has agreed with Kelley.

Heritage Bank Stock Sale Is Underway

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Sale of stock to help establish the proposed Heritage Bank here is now under way, according to L. Eugene Merkel Jr., bank board chairman.

The bank recently received approval from the Michigan Financial Institution Bureau to raise its capital and to complete state and insurance requirements prior to commencing business. Merkel said the state is requiring that $300,000 in capital be raised.

Merkel said 40,000 shares of stock at $20 per share are for sale. The minimum block of stock that will be accepted is 10 shares ($200) to encourage as many residents as possible to participate in establishing a locally-owned full-service facility.

He said the bank's incorporators will own about 16 percent of the 40,000 shares, with the rest, some 34,000 shares, being sold to the public.

Heritage Bank, will be located in the University Plaza on the corner of US-31 and Garland avenue.

Adequate parking as well as drive-in facilities will be provided for customer convenience. Construction of permanent quarters will begin in the spring. The bank will open temporary quarters to serve the community as soon as the stock is sold.

Besides Merkel, the bank's board of directors include Leon Slikkers, owner and president of S-2 Yachts, Inc., of Holland, a former resident; Leonard Smith, president Leonard Smith Construction Co., St. Joseph; Orman Bailey, Heritage Bank president, Hyattsville, Md., who will be moving to Berrien Springs; John Freeman, Freeman Studios; William Nelson, owner Cum Laude motel; Loyal Oliver, real estate developer; Owen Moore, owner Action Rentals; and Wilson Trickett, professor of business administration at AU; all of Berrien Springs.

Merkel, a Berrien Springs accountant, said all the bank's officers have had wide experience covering all phases of banking and will be moving into the community prior to opening.

Merkel said people can obtain information about purchasing stock in the bank by contacting him at his accounting firm office: at a booth set up in the lobby of Apple Valley Market; or by writing to the bank's board of directors, 1223 St. Joseph avenue, Berrien Springs.

Final approval from both the Michigan Financial Institution Bureau and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation is anticipated soon after the required stock is sold which provides the basis for issuance of a state charter, Merkel said.

It's Not The Lord -- It's A CBer

UNWANTED INTERFERENCE: "It's disconcerting, particularly in the middle of a sermon," says Rev. W. Robert Alter, "particularly in the middle of a sermon." He attributes to Citizens Band hobbyists. Noises are an almost weekly occurrence over the public address system at his Faith Baptist church in Wallingford, Conn. (AP Wirephoto)

Strange Messages Interfere With Sermons In Church

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP) — It's disconcerting, says the Rev. W. Robert Alter, "particularly in the middle of a sermon."

He's talking about interference, a variety of strange noises he attributes to Citizens Band hobbyists, that has become an almost weekly occurrence over the public address system at Faith Baptist Church.

In simple terms, any wire leading to an amplifier can act as an antenna and pick up CB signals being broadcast nearby. A spokeswoman for Channel Masters, one of several CB clubs in the Wallingford area, said the problem might be with the PA system or with a CB base station nearby. She said an appeal from the minister might resolve the problem.

But the Rev. John F. Heuchert of Wallingford's First United Methodist Church suggested another solution. "We use natural voice power," he said.

Meanwhile, if you find yourself a little hungry along the road, it's nice to know there's a good buddy waitin' up ahead.

That's the way Citizens' Band radio buffs feel about Breaker, Breaker, a 2½-month-old calf along highway I-56-oh in the quiet ranching community of Rubidoux, just west of Riverside, Calif.

Breaker, Breaker caters to CBers and even allows customers to call in orders by radio and have the meals waiting when they arrive.

"At least 90 per cent of our business is CBers, but we want to cater to everyone — CBers, truckers and the general public," says Joyce Kutz, better known as Patchies.

The restaurant's co-owner, Maureen "Moe" Hemphill, feels Breaker, Breaker is catching on largely because of its fare.

"It's hearty and it's homemade," she says. "The food in most other restaurants all tastes the same. Here everything is different — and there's a lot of it."

And in Chicago, bigotry and ugliness have invaded the world of citizens-band radio, says a CB specialist.

Michael McCormack, president of the American CB Radio Association, said in a telephone interview that various ethnic and racial groups have taken over and segregated entire CB channels.

"Some even threaten outsiders who try to talk on their channels," said McCormack who monitors CB airwaves around the country. "When a white gets on a black channel, or vice versa, there is a flow of ugly racial remarks and at times threats of violence. By the articulation and language you can detect who owns the channel."

McCormack said "real hatreds exist out there."

This Rat Can Dunk

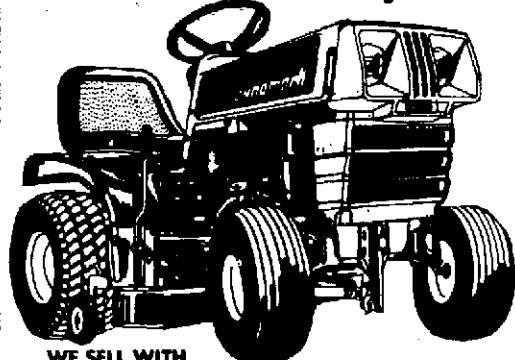

STATESBORO, Ga. (AP) — The basketball star of Georgia Southern College's psychology department is only two inches shorter than the basket. But it took 15 hours to train him to slam in a dunk shot. He's Blue — a rat, Glenn Fling of Savannah, Ga., and Terry Cantrell of Atlanta trained 5-inch-long Blue to stuff a marble into a makeshift basket seven inches off his cage floor. First Blue had to learn to run in a straight line. The two then taught Blue how to put a marble on top of a tuna can. From that, it was easy to train Blue to dunk the marble into a tiny basketball hoop. Blue is a product of a psychology class in "principles of conditioning and learning." Besides that, he's a pretty good shot, his trainers say.

Tab Up A Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is seeking $1 billion more in foreign economic aid than his predecessor, to be divided roughly between guaranteed loans and Middle East nations. White House Press Secretary Jody Powell agreed the increased economic aid would allow foreign nations to spend more of their own money on weapons.

Carter's requested increase would bring the foreign aid program, including both military and economic aid, to $7.5 billion in fiscal 1978, beginning Oct. 1.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stock Prices Stable

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was little changed today, opening on news that February's consumer price index leaped 1 per cent, the biggest inflationary surge in 2½ years.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was unchanged in the early going, but advances held a slight lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Labor Department's February price report, released this morning, jumped largely as the result of the severe winter's impact on food supplies.

In January, the consumer price index recorded an eight-tenths of 1 per cent jump in retail prices.

The index measures average changes in the prices of goods and services usually bought by urban wage earners and clerical workers.

Today's early prices included Continental Oil, up 1 to 36½, and Occidental Petroleum, up ¼ to 26½.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up more than 25 points in the five previous sessions, slipped back 3.16 to 964.84.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a very small margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume dropped off to 20.70 million shares from 22.14 million on Wednesday.

The NYSE's composite index was down .05 at 55.45.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .33 at 112.72.

BILL 'UNWORKABLE'? House PBB Vote Is Being Delayed

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A House committee vote on a bill to lower permissible levels of polychlorinated biphenyl, or PBB, in food has been delayed until at least next week.

Calling the measure unworkable and unnecessary, Deputy Agriculture Director Donald Isleib said the bill could cost the state more than $40 million in payments to farmers for livestock destroyed under the lower tolerance levels.

After hearing Isleib's testimony, Thursday, House Appropriations Committee member Rep. Russell Hellmann, D-Dollar Bay, charged that the bill would merely take pressure off top state officials still wrestling with the 4-year-old contamination problem.

"You're in here saying the federal PBB level is fair and safe yet you're in here asking us to spend $40 million to accomplish nothing?" Hellmann shouted at Isleib. "It doesn't make sense to spend that much or more of taxpayers' money ... just to take heat off (state Agriculture Director) B. Dale Ball, or the governor, or whoever is seeking the governorship."

Isleib told the committee that while the agriculture department supports the bill's concept, "We don't know how we could do the job" of accurately testing for minute amounts of PBB. He also estimated the bill's cost to the state at $41.8 million or more, depending on the number of cows that would have to be destroyed.

Sponsored by Rep. Francis Spaniola, D-Corunna, the bill would reduce the allowable amounts of PBB in food from 300 parts per billion to 20 parts per billion and would reimburse farmers for animals destroyed under the new guidelines.

Spaniola estimates it would cost the state $26.3 million to test some 80,000 animals believed contaminated with low PBB levels, and to reimburse farmers for an estimated 18,000 animals that would have to be destroyed.

But Isleib repeated Thursday that neither the department nor private laboratories could accurately test 80,000 animals for such tiny amounts of PBB.

The department estimates that as many as 36,000 animals could face destruction if the bill passes as it is. Instead, it is recommending that levels be set at 50 parts per billion, although that idea has not picked up much legislative support.

Appropriations Committee Chairman Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, said Thursday that he supports the bill as it is, despite Isleib's testimony. "Do you believe everything the Department of Agriculture tells you?" he asked reporters.

Jacobetti said he expected the committee to vote next week on whether to approve to Spaniola's bill or to another measure, sponsored by Rep. Paul Porter, D-Quincy. That bill, less popular with legislators so far, would leave the tolerance level unchanged but would reimburse farmers for animals they wanted to have destroyed.

The Porter bill, which has the support of the Michigan Farm Bureau, could cost up to $25 million itself, Deputy Agriculture Director George Whitehead has said.

His Cereal Was Loaded With Iron

SEATTLE (AP) — Rick McDonald eats his breakfast cereal with a magnet — quickly, before it rusts.

McDonald discovered the other day that the cereal he was eating — "Frosted Rice," a mineral-enriched cereal made by the Kellogg Co. — was laced with so much iron he literally could pick up bits of it with a magnet.

"Tiny black specks, that's what I saw," McDonald recalled. "They were all over the bottom of the dish, floating in the milk."

The 29-year-old television repairman suspected the residue in his cereal bowl was dirt or a form of iron used in cereals which are enriched with vitamins and minerals. The body requires a certain amount of iron in the daily diet, mainly to produce hemoglobin, the part of blood which carries oxygen.

McDonald checked by holding a magnet over the specks. They clung to the tip. A few sweeps and the dish was spotless.

A Kellogg executive told a local newspaper there is nothing harmful about the little black bits.

"It just doesn't look too good," he said.

Kellogg officials at company headquarters in Battle Creek, Mich., were not immediately available for additional comment.

McDonald felt the Kellogg folks had certainly given him his money's worth of mineral enrichment. But he didn't appreciate it.

"I thought, 'how rude of them to put this in my breakfast,'" he said.

He called the company for an explanation and, a few days later, received a refund check for $1.15 to cover the price of his purchase, along with an apology for the "experience with our cereal."

The executive who talked to the newspaper said there is a simple explanation for the cereal's odd characteristic: The iron is mixed into the sugar coating rather than with the cereal itself, and comes off when the cereal is soaked in milk.

There was no immediate explanation of how the mineral solidified out of the milk solution.

Frosted Rice is a relatively new cereal, with the same amount of iron as many of the company's other mineral-enriched cereals, the executive explained.

He said production of Frosted Rice uses a new method of mixing in the iron, and that the technique is not completely perfected.

To remedy the situation of the unappetizing visible specks, he said, the company has cut back the amount of iron enrichment in Frosted Rice from 25 per cent of the minimum adult daily requirement to 10 per cent.

HE TRUSTS SMITH
WASHINGTON (AP) — South African Ambassador R. F. Botha says Prime Minister Ian Smith can be taken at his word when he promises majority rule in Rhodesia within two years. "That's not the issue any more," Botha said in a farewell interview Wednesday. "The issue is who should represent the blacks."

State Agrees To Move Penta-Quarantine Milk

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state has agreed to store thousands of gallons of milk from eight quarantined Michigan dairy herds until the milk can be tested for traces of powerful poisons called dioxins. Assistant Atty. Gen. Harry Iwasko said tanker trucks first would be provided to two farmers who filed suit seeking to force the state to pay for disposing of the milk.

Later, Iwasko said, "we'll offer them to anyone who's been quarantined." He could not estimate the cost to the state.

Eight central Michigan dairy herds so far have been quarantined following tests which showed the animals had levels of a wood preservative pentachlorophenol, also known as PCP or penta.
